(See Page 16)

VANCOUVER (CP) — An incredible volume of more than 4,200,000 shares was traded on the Vancouver Stock Exchange in the first four hours today as buyers ignored warnings that they were dealing in speculation.

The total is near to the record all-day totals established Monday as speculators rushed to buy shares in companies with properties in the Pine Point area of the Northwest Territories.

In the first hour a record 1,381,000 shares were traded.

The wild pace that started with a report on a single test at the Pyramid Mines property at Pine Point brought warnings from John Van Luven, president of the exchange.

He said in a statement that the public should realize that nothing was known of the other properties except that they were near Pyramid and the rich Pine Point mine of Consolidated Mining and Smelting.

"I want the public to be made fully aware of the fact that a lot of these companies have so far only acquired property in the Pine Point area. There has been no work done on them. People should think of this before rushing to buy these stocks."

Later Mr. Van Luven said he has asked all the Pine Point companies on which there is a rush of trading to issue a press release on their properties. One company had already released a statement.

But sales continued. The Pyramid statement on its test was issued Friday when the stock was trading at $4.45 on the unlisted market.

The rush started Monday when a record 4,292,400 shares were traded. Tuesday the volume was only slightly less.

By noon today Pyramid had traded 78,300 shares and added $1.75 to its Tuesday price to reach $12.

MEET MY MOM, says Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal candidate Jim Gorst (right) when Immigration Minister John R. Nicholson dropped by Burnside campaign headquarters. Mrs. Gorst, 75, was one of about 30 people at hand-shaking, teacup-balancing reception this morning. Victoria Liberal candidate Dave Groos crossed the border from his riding for the welcome, too. Later, Mr. Nicholson addressed University of Victoria students, had lunch in Chinatown and visited with Chinese community elders. His Vancouver Centre riding includes Chinatown there.

Fights Mar Montreal Meeting

By IAN MacDONALD
Times Ottawa Bureau

When he spoke in English they chanted: "en Francais."

And when he spoke in French they also chanted: "en Francais."

Punches were exchanged and chairs overturned as Liberal supporters tried to shove them to the exit by force of numbers.

While they were cheering and applauding at the front of the hall, they were scrapping at the back.

At one time panic also swept through a part of the crowd as the strugglers swept forward, knocking over chairs by the dozen.

PICKETS ARRESTED

The separatists had put down their signs and come quietly into the hall after an exchange outside with police, which resulted in about a half-dozen being arrested.

The meeting ended without a major donnybrook, the action being confined to the area where the separatists were.

But Pearson was loudly cheered and applauded by his supporters as he played on the prosperity theme and the need for a majority government to keep it going.

And, turning to personality for about the first time in the campaign in a major way, took some swings of his own at Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker, without actually naming him. He said the Tory leadership didn't have the slightest idea of what co-operative federalism means; had criticized efforts to give Canada and not Great Britain

GRANTS FOR TOURISM PLEDGED BY LIBERALS

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson opened his final Ontario campaign swing today by telling a noon rally here the government will give financial assistance to the tourist industry, "one of Canada's most important."

He announced an accelerated depreciation program available to industries in designated areas will be extended to cover tourist facilities.

Between 200 and 300 persons filled the hotel dining room where Mr. Pearson spoke and more than 500 stood in the street outside.

He said the tourist industry is expected to be worth $1,000,000,000 by 1967.

Gas and Powder Wired to Clock

MONTREAL (CP)—"A big Molotov cocktail connected to a firing mechanism" was found Tuesday night in a hall where, minutes before, Prime Minister Pearson had addressed a big and scuffle-fraught Liberal election rally.

The description of the explosive device came from Montreal bomb-disposal police who were examining its components today.

It was found in the cavernous Showmart by building employees after the rally broke up. During the noisy meeting, police had unsuccessfully searched for a bomb following an anonymous telephone call.

The device found, one bomb-disposal officer said, was complete and "had all the reason in the world to go off."

It was discovered at a point about 200 feet from the stage where the prime minister spoke to 2,700 persons.

Before the rally started, four Quebec separatists were taken into custody when they ignored police orders to stop demonstrating in front of the Showmart's main entrance. There was no link reported between the explosives - discovery and any separatist group.

WRAPPED IN PAPER

The explosive device, wrapped in brown paper, consisted of a gallon can of what police called "an inflammable liquid most likely gasoline;" a bag of black powder immersed in the liquid and connected with two wires; and, attached to the wires, a large battery and a clock mechanism with its hands missing.

Police said they could not estimate the danger range of the explosive, since the blast might have blown out only the bottom of the can, or might have ripped out the sides too, thus giving a wider explosion range.

The primary effect would have been incendiary.

The lack of hands on the clock meant police had no way of telling when the mechanism was set to go off.

NO SPECIAL PLANS MADE

Montreal police said no special precautions are being taken for another political rally in the same hall tonight, at which NDP Leader Douglas is to speak, or for still another with Conservative Leader Diefenbaker at the east-end Maurice Richard Arena.

Montreal NDP spokesmen, also said they are making no special arrangements, but a high - ranking Conservative spokesman said the party has hired 150 police from a private police agency ot keep order inside the hall.

The spokesman added that 200 uniformed Montreal policemen would be patrolling outside. City police declined to comment on the statement, saying only that no special arrangements were being made.

Offered Vanderpols

'NO STRINGS' CITIZENSHIP

By PETE LOUDON

Mr. Nicholson, here on a pre-election visit, said Mr. and Mrs. Martin Vanderpol will receive their certificate without voicing allegiance with the phrase "so help me God."

The immigration minister said he was to meet Mr. Vanderpol later today at University of Victoria where he has been taking studies.

CONSCIENCE

Mr. and Mrs. Vanderpol made headlines last July when they refused on a matter of conscience to employ the accepted oath. Judge Montague Drake reluctantly refused them citizenship saying he was bound by the Citizenship Act.

However, Mr. Nicholson today said a court decision in a similar case, that of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bergsma of Caledonia, Ont., has made the usual oath unimportant and circumvents the Citizenship Act.

"The court of appeal in Ontario has settled the law. The judge in the Bergsma case delivered the certificate to the Bergsmas," said Mr. Nicholson.

"The decision by Judge Drake was handed down before he knew the decision on the Bergsma case. We sent it to him and asked him to review it and he has done so.

"The citizenship certificate is ready for presentation, but I frankly didn't want to proceed with it until the election was over. I'd be confident that Mr. Vanderpol would re-

Promotion Tied to Vote

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau Staff Writer

GODERICH, Ont. — Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker suggested here Tuesday that the national defence department was attempting to "scare" and "intimidate" members of the armed forces while the service vote is in progress.

"Strange things are happening in the last couple of days, I am informed," he said. He promised if elected prime minister to take immediate steps to restore the morale of the forces which he said had sunk to a low level.

"Instructions have gone out from the headquarters, the department at Ottawa, that there are not to be any promotions without the consent of the department," he said. The Opposition leader spoke to a crowd of 400 in the afternoon.

"What is the reason for this? Is this a form of intimidation?" he demanded to know.

OTTAWA CONTROL

The directive was in the form of a telegram. It was sent out Nov. 1 to all areas and commands, cancelling any further promotions, unless special authority was received from Ottawa.

The order did three things, according to Mr. Diefenbaker:

(2)—Promotions in trade categories have been frozen.

(3)—Four must go out, before one can be promoted.

This move had undermined the services' morale, which he said was already at a very low level.

Mr. Diefenbaker suggested that a reason for the "strange order" from Ottawa was to "scare the commanding officers" with regard to the taking of the "franchise."

MILITARY VOTE

He said the result had been "uneasiness in the armed forces." Mr. Diefenbaker pointed out the taking of the military vote has started.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the low morale had resulted in part from the forces retirements. He said there was a two-page document referring to forced retirement.

One section said officers were to be retired who had become redundant. "That means," he

BOMB THREAT AT PRINCESS

LONDON (UPI)—A bomb threat has forced a heavy police guard to be placed tonight over the British Overseas Airways Super-VC10 airliner which will fly Princess Margaret to San Francisco Thursday.

The princess and her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, are scheduled to leave London airport at 11 a.m. (3 a.m. PST).

Airline security patrols and ministry of aviation police mounted an all-night watch on the plane after an anonymous male caller called the press room at London airport and said: "I feel someone in authority should know about this. An attempt will be made to bring down Princess Margaret's flight, either by a bomb or by other dubious methods."

Save-Area-Seats Battle Launched

A struggle for retention of all six Greater Victoria seats in the provincial legislature began this morning in Victoria Law Courts.

Alan MacFarlane, Liberal member for Oak Bay, was the first to jump into the fight with a strong brief arguing history, logic and arithmetic demand that Greater Victoria has six seats although they should be redefined.

The question was raised by Dr. Henry F. Angus, chairman of a royal commission on redistribution of provincial constituencies, who opened public hearings here with a request for opinions on whether or not the number should be cut to five.

Dr. Angus said the three Victoria seats and one each in Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt represent an average of only 15,400 voters apiece compared with the 16,790-voter average for all 52 provincial constituencies.

NORTH BOOSTED

He said it appeared the lower mainland and Kootenay Valley may have to give up some of their seats so that more could be added to the remote areas of the north, thus raising the question "whether Greater Victoria should share this burden with them and have not six members but five."

Mr. MacFarlane opposed the suggestion adamantly but said it would be more fair to take one of the Victoria seats and create a new one in Saanich.

None of the Victoria MLAs —Works Minister W. N. Chant, Waldo Skillings and J. Donald Smith—showed up for the opening. Mr. MacFarlane and Social Credit MLAs Herbert Bruch of Esquimalt and John Tisdalle of Saanich came prepared to make submissions.

"To diminish the total number of members representing lower Vancouver Island would be to defy history and logic," Mr. MacFarlane, the first, said in a written brief.

POPULATION

He said cutting the number here would not help doing justice to the provincial balance and argued that the commission "should try to achieve the ideal, namely, representation by population—and southern Vancouver Island is a good place to start."

He said this area has had six seats since the first legislature when there were a total of only

Pacifist Suicides by Fire Protesting U.S. Viet Role

WASHINGTON (AP)—A pacifist sacrificed himself in flames in front of the Pentagon Tuesday to protest the U.S. government's "deep military involvement" in Viet Nam.

Norman R. Morrison, a Baltimore Quaker, clutched his one-year-old baby daughter Emily in one arm as he began to burn. Screams of "drop the baby" from onlookers may have saved her life, for she fell uninjured to the ground.

Morrison, 31, drenched in kerosene, was a human torch in full view of hundreds of defence department workers and military men.

It was dusk and the Pentagon's thousands were streaming for home.

He had picked a spot within sight of Defence Secretary Robert McNamara's office window. But McNamara, in his office at the time, was unaware of the incident.

MORRISON

Army Maj. Richard Lundquist said Morrison "yelled something" as he stood on a concrete abutment.

The Washington Post quoted a Quaker friend of Morrison's as saying the dead man twice before had been dissuaded from immolating himself.

The unnamed Baltimore source said the first occasion came during a summer demonstration, and the second several weeks ago as he and others picketed outside the Pentagon.

About five hours after Morrison's death, his wife, in a statement issued through family friends, said:

"Norman Morrison has given his life today to express his concern over the great loss of life and human suffering caused by the war in Viet Nam.

"He was protesting our government's deep military involvement in this war. He felt

Lone Liberal Kept CCF Out, Says Winch

VANCOUVER (CP)—The former socialist opposition leader in the British Columbia legislature Tuesday night told the story of how but for the orders of a Liberal federal official he would have become premier.

Harold Winch broke years of silence to tell this and two other heretofore unrevealed stories at a celebration honoring his 32nd anniversary in public life.

Mr. Winch is seeking re-election as New Democratic Party member of Parliament for Vancouver East. He was first elected to the B.C. legislature in 1933, was leader of the opposition from 1941 to 1953 when he resigned and entered federal politics.

His other two stories were of an attempt to "bribe" him to give up politics and of a time the Conservatives in the legislature attempted to "double-cross" the Liberals.

Mr. Winch said in 1952 Social Credit elected 19 members and the then CCF had 18. In the 1953 sitting of the legislature, the Social Credit government invited defeat by introducing a budget unacceptable to the combined opposition which included six Liberals, two Conservatives and a Labor Independent.

WINCH

"It is tradition, and customary in the British system of government, that if a government is defeated in the first session after an election the lieutenant-governor invites any party capable of forming the government to do so," Mr. Winch said.

Mr. Winch said the CCF could have formed that government because it had received promise of support from the Conservatives and Tom Uphill, the Independent.

He said he told the then lieutenant - governor, Clarence

ELECTION TRAILS

B.C. Ballots May Not Count

Unless there is a close contest in Monday's federal election, the indicated result should be available before the votes are counted in British Columbia starting at 7 p.m.

This is because of the time zone difference between here and other parts of the country. All polls are open between 8 a.m. and 7 p.m. local time.

This means polls in Newfoundland close 4½ hours ahead of B.C. polls and other Maritime areas close four hours ahead.

Counting in the big population areas of Ontario and Quebec will be under way three hours before polls close in B.C.

Under a 1938 federal law, eastern election results cannot be broadcast or published until polls close in later time zones. It has been claimed that before 1938 this influenced western voting.

In 1963, when there was a close vote, Canadian Press news service reported—but not for B.C. ears—at 6:21 p.m. Pacific time the Liberals would have the largest single group in the House of Commons.

By 7:52 p.m. our time, it was announced the Liberals had won the election but without a majority.

But in the 1958 Conservative landslide, the re-election of the party was reported one hour and two minutes after polls closed in Ontario and Quebec—or two hours before voting stopped in B.C.

DEAD MAN ELECTED

DOYLESTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Residents in the nearby Bucks County community of Plumstead township elected a dead man to its board of supervisors Tuesday.

Eli M. Myers, Republican, received 591 votes to 463 for his opponent, Democrat J. Earll Yerkes.

Myers was killed Sunday night in an automobile accident.

The board of supervisors will appoint someone to take his place.

Paris Visitor To Address Alliance Meet

Noel Balliff, Alliance Francaise speaker from Paris, will address the Victoria branch of the Alliance Nov. 16 at 8 p.m. in the Art Gallery, Moss Street.

His topic will be "Mont Saint-Michel et l'Epopee Normande."

A Paris-born author, explorer and documentary film producer, Mr. Balliff has won many awards and prizes for his work.

In 1946 he organized an expedition for the French government to study African pygmies, and in 1949 headed an expedition to the Antilles and made a prize-winning film series on the centenary of the abolition of slavery.

Other films include his Europe, Human Adventure, Persepolis, about Iran, Ispahan, la moitie du Monde, and Terre Humaine, about the United Nations.

The meeting is open to Alliance members; admission will be charged for non-members.

Alliance members will meet at 1 p.m. Monday at the Art Gallery for lunch and French conversation. Mme. E. Down will speak on Education in France at 3 p.m.

Non-members may attend and information is available from Mme. K. Stone, 383-4036, or Mme. E. Bridgen, 383-3577.

said, "you can remove anyone by saying 'sorry old fellow you have become redundant.'"

FORCED RETIREMENT

Another said members of the forces could be retired if they were unsuitable for "occupational employment," commented Mr. Diefenbaker, "whatever that means."

Another category calls for retirement of those who interfered with "the maintenance of the career structure."

In addition the compulsory retirement age had been advanced "in order to remove anyone who does not fit," said Mr. Diefenbaker.

"Those rules are red tape gone mad," he shouted. "We will take those rules and throw them out the window." His audience applauded vigorously.

"We will restore the morale of the armed forces," he said. Again there was a burst of applause.

Mr. Diefenbaker said it was a "shameful thing" that young men were being retired from the armed forces "for all sorts of excuses. He said a government under his leadership would seek to encourage young men to re-enlist. It would offer a "premium" for young men to re-enlist and in this way the forces could continue to benefit from the large investment that had been made in their training.

NEW TRIBUNAL

The opposition leader reiterated what he has already said in this campaign about providing better treatment for members of the civil service including collective bargaining. He said a special tribunal would be set up consisting of one representative appointed by the Civil Service Federation, one by the treasury board and a supreme court judge as chairman.

Mr. Diefenbaker said a government of which he was the head would allow war veterans to collect their war veterans allowances and receive the old age pension at the same time.

Speaking in this agricultural section of southwestern Ontario Mr. Diefenbaker promised a Conservative government at Ottawa would take steps to stabilize price levels. It would act to rescue the farmer from the cost price squeeze.

POSTER PICTURE

At one side of the platform from which he spoke was a large blow-up of a photograph showing Mr. Diefenbaker and Premier John Robarts of Ontario exchanging smiles. This photograph in large poster size, appears at most major political rallies addressed by Mr. Diefenbaker in Ontario.

At the front of the hall there were two Union Jacks, one Maple Leaf and one Red Ensign.

He predicted that a tide was going to grow this week in favor of the Conservatives. He noted that several newspapers had "come over" to the support of the Conservatives in their editorial pages.

TWO NATIONS

Mr. Diefenbaker said under the Liberal government Canada now has two flags, two nations and two laws.

"One law for you and me and another for Banks and Bonano and Rivard and all those others," he said.

In Toronto, Defence Minister Hellyer issued a statement saying:

"This statement of Mr. Diefenbaker's that promotions are frozen is absolutely false. Promotions are not frozen. There will be more promotions in this year than last year and there will be more than the average in each of the last five years.

"I do not know where Mr. Diefenbaker is getting his information but it is entirely wrong."

'Grits to Sleep If Get Majority'

WINNIPEG (CP) — With Prime Minister Pearson's appeal for a majority government still echoing in the rafters, NDP Leader T. C. Douglas argued in Civic Auditorium Tuesday night that a majority would put the Liberals to sleep.

He told his large audience of the campaign — 4,700 persons who filled the auditorium and spilled into a concert hall behind the main stage—that "giving the Liberals a majority is like giving Rip Van Winkle a sleeping pill."

The prime minister, Mr. Douglas charged, called the Nov. 8 election to try for a majority to avoid implementing measures the opposition would have forced on him.

Mr. Pearson could have put through a medical insurance program, increased old age pensions and turned money over to the provinces to abolish university tuition fees without an election because the NDP would have supported him, he said.

The prime minister drew an overflow crowd of more than 5,000 to the same auditorium Monday night.

A dozen youthful hecklers provided the first organized disturbances at an NDP rally in this campaign. They hooted from the back of the hall, but were herded out by police at the request of ushers.

Candidates from 12 of the province's 14 ridings were on the platform with Mr. Douglas. His speech was heard at rallies in the other two ridings through a telephone hookup.

Mr. Douglas pledged the NDP to lower National Housing Act interest rates to three per cent from 6¼. He also said an NDP government would make NHA loans available to buy existing housing.

"We feel that the burden of becoming a house owner is too heavy for those families with young children who are the very ones who should have this opportunity."

Under existing NHA rates an $18,000 home actually costs $35,000, he said.

At an airport press conference earlier Tuesday Mr. Douglas said the party is pledged to making the government's municipal loan fund a permanent corporation and placing it under the wing of a proposed department of urban affairs and housing.

Today Mr. Douglas flew to Montreal for an evening rally.

final rights to change its constitution, and one who opposed the national flag.

Some organizers later admitted the show mart was a poor choice for the rally, and the show was disappointing.

The building is longer than a football field and narrower. At the back, it was like looking at the stage through a keyhole. Although there were enough people to have filled all 2,700 chairs set out if they had sat down, organizers were not too happy about the meeting.

They said lack of organization and weather (it was a chilly, freezing night) had cut down the size of the crowd.

But there was lots of noise and enthusiasm apart from the separatists and one candidate was carried in in a kind of sedan chair and preceeded by a blaring bugle band.

Like most Quebec political meetings the speakers gave it all they had and there was an enormous platform party.

But unlike Winnipeg the night before, this meeting did not have enteratinment and stage-presentation.

Pearson was wearing a red carnation in his buttonhole and when he took the stage to thunderous applause and French equivalent of For He's a Jolly Good Fellow. An old legionaire pinned a poppy on his other lapel before he started to speak.

Pearson, who spoke for only 15 minutes, about the shortest speech of the campaign, got angry as the chanting kept up at the back and said he was going to throw away his script.

The prime minister spoke of current prosperity, low unemployment, and the need for a strong central government to ensure that the people in all parts of Canada benefit from the boom.

"Do you want a government in this country that caused its Quebec leader (Leon Balcer) to resign because he says there is no place in the party under its present leadership, no place for a French - Canada," Pearson said.

"Do you want that kind of government?" he asked.

"No," roared the crowd.

Wallace, he was prepared to form a government.

'He said: 'I'm sorry Mr. Winch, but you're not going to be invited to form a government. I have my instructions from the secretary of state at Ottawa that under no circumstances will the CCF be allowed to form a coalition government."

The secretary of state at the time was Liberal F. G. Bradley.

Mr. Winch said in 1952 after the Social Credit government was elected "the powers that be said that Winch had been around too long."

"A person approached me and said: 'If you'll get out of politics, we'll give you a lifetime contract at a wonderful salary—I don't need to tell you what my answer was to this bribe."

He said a history of B.C. politics he is writing will name names.

Mr. Winch said in 1941 no party had a majority and a "call went out to form a coalition."

"The CCF made it clear we would not enter a coalition with either the Liberals or Conservatives and the session was called without it being clear who the cabinet ministers were."

The Liberal leader told Mr. Winch one day the Conservatives demanded an additional cabinet post to the number agreed to in previous discussions. The Conservatives were also demanding a post heretofore guaranteed to the Liberals.

"He asked me what I would do in the situation. I said 'You tell the Conservatives to go to hell. Tell Maitland you're going to carry on as a minority and the CCF will support you.'"

Hart told Mr. Winch 30 minutes later the Conservatives had backed down and a coalition was formed.

that all citizens must speak their convictions about our country's action."

Emily, one of three small children in the Morrison family, was being tended by an army nurse. She was unharmed by the experience.

Later, Dr. Stephen Sheehy, Arlington, Va., county coroner, told reporters 70 per cent of Morrison's body was covered with second and third-degree burns.

Sheehy said "the nature of the burns would indicate it was kerosene" that Morrison had poured over himself before setting the fire.

One Pentagon guard said that for about 45 minutes before the immolation he noticed Morrison walking about with the baby in one arm and a gallon - size container in the other.

A spokesman for the Stoney Run Meeting, the Quaker organization that employed Morrison as a full-time executive secretary, termed him a "spiritual leader."

Morrison was born in Erie, Pa., after graduating from Wooster College in Ohio, he studied at New College in Edinburgh and later was graduated from Pittsburgh Theology Seminary. He moved to Baltimore after teaching school in Charlotte, N.C.

Mrs. Morrison, a tall and dark - haired woman, was born in Asheville, N.C. She, too, is a Quaker.

ceive his certificate at an early date."

The minister said, "I thought that since emotion is so involved, the sensible thing would be to let it stand until after the election."

He stated that several amendments have been drafted for the act aimed at removing distinctions now made between naturalized and natural born citizens. But the controversy over the "so help me God" phrase doesn't have to go into the law since it has been settled by the courts.

Mr. Nicholson added, "The fact that they wouldn't take the oath indicates that they consider obligations of this kind very seriously.

'BETTER CITIZEN'

"A person who couldn't take the oath on grounds of conscience is more apt to be a better citizen than one who takes it glibly."

He said the test for citizenship in Canada is whether the applicant will make a good citizen and become well-established in Canada and whether he is religious doesn't have bearing.

Mr. Nicholson remarked also on a recent statement by Conservative leader John Diefenbaker that many immigrants from iron curtain countries become tools of Communism when relatives left at home are threatened.

The situation is not a danger in Canada but must be watched, said the minister. He said before applicant immigrants are accepted they are screened in their own countries by visa officers. He admitted the procedure is more difficult in Communist-controlled countries.

Rhodesia Proposals Get Vote Test

LONDON (UPI) — Britain reluctantly agreed today to let the Rhodesian government's proposals for independence be submitted to the white-ruled African colony as a whole.

These proposals are the present 1961 constitution with certain as-yet unreleased amendments recommended by Rhodesian premier Ian Smith.

The British government is convinced that the colony — with more than four million black Africans to only 220,000 whites—will reject the proposals.

But Prime Minister Harold Wilson is prepared to call Smith's bluff and let him find out for himself through some sort of opinion poll to be devised by a joint royal commission.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Rain will continue on the south coast today until the main part of an extensive weather disturbance crosses into the interior this evening. Showers will also spread into the western interior this morning and reach eastern regions by evening. By Thursday morning the system should be in Alberta. The air following the disturbance is moist and unsettled and will make Thursday mostly cloudy with scattered showers.

CABINET SWAYED BY PROTESTS

Sewage Green Light Turns Red

A storm of protest last summer over pollution of Portage Inlet and Gorge waterway resulted Tuesday in cancellation of a permit to discharge more effluent from a sewage treatment plant.

A provincial cabinet order upheld appeals filed by Esquimalt and a private citizen, Lloyd Smith, 137 Kingham Place.

The permit was granted on Saanich's application last May. It allowed the treatment plant at Northridge subdivision to double its discharge to 70,000 gallons daily, emptying into Colquitz Creek, which drains into Portage Inlet.

The increased discharge was to cover 140 homes yet to be built on the subdivision off north Carey Road.

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant said the cabinet's thinking was that it would be better to avoid dumping more effluent into Colquitz Creek "because people on the Gorge seem to be opposed to it."

In addition, the effluent might worsen conditions already prevailing in the area, he added.

During the summer, Gorge residents banded into the 500-member Portage Inlet and Gorge Waterway Association to resist any move to add to existing pollution.

They presented petitions containing more than 7,000 signatures to the Pollution Control Board, which issued the now-cancelled permit earlier this year.

Reaction was immediate to the cancellation.

"That's very good news," said Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele.

"I can certainly appreciate Saanich's difficulties but the Gorge has a tremendous potential and our expert has advised council it would be a backward step to allow any sewage to go into it."

'DECLARATION'

Said Mr. Smith: "This is terrific news. It is, in fact, a declaration that the Gorge is protected from pollution."

The cancellation was called a step in the right direction by James Gorst, president of the Portage Inlet and Gorge Waterway Association.

"Next we will have to clean up any pollution which is there now."

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis said the decision was not unexpected "and certainly we accept the decision."

Works Minister Chant warned that cancellation of this permit will not solve the problems of the Gorge "by any stretch of the imagination."

Cleaning up the area will require much more than refraining from dumping more sewage.

27,000-POUND SATELLITE IN ORBIT

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union Tuesday night blasted a massive 27,000-pound proton satellite into orbit to equal its own heavy-weight space record.

The official Soviet Tass news agency said the satellite, named "Proton-2," was orbiting the earth "with a set of control and measuring instruments."

Tass gave the weight of the satellite as 12.2 metric tons. A metric ton is equal to 2,204.6 pounds.

Its weight matched that of Proton-1, which was launched July 16.

PLANS VISIT TO U.S.

Shastri Attacked for Trip

NEW DELHI (AP)—Communist members of Parliament tried to censure Prime Minister Shastri today on the ground he had accepted an invitation from President Johnson to visit the United States.

Hiren Mukerjee, Communist leader, said the U.S. provided Pakistan with equipment to use in the war against India. Under the circumstances a visit by Shastri to Washington would damage Indian "honor and interests."

The prime minister's supporters said Shastri has declined to say whether any U.S. invitation has been accepted and Speaker Hukam Singh refused to allow the censure motion along with several others raised to protest the government's food policy.

Shastri in Calcutta Tuesday said he would go to the United States, but he couldn't say when.

Holding the Line

PRIME MINISTER WILSON HAS reported to Parliament on his recent efforts in Rhodesia, and the best that can be said for his peace mission is that he has won time.

That, however, is no small achievement. Unless Rhodesia's Prime Minister Smith was bluffing —and the heated support of 250,000 white residents of the country gave every indication of grim determination — Mr. Wilson achieved somewhat of a triumph by getting the explosive situation back from the brink of revolution and war, and up to the conference table.

There is still no indication of agreement on a method whereby Rhodesia can assume full political independence while safeguarding the eventual rights of the four million members of the Negro population. The present parliamentary system gives the whites 50 seats and the blacks 15, and so preserves the rule of the white minority.

Obviously, in the current condition of African resurgence, such a situation cannot be permanent. With every encouragement from neighboring black-ruled states, frustrated Rhodesian non-whites would almost inevitably turn to force to assert their political rights, however ill-equipped they may be to govern themselves. The British policy, as emphasized by Mr. Wilson, is to guarantee, both in the letter and spirit of the constitution, that the black population will be educated and aided to manage its political duties, even though this process may not be completed for some time.

Mr. Smith is still far from accepting what he sees as the beginning of the end of white rule in Rhodesia. No doubt many long months of argument are in store. But at least the threat of warfare between Britain and Rhodesia has relaxed, and the evidence of adverse world opinion, with its proposals for boycotting Rhodesia if unilateral action is taken, appear to have persuaded Mr. Smith to seek further for a solution.

The Unfortunate Postscript

IT WOULD BE MOST UNFORtunate if the eminently honorable and useful career of Mr. M. J. Coldwell in Canadian politics should now be damaged by his post-retirement participation in the current election campaign.

As leader of the CCF Party, Mr. Coldwell won the admiration and respect of all members of parliament and country-wide acceptance as a valuable contributor to the Canadian parliamentary system. But if a recent statement by Mr. Coldwell in Vancouver has been correctly reported, his opinion of the workings of parliament has sadly deteriorated.

"We must have a minority government," Mr. Coldwell is reported as saying, "that will be answerable to parliament and have to yield to the men who represent the aspirations of the Canadian people."

Such a remark is filled with invalid assumptions and wrong conclusions. It implies that only a minority government is "answerable to parliament." Every government must be so answerable, whether it enjoys a majority or a minority of the members of the Commons. That is the central principle of the parliamentary system and its strength today is the result of centuries of political evolution.

Mr. Coldwell's comment dismisses it without a qualm. Only a minority government constantly teetering on the brink of immediate defeat, he implies, would conform to the need for responsibility to the nation's legislature. Such a proposal is unworthy.

Then Mr. Coldwell calls for a weak government which will have "to yield to the men who represent the aspirations of the Canadian people". The implication here is that the party which has received the most support from the voters and won the greatest number of seats does not represent the people's aspirations — whereas the smaller parties and splinter groups which form the opposition must automatically carry within themselves the real, unexpressed hopes of the nation. This, surely, is a delusion of grandeur.

Mr. Coldwell's career will not be judged on his recent statement, of course. One cannot help but wish, however, that he had not made it.

New Light on Unemployment

SOME SERIOUS RETHINKING about unemployment seems to be going on in the United States government, judging from an article in the "Monthly Labor Review" published by the Department of Labor.

The article, assessing a special report on unemployment, noted that the traditional view of the jobless roll as being primarily made up of persons who have lost their jobs is only half true. Last December, for instance, there were 3.5 million persons listed as unemployed. But, the study showed, slightly more than 50 per cent of these people had not lost their jobs in the usual sense. About one in eight had left previous employment voluntarily; one in six had never worked before; and more than one in five was in the process of re-entering the labor force after a period in which he had neither worked nor sought work.

Another survey taken by the Department of Labor in June of last year showed even more startling results. Of 4.7 million unemployed Americans at that time, 52 per cent were new labor force entrants and more than half of these had no prior work experience at all. The difference from the December report, of course, was attributable to the fact that a large number of young people were looking for vacation time jobs.

To a degree at least these surveys seem to disprove the quite common assumption that the primary area of unemployment involves workers involuntarily separated from jobs by automation. And they also indicate that the main problem area is teen-agers and young adults seeking their first employment.

The author of the article also says that the survey figures showing a high degree of voluntary job-leaving and temporary retirement from the labor force, give a different picture of the mobility of workers and the flexibility of the labor force from what customarily has been accepted.

It seems reasonable to assume that the first conclusion made from the survey — that the prime area needing attention is in teen-agers and young adults looking for their first jobs—can be readily translated into Canadian terms. It may seem rather doubtful that the second conclusion on mobility and flexibility of the labor force holds as true in this country as it does in the United States, although it, too, will no doubt come as Canada continues to grow industrially.

A Day for Discoverers?

NEW EVIDENCE AUTHENTIcating the pre-Columbus arrival on this continent of the Norsemen — probably 500 years before Christopher came across — has led an American newspaper to suggest that the early and intrepid navigators be honored with an annual "Norsemen's Day" to compare in importance with Columbus Day.

In Canada we seem a little slow to establish a system of paying tribute to our early discoverers. Certainly we should be as interested as the United States in the Norsemen, who probably touched down on what is now part of Canada before reaching "Vinland". We could also have feast days to commemorate Cabot, Cartier and, on the West Coast, Cook.

"I rather like the idea of getting him to sit down for a while . . . !"

FROM LONDON — By MARTIN DEWEY

Morals and Politics in Primate's Stand

IF there is anything that people dislike more than a clergyman who sits on the fence during times of great moral decisions, it is a clergyman who has the effrontry to climb down from the fence. Or so it must seem to the Archbishop of Canterbury in the midst of the hubbub that greeted his statement on Rhodesia last week. Perhaps Dr. Ramsey has read The Deputy, the play criticizing Pope Pius XII for his alleged silence on the Jewish question in Germany during the Second World War. At any rate, Britain's leading churchman is not going to let it be said that he stood idly by while the politicians in London and Salisbury decided the fate of Rhodesia's four million black inhabitants.

Dewey

Gathering up his skirts and his courage, Dr. Ramsey last Tuesday urged the British Council of Churches to assure Prime Minister Harold Wilson in Salisbury that "a large body of Christian opinion" would support the government if it became necessary to use force against a rebellious Rhodesia.

It was a bit much for the council, which contented itself with passing a motion leaving open the question of force. In the event of a unilateral declaration of independence by Rhodesia's white minority government, Britain should "undertake such measures, including economic measures, as may be required" to protect the black majority.

Sharpest Blast

Even so, the vehemence of the reaction to the archbishop's advice must have made Dr. Ramsey wonder whether Pope Pius, as depicted in the play, did not have the right idea. He has been roundly condemned for what he said, for his timing and for the fact that he dared interfere in political matters at all. Predictably, the sharpest blast came from Rhodesian government representatives in London. Calling the archbishop's statement "inflamatory," Rhodesia House struck up a tune that has become rather familiar:

"Certainly none of us in Rhodesia who 20 years ago fought with Britain against the common foe could ever have foreseen the time when the primate of all England would publicly support the despatch of our former comrades in arms to shoot down their own kith and kin."

Abandoning for a moment the "kith and kin, right or wrong" approach, Prime Minister Ian Smith Thursday saw the archbishop's statement in a more practical light:

"I suppose I must be grateful for the worthy gentleman's remarks. I gather we lost a little ground when we restricted Mr. Garfield Todd (a former Rhodesion prime minister). Now we have more than made up for lost ground."

Scottish Dissent

Moreover, it quickly became clear that the primate of all England could not presume to speak for the Church of Scotland, a member of the British Council of Churches. The Scottish church, which likes to be above politics, had already dabbled in dangerous waters by uttering on the Rhodesian question. What's more, in doing so it has declared itself as being entirely opposed to the use of force.

Dr. Ramsey was even disowned, by implication, by the prime minister himself, whose hand the archbishop had presumably been trying to strengthen. In the midst of knocking heads together in Rhodesia, Mr. Wilson went out of his way to make it clear to African leaders that they were wrong if they based their strategy on the assumption that Britain would come running to their side with troops.

More thunderbolts were directed at the archbishop's venerable white head by a number of Conservative MPs, whose indignation was only slightly restrained by prescribed formal relationships between themselves and a member of the House of Lords. Some complained that Dr. Ramsey's intervention was untimely and that it was, among other things, "a cardinal blunder" with Mr. Wilson engaged in a delicate operation in Rhodesia.

Coming from politicians not normally so concerned for the success of the prime minister's ventures, such remarks are at least a little suspect. However, these Conservatives were on firmer ground than others who blamed the archbishop for advocating a policy to which "a large section" of British opinion objects—and thus, somehow, the archbishop could pronounce on a moral question only when his view was in accord with that of the majority.

It remained for 26 Labor and Liberal MPs to make it clear that the Rhodesian question is no longer the bipartisan matter that it was originally. In a telegram, they congratulated the archbishop on his "courageous" stand. It was more than a coincidence that the only Conservatives to make their views known were critical of Dr. Ramsey and that the only members of the two other major parties to make their views known were on his side. For the drift of events since the heady days of all party unity on Rhodesia has produced a split neatly dividing the Conservatives from all others.

The Conservatives have not been able to oppose the government's basic negotiating position because in all important respects it was laid down by their own party while still in office. It is an awkward position for a party that likes to feel that anything done by the Socialist government is disastrously bad and they have got around it by differing from Mr. Wilson and his colleagues on what to do if the negotiations fail and Mr. Smith snatches his independence.

Wrong to Rebel

At heart, one suspects, a majority of Conservatives feel the Rhodesians would be wrong to rebel against the Queen but that, if they did, the British government should do as little as possible about it. Duty, honor and that sort of thing extend only to discouraging Mr. Smith betore the event, and there is much mention of the bond of race and background. Government supporters, in marked contrast, tend to feel that such talk dangerously weakened Mr. Wilson's position and that the question of British response to a UDI should remain ominously open.

At any other moment, it could be argued that Dr. Ramsey had performed a service by forcing this basic disagreement into the open where it could be grappled with. However, the reactions of both Mr. Wilson and Mr. Smith seem to indicate in fact that the archbishop has made his move at an unfortunate moment. After all, Mr. Wilson's authority derives largely from the determination of his countrymen. For the British consensus to begin crumbling while Mr. Wilson was in Rhodesia could only make his task the more difficult.

But then the Archbishop of Canterbury is not a politician, as we have been so vigorously reminded in the past few days. He is first and foremost, the official spokesman for the state church. It is perhaps unfortunate that the archbishop's conscience does not quite accommodate itself to the political timetable, but there may well be many Britons who feel that having a primate with an unruly conscience is better than having one with no conscience at all.

FROM WASHINGTON — By CHARLES BARTLETT

Only Pallid Admiration

AN ambitious man has many masters and a President aspiring to be greater than any of the 34 predecessors finds it hard to sit idle for long beside a pool in the Texas sun.

The mounting frequency of the telephone calls from the ranch and the signs that Lyndon Johnson will be back in Washington before anyone expects him mean that he has rejected the hiatus to which his exertions and his operation entitle him. No one would question the logic of a pause after 23 intense months but Mr. Johnson prefers to sustain the momentum of his administration.

A less ambitious and less strenuous president would find many reasons to stay and soak in the sunshine. Most of the program is in the legislative bag; the popularity polls and the Dow-Jones averages are high; the war in South Viet Nam goes well. But an unusual man aspiring to a unique niche can only count past successes as a prologue.

Lack of Emotion

Public opinion pollsters, asked how Mr. Johnson can improve his standing, continue to respond that they find a lack of emotion and affection in the majority support for him. Mr. Johnson could presumably trounce any Republican, including Gen. Eisenhower, in a race this November. But as Stewart Alsop reported in the Saturday Evening Post after polling across the country: "Most of the President's admirers admire him rather pallidly, in an oddly impersonal fashion, as a professional, a great technician—rather as they might admire a first-rate lawyer or even a really expert plumber."

This is the price of proficiency. Mr. Johnson has bent his personal qualities so hard and so long to the pursuit of his political objectives that he comes through, even at close range, as an almost abstract epitome of effectiveness. He performs more thoughtful gestures than any president, signs more pictures, hosts more meals, writes more notes, and makes more calls. But these are taken as a mark of Johnson the effective man and not of Johnson the man.

His lapses into purely human attitudes, like the refusal last week to indorse the Democrat in the New York mayor's race on the day that his indorsement was expected, are often a reflection of his stubbornness, his aversion to being pushed.

The pursuit of a mass affection by such a man is certain to be less rewarding than the exercise of his effectiveness. His early Congressional career was built less on charm than on the boast that his office was open around the clock and all his mail was answered in 24 hours. Similarly his presidency will be gauged less by its atmosphere than by its actions.

Mr. Johnson may have been thinking in personal terms last August when he philosophized that it is much more important for a nation to be respected than loved. As true as this is, the key challenge that awaits the President and is drawing him out of Texas is the necessity to establish firmer bonds of understanding between Washington and the major foreign capitals, allied and unaligned.

John E. Kennedy remarked casually sometime before he died that if Lyndon Johnson became president, he would be a good one but that it might take him two years to get the feel of foreign relations. This prediction gains interest from the fact that the only significant blur on the record of the past 23 months is the decline in the empathy of this nation's dealings around the world.

Little Sensitivity

This is partly attributable to the crisis in Viet Nam but it is also due to Mr. Johnson. He has generated a feeling that his government lacks sensitivity toward the problems and positions of foreign governments. This impression will be a handicap as he undertakes to lead the world into a deeper detente with the communists or a firmer alliance against them.

One of Mr. Johnson's most effective virtues is a readiness to move against his weaknesses. Some 56 foreign ambassadors have been invited in small groups to lunch at the White House in the past few months. Their host is Jack Valente, who takes pains to discuss their special problems, but the appearances of the President, informal and persuasive, are the useful core of these affairs.

More than this will be required in the coming weeks, however, as Mr. Johnson tackles the Gordian Knot of the Atlantic Alliance. The de Gaulle dilemma has posed a need for timing and statesmanship. Mr. Johnson's aim to be the greatest president of all is an assurance that he will do his best.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"I'LL LET THE EDUCATORS WORRY ABOUT THE DROP-OUT PROBLEM. I'VE GOT A DROP-IN PROBLEM!"

Letters

Sweet Hope

Another Irish sweepstake has gone with the wind, yet the federal government refuses to do anything about it.

The PM says he can't raise the old age pension, yet he'll sit back and watch $20,000,000 a year leave the country. One of the excuses is that Canada hasn't the population, but the U.S.A. has and for every ticket sold in Canada two will be bought in the States.

When someone does get the ball rolling the churches start to howl. To my way of thinking a $3 sweep ticket gives me more hope than $3 in the collection plate.—R. G. Emery, 1851 Midgard St.

Faubus and Evolution

Governor Faubus of Arkansas doesn't believe in the theory of evolution, not to say the fact. That is his right, of course, but he doesn't want the students in the schools of Arkansas to even hear about evolution, and that is where he's in trouble with the educators.

There's been little or no evolution in some respects down in his bailiwick during his regency, nor will there be if he has his way.

This trouble has to do with a 36-year-old Arkansas law banning the teaching of evolution in public schools. Educators want that statute killed on the ground that it "impugns the integrity, the judgment and the convictions of school teachers."

The governor, however, thinks it is a good law and is dead set against its repeal. "The Bible says that man was put on earth," says he, "that's good enough for me."—Harold V. O'Reilly, Oak Bay.

For Conservatives

To me it seems that unless there is a change in government our greatest danger could be the breakup of our grand country. . . We need Quebec—Quebec Needs Us. An overhaul of the B.N.A. Act is long overdue.

Re the B.N.A. Act, Mr. Diefenbaker has stated he has definite plans for a full and intelligent discussion in which all provinces, business and labor leaders will take part. This will no doubt result in the changes which will give us a "United One Nation Canada."

All young Canadians will be able to live a full life, and the increase in Old Age Pension to $100 per month without means test will assure the aged of a little more comfort in their declining years.

For these, and many other reasons, in this election I wholeheartedly support the Progressive Conservative Party, and our excellent Victoria candidate.—P. G. Barr, 1373 Rockland.

Regional Board

In addition to voting on the inclusion of hospitals under the "regional board," Saanich voters and, for that matter, voters in other municipalities should have the opportunity to express an opinion via the polls whether or not they desire their respective councils to participate in the proposed "regional board."

When the regional board idea was first mooted, I was of the opinion that this was an ideal way in which problems common to adjoining municipalities could be solved. After a careful study of the legislation under which the board would be set up, I am now of the opinion that we would be creating a bureaucratic monster, open to pressure from above to include more and more services, some of which are the responsibility of the provincial government.

A regional board will, in my opinion, add to the administrative costs, be time and labor consuming, cause duplication of effort and, last but not least, lead to the erosion of local autonomy.—H. Shergold, 1977 Saltair Crescent.

Ferment

Parliament did not require a majority government to vote its members an increase of $8,000 per annum. Are members' pensions graded on their salaries?

One hopes the government will clean up its mess and begin to consider the country instead of itself—we don't want any more of the "ferment of ideas" (the PM's words) from Quebec members.—E.L.J.

Bloomingations

Regarding a recent article "Christmas wonderland proposed for Victoria": I have recently returned from a holiday in my native England, with Blackpool as headquarters; and have now received a clipping from a Blackpool paper commenting on Mr. Hume's suggestion.

If you want to kill Victoria, ruin it as a lovely place to live, empty the Empress Hotel and other attractive hostelries of their resident guests and drive away better class family visitors, all you have to do is follow Blackpool's lead.

Few of the better-class hotels, both public and private and boarding houses catering to the family trade approve of or financially support the illuminations, which some of them call the "Bloomingations."

Do you want to turn Victoria into a second Coney Island crowded with hodog stands, circus midway attractions, and milling crowds?—J. P. Myers, Fort Fraser, B.C.

Looking Back

From the Times of Nov. 3, 1905:

Home economist Mary E. Carter writes:

"Household servants' rooms should be furnished in accordance with the general house furnishings of the family that they are serving. It is scarcely decent to treat a servant's room as if it were an infirmary for all the crippled furniture in the house. Let none who have not tried to better their servants' condition presume to say: 'Why, they would not use good furniture and a bath if we gave them to them.' Give them an opportunity to learn how before making any such declaration."

How Do Parties Stand On Two Major Issues?

By DOUGLAS FISHER
Former NDP MP for Port Arthur

Early in the campaign I discussed two major issues facing the people: ". . . the first of the great issues is the relationship between those of us who speak English and will continue to speak English and those who speak French and will continue to speak French.

Fisher

"The second issue is the survival of a viable Canadian state on the northern half of the continent. The two issues are inseparably linked.

"Voters should be measuring their political parties against the stern demands of these issues."

Let us measure the performance so far of the three contending parties against the standards I laid out on these issues.

Liberal spokesmen who wished to discuss the vital issues began the campaign under the handicap or restraint of the Liberal campaign primer which cautioned party spokesmen to stay away from important, fundamental matters.

Has the prime minister been bound by this strategy?

On English-French relations where one would expect him to have much to say, even if only as an obligation of his office, he has been content with very general and essentially empty and ritualistic comments about "the two founding races" and "national unity."

If we concede that many details on the two issues must wait upon the studies of the Bicultural Commission and the Royal Commission on Taxation, there is still a large area in which Mr. Pearson could spell out his ideas about the future of Canada.

Mr. Pearson's principal colleagues have been less reticent. Messrs. Favreau, Pepin and Lamontagne have been repeating for weeks that the major issue in the election is the need to decentralize government in Canada from Ottawa to the provinces, and to this they say the Liberal party is committed. To them this policy of weakening Ottawa is the path to Canadian salvation.

On the English-French issue the Conservative party has produced two very valuable statements but both were made by provincial premiers. Premier Robarts, before the Toronto conference of Ontario and Quebec editors, and Mr. Roblin in Three Rivers, delivered addresses which Mr. Difenbaker should have given. The fact is that he did not and has not.

Instead he has repeated and repeated two themes: a Conservative government would immediately convene a constitutional convention and the Liberals wish to make second-class citizens out of those Canadians who are not of Anglo-Saxon and French stock.

The first of these is a legitimate, if perhaps premature proposal; the second is pretty far removed from the facts.

T. C. Douglas has put the NDP position on bilingualism, biculturalism and federal-provincial relations in two statements, once in his own constituency and the other time in Beauce County, Quebec. He gave the same version in both places. It is a special accommodation for Quebec along with a defence of the rights of Canadians in other provinces to use the federal power for certain common purposes and the need for the whole country to have a single fiscal and monetary policy.

On the second issue—the survival of a viable Canadian state—rather confusing noises are coming from the Liberals. The prime minister took pains in one telecast to deny that his party took a "continental view" of Canadian problems, and to say that he believed in a strong central government.

In another, he was ready to deal away our water resources somewhat along the pattern that he set with Columbia River water and power. At Westlock, Alta., he seemed to be saying that he would settle for a mixture of varying provincial medicare plans instead of a national medicare with a parallel plan in Quebec.

This may not be the soundest indication of a Liberal position on a stronger or weaker control of the economy from Ottawa but it fits the decentralization views of the Quebec cabinet ministers.

If Senator McCutcheon, still of Bay Street, and Alvin Hamilton of Qu'Appelle, Sask., could be combined into one politican there would be the makings of a good Conservative policy.

The economic common sense that the senator has put forward in his campaign speeches and the concern with a national purpose and readiness to experiment in economic planning by the former minister of agriculture, if molded together, give one a reasonable facsimile of NDP policy.

Mr. Diefenbaker has not ventured into this field at any time in any depth in this campaign, perhaps because he remembers the anti-American bias charged against him in '63.

Mr. Douglas has dealt with bits and pieces of this issue. At least, only bits and pieces have come through on television and the press. His position has been clear on specific matters like the export of water, the auto deal, and regional economic planning.

On the other extreme, his statements on the need for a national purpose for Canadians and his articulation of the developing concern about the absence of leadership has been good, if very general.

What has not yet come through is a compelling statement on the over-all problem of American seduction, of the specific, immediate incidents of surrender, and of the alternatives of Canadian decision-making, planning, and goals which his party seeks to offer.

In this, the expectancy of the interested citizen should be higher since the New Democrats are avowedly the party which spells things out.

Secret Report Brands Saigon Aggressor on Cambodia Border

By MURRAY MARDER
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON—South Vietnamese forces repeatedly violated Cambodia's borders, it has been charged in a long-secret report of the International Control Commission.

The report, originally made three months ago, contained a unanimous finding against South Viet Nam. The international body is composed of Indian, Canadian and Polish representatives.

Its public release produced a flurry of international confusion.

The report suggested it might be advantageous to convene a Geneva-style East-West conference to consider ways to guarantee Cambodia's borders. The proposal rekindled hopes that the conference could provide the long-discussed backdoor approach for talking out the Vietnamese crisis.

U.S. Analysis

But after sorting out the implications, United States sources concluded that current Soviet interest in the report rests primarily on its criticism of South Viet Nam. As the principal supporter of South Viet Nam, the United States is damaged when the Saigon regime incurs international criticism.

What happened in the odd sequence was this:

In London, the British Foreign Office made public the International Control Commission's report on Cambodia. Britain was acting in its role as co-chairman, with the Soviet Union, of the 1954 Geneva Conference on what is presently Laos, Cambodia and North and South Viet Nam.

According to Western diplomatic sources, the Soviet Union was anxious to have the document made public. Although the document, with about 130 pages of appendices, bears the date of July 15, 1965, it has remained confidential until now.

Sent Oct. 22

On Thursday, the Soviet Union announced, in the context of new accusations about violations of Cambodia's borders by South Viet Nam, that the previously unpublicized report was sent on Oct. 22 (by Britain and the Soviet Union) to nations that participated in the 1954 conference, which ended the seven-year war in French Indo-China. The participants were Britain, the Soviet Union, France, Communist China, the United States, Laos, Cambodia and North and South Viet Nam.

"In five months of this year alone," said the Soviet news agency, Tass, "the commission was notified of 385 incidents" of "provocative activities by South Vietnamese army units on the border of peace-loving Cambodia." None, it said, were "provoked by Cambodia."

What caused the confusion about release of the report was its references to reconvening the Geneva Conference.

PRINCE SIHANOUK
. . . last-minute balk

Last spring, there was a major international campaign to resume that conference,

At that time, the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union hoped, although they could not say so publicly, to use the conference on Cambodia as a format for discussing the Vietnamese crisis on its edges.

Counter-Attacks

Communist China then launched a counter-attack to head that off. It put pressure on Cambodia's Prince Norodom Sihanouk to block the diplomatic push.

Sihanouk, although he publicly called for the Geneva Conference on Cambodia, finally reversed his field. He insisted, along with Peking, that the Cambodian conference could not be used as a device to talk about Viet Nam. Furthermore, he insisted that the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam, was the only acceptable representative of the Saigon regime.

In that manoeuvring, in May, Sihanouk also severed diplomatic relations with the United States. Specifically, he charged that American and South Vietnamese aircraft attacked Cambodian border villages.

In June, Sihanouk publicly withdrew his call for the conference.

It is reported now that from April to June, there were manoeuverings within the International Control Commission over the language of its report. What has now come to light was intended to promote a Geneva Conference; but the subject virtually was dead long before the bureaucratic mills ground out the formal report.

Prospect Bleak

At present the prospect of such a conference appears even more remote. Sihanouk recently visited and hailed Communist China, and attacked the Soviet Union over what he claimed was an insulting delay of his planned visit there.

As for the accusations against South Viet Nam, the unanimous ICC report said eight border incidents, between May, 1964, and May, 1965, were investigated.

"The commission found conclusive evidence in these incidents," said the report, "that the armed forces of the Republic of South Viet Nam were responsible for the violations." It added, "the commission is also convinced that none of these incidents was provoked by the Royal Government of Cambodia."

The Gallup Poll

Public Says Liberals Will Win on Monday

By the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

At this stage in an election campaign the political pundits and experts have a heyday prophesying the election outcome. So Gallup Poll interviewers went to the people to establish their best guess as to which party will win.

The odds are heavily with the Liberals. More than 3 to 1 voters pick the Liberals to win over the Conservatives. In Quebec the odds are more than 5 to 1 for the Liberals; in Ontario 3½ to 1, and in the West more than 2 to 1.

As for the New Democratic and Social Credit parties, their chances of winning most votes are practically nil. In the national total, 3% of the voters name the NDP as probable winners and even less pick the Socreds.

Prior to the 1962 election, when a similar question was asked, there was a marked contrast in public thinking on which party would win. At that time, when the Conservatives were in power with a huge majority, voters split almost evenly as they looked into their crystal balls. Thirty-five per cent picked the Tories to win and 32 per cent named the Liberals.

The question: "Regardless of how you plan to vote, what is your best guess as to which political party will get most votes, over the country as a whole, in the next federal election?"

	1962	Today
Conservative	35%	16%
Liberal	32	50
NDP	2	3
Socred	2	2
Don't know	29	29
	100%	100%

Today's regional guesses are as follows:

	Maritimes and Quebec	Quebec Only	Ontario	West
Conservative	12%	9%	15%	22%
Liberal	48	50	52	49
NDP	2	3	4	3
Socred	4	4	1	2
Don't know	34	34	28	24

U.S.-Japan Relations Strained

By RICHARD HALLORAN
The Washington Post

HARRIMAN, N.Y.—A prominent Japanese intelectual said here that "for the past several months, American-Japanese relations have been strained to an extent such as we have never experienced since the Second World War."

Shigeharu Matsumoto, chairman of the International House of Japan, said that among several problems, China is by far the most important.

Matsumoto, an official of the government-controlled Domei News Service from 1933 to 1944, said that Viet Nam is part of the China problem. The Japanese fear that the Viet Nam war will expand and they will become involved.

"If the Viet Nam war is prolonged too long," Matsumo said, "U.S.-Japan relations will face a crisis in the not-too-distant future."

The Japanese also noted that the "fall of the Japanese Empire created a vacuum in Asian power relations," which not even the United States has been able to fill. He indicated that Japan is preparing, after years of passivity, to move into that vacuum.

Although he said he spoke as a "private Japanese citizen," Matsumoto is an influential member of the elite establishment of politicians, bureaucrats, businessmen, and intellectuals who govern Japan.

Matsumoto addressed about 70 congressmen, high government officials, senior military officers, leading businessmen and recognized Japan scholars at an American Assembly session on "the United States and Japan" at Arden House here.

Matsumoto disagreed with the views on Communist China of many American experts, some of whom sat in his audience. He stressed "that Peking seemed to be busy primarily with their internal affairs rather than the conquest of the world."

Conceding that the tone of Chinese statements is "extremely violent," Matsumoto asserted that people "outside of China are easily tempted to take official statements too seriously."

He said that several knowledgeable Japanese who had been in China last month interpreted recent alarming statements by Marshal Lin Piao and Foreign Minister Chen Yi as intended mainly to encourage the Chinese to increase economic production and to warn them of extreme austerity.

Many American experts on China insist that aggressive Chinese proclamations be taken at face value.

Matsumoto said his Japanese friends observed that "the Chinese seem to be utterly unprepared for engaging in large-scale war if provoked or even if bombed."

Books for Shut-Ins Service Proves Phenomenal Success

By ELIZABETH FORBES

As the days darken and winter weather sets in, a project inaugurated by the field department of Victoria Public Library a little over a year ago is becoming increasingly busy.

It's a service for shut-ins, in private homes, private hospitals, rest homes and nursing homes.

Forbes

The project was started "almost by accident," Miss Dora Payne, head of the department, says.

"We had been discussing the idea with Mr. Lort, our librarian, for quite some time. There seemed little hope that we could service it immediately. Then, the Downtown Kiwanis Club of Victoria decided to give us a special van. With this incentive, we went ahead and organized what is now proving to be one of the most rewarding branches of our service."

At present the van takes books to more than 212 shut-ins. The eldest is 99 years of age and the youngest is only seven.

Books are assembled from lists provided by the people themselves or their attendants. They are packed in heavy paper bags with strong handles and labelled with the readers' names.

The van is manned by Mrs. Derek Denny, an attractive young woman with fair hair, blue eyes and a friendly smile. Her qualifications includes nurses' training and, perhaps what is even more necessary, a lively sense of humor.

Pearl Denny visits every shut-in on her list once every four weeks. If books are required between visits she prepares the lists and sends them out by page boys on bicycles.

Books must be carefully chosen for weight and for clean, clear type. Some shut-ins cannot use their arms. The books are placed on stands in front of them and, in one case at least, pages are turned with a pencil eraser attached to the head with rubber bands.

Choice of reading, among the grown-ups, covers the field from mysteries to ghost stories to archaeology and philosophy. Some take books printed in French and German.

One person, confined to a wheelchair, has been perusing a book titled "Tour of the World."

Children get most excited over visits from the "book lady." Many cannot talk. Some are deaf. Others have cerebral palsy. All make it obvious in one way or another that the books are welcome.

In the group of 212 shut-ins serviced are 20 paraplegics, young and in wheelchairs.

Mrs. Denny's main role in all this is to turn a delivery service into a meaningful reading experience. She motivates the bored and listless to pick up a book and sows new interests in the more fertile minds.

"Some who would listlessly accept a book, in the beginning, and hardly look at it between visits, are now eagerly reading five or six books in a short time," she tells you.

There are shut-ins, too, who never really read the books. They simply like to have them at their bedsides to touch and to finger and, what is even more necessary to them, to know they are a link with a regular visitor.

In many instances, Pearl Denny is the only visitor these people have.

On her rounds she consumes endless cups of tea and eats hundreds of cookies. It's a way of holding her for an extra couple of minutes.

The service is free. It is available to all ages and to any Victoria area shut-in. All that is needed is to phone or get in touch with the field department of the Public Library and Pearl Denny will do the rest.

This type of library work is not meant to be philanthropic or sentimental in purpose. It is planned to assist shut-ins to learn to accept themselves and find unique, satisfying places in life.

It is having such phenomenal success, Miss Payne and Mrs. Denny are now receiving inquiries from other centres in Canada asking details of the setup.

Worker Priest Plan Revived In France

By NICHOLAS CARROLL
The Manchester Guardian

PARIS — The Vatican's approval of the revival of the worker-priest experiment in France is regarded here as perhaps the most important event in the French church since the separation of church and state at the beginning of the century.

The movement was begun in Paris in 1934. Priests took manual jobs and lived among workers, joined trade unions and, in many cases, took part in political activities.

Rome's green light has not been entirely unexpected. The French hierarchy, growing more and more alarmed with the decline in the working class's loyalty to the church, has been pressing the matter.

The conditions under which the revival will be carried out show that much has been learned from the failure of the first experiment. A communique issued by the French hierarchy after a meeting in Rome specifies that only "a small number of priests" will take part in the operation, the duration of which will be initially for three years. In addition, they will be carefully chosen and fully trained, and will continue to live with other priests.

Although allowed to join a trade union, priests will be forbidden to take an active part in political or syndical action.

The original worker-priest experiment was changed by Rome after it had been severely criticized within France itself. The increasingly active participation of the priests in militant trade unionism between 1947 and 1952, including the Communist-dominated General Confederation of Labor, scandalized the conservative clergy and laity, although it was supported by many liberal catholics such as the novelist Francois Mauriac.

PATIENCE REWARDED

Men will tell of the long, dry spell
That hit us in '65,
Of whole towns cursed by a raging thirst
And the struggle to stay alive.
They tell of the drought as the beer ran out
And the spectre of empty shelves,
As the men grew grey and wasted away
To ghosts of their former selves.
And they dreamed of sips that had passed their lips
In a sleep that was blessed by beers,
But the dream was gone in the cruel, dry dawn
Leaving only the taste of tears.
And for many long weeks those tear-stained cheeks
Were worn like a badge of pain,
Then a whisper . . . a shout . . . and a cry rang out:
"Lucky Lager's back again!!!"
You could hear them cheer for that big, bold beer
From Comox to Williams Lake,
And all through the day you could hear men say:
"Give yourself a Lucky break!"
So when men grow old and tall tales are told
They'll say of "The Great Thirst Saga"
That the drought they faced was worth the taste
Of that first glass of Lucky Lager!

(with apologies to Robert Service)

DECISION TO COME AFTER VOTE

Spy Charges Studied by Ottawa

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Justice Minister Lucien Cardin will make a final decision following the election on whether a junior civil servant in Vancouver will be prosecuted for involvement in Soviet spy activities uncovered last May.

In a statement issued by his Ottawa office Tuesday night, Cardin said he had now received recommendations from justice department officials in the espionage case and he intends to review all aspects of the case before deciding whether prosecution is justified.

Reports from Vancouver Tuesday said a postal employee who went by the name of Wilson had admitted to being the second Canadian involved in Russian efforts last spring to gain technical information in the electronics field related to the defence industry.

The first Canadian, who was a naturalized citizen working in private industry, had tipped off the RCMP as soon as he was approached by the Russians.

Two members of the Soviet Embassy, commercial attache A. E. Bytchkov and clerk V. P. Poluchkin, were declared persona non grata by the Canadian government and sent back to Moscow.

The naturalized citizen was paid thousands of dollars by the Russians and asked to compromise other Canadians, including female civil servants, to obtain the information. He played along under police direction.

But the Vancouver civil servant, who was seriously ill last spring, allegedly co-operated with the Russian agents and accepted money from them.

It is understood that he was operated on for cancer and, in view of his illness as well as other considerations, no further action was taken by the government.

NECESSARY STEPS

In his statement Cardin said that when the cases became public, the "necessary steps" were taken to determine whether the civil servant could be prosecuted under the Official Secrets Act.

"The state of the man's health caused unavoidable delays and complications in obtaining and assessing all the statements and evidence concerning his participation in espionage operations," Cardin said.

The RCMP has been in close touch with the man throughout.

"An examination of all the facts and evidence has been made by the officers of the department of justice and their recommendations have now been placed before me," the justice minister continued.

"Until a final decision is reached any further statement except to reassure the public that this person poses no threat to the security of the nation."

PATTER OF RAINDROPS LATEST IN PILLOW TALK

TOKYO (Reuters) — A sleep-inducing pillow has been developed in Japan.

Made of foam rubber, it has a tiny electronic device inside which produces sounds resembling raindrops by means of a special neon tube. Running on house current, it produces 70 sound pulses a minute, which the maker describes as monotonous and sleep-inducing.

After a person falls asleep, the sound of raindrops continues throughout the night.

EX-ICC MEMBER TELLS UVIC STUDENTS

Canadian Truce Team 'Errand Boy for U.S.'

Retired squadron leader Hugh Campbell said Tuesday he was ashamed of his actions as a Canadian member of the International Control Commission in Viet Nam from 1961 to 1963.

"Yes, I was an errand boy for the United States," he said at a University of Victoria political science forum.

"I was bloody ashamed of some of the things I was required to do because of the external affairs department's policy in Viet Nam."

He said some of the things he was required to do was ignore American breaches of the 1954 Geneva agreement on Viet Nam.

"Like pretending I didn't see a flight of United States helicopters overhead . . . or American warships in the harbor."

Mr. Campbell said the same was true of other members of the ICC.

"We (the Canadians and Indians) could point out an armed Chinese PT boat 30 feet away and the Poles could not see it."

Mr. Campbell said none of the violations of either side was ever repored officially because it required the unanimous vote of all representatives on the commision before a report could be sent out.

He said he believed the recent minority report of the ICC's Canadian members to Parliament did not present the true facts.

"It (the report) is not a carbon copy of the United States' "white paper" on Viet Nam, but it is very similar," said Mr. Campbell.

"We are carbon-copy Canadians.

"I would like to see Canada's foreign policy continue to take a strong interest in Viet Nam, but with complete impartiality," he said.

On the future of Viet Nam, he said: "It took the Vietnamese 1,000 years to throw the Chinese out of their country and it took them 80 years to throw out the French. They will throw out the Americans."

He said although it is too late for the United States to extricate itself gracefully from Viet Nam, there is still a possibility a coalition government could function in ruling the country.

Mr. Campbell said the Americans must realize they must negotiate with the Viet Cong directly if a truce agreement is to be worked out.

"It is my belief that Communism, as such, will fall of its own dead weight in Viet Nam because they are such a freedom-loving people."

Fourth Laborer Killed

A spokesman for his employer, Burns and Dutton, said the man was apparently hit by some timbers while working on the roof of the mill's recovery building. He fell about 100 feet.

Bouquets Can Kill

AARHUS, Denmark (AP) — A bouquet of flowers may cheer up a hospital patient, but it also may kill him, a Danish scientist reported Tuesday. In a thesis at Aarhus University, Dr. Ove Jessen said the bacteria pseudomona aeruginosa may be introduced to the patient through flowers. Though ordinarily harmless, the bacteria can be deadly to patients whose resistance is weakened, he warned.

Alberta Needs Stressed By Thompson, Manning

EDMONTON (CP)—More Social Credit MPs are needed in the Commons to help give Alberta a square deal, party leader Robert Thompson said at a rally here Tuesday night.

His plea was backed by Premier E. C. Manning who said Liberal and Conservative MPs from the province "sit in silence in the Commons rather than stand up and fight for Alberta."

Both men spoke to about 1,200 persons in the 2,500-seat Jubilee Auditorium at a rally for the Social Credit candidates in the three Edmonton City ridings.

Mr. Manning said Alberta is getting a poor deal from Ottawa on equalization payments and in several federal - provincial programs. Only Mr. Thompson and H. A. Olson, the Social Credit MP for Medicine Hat in the last Parliament, had spoken out for their province in the Commons.

Other Alberta MPs were either bound by party policies or were reluctant to speak because they might find themselves praising the Social Credit government.

Mr. Manning said Canada suffers from political instability because it is becoming impossible to tell the difference between the Conservative and Liberal parties.

"Both are trying to be all things to all men," said the premier.

PREDICTS SLIM MAJORITY

The best Canadians could hope for in the Nov. 8 federal election was a slim majority for either of the old-line parties.

Mr. Thompson said Canada would be better off with a minority government provided there were enough MPs ready to cast aside petty politics and debate issues on their merits.

COMMANDER (E) W. S. E. MORRISON

A NEW DIRECTION FOR CANADA

Defeat the Old Parties

CANADA needs a new direction in national policy and a new constitution to unite French and English-speaking Canada on a basis of full equality. We need policies to develop our country, to open up a million and a half new jobs for young Canadians, to stop the sell-out of our resources and industries to the U.S., to bring automation under public control so that it will not be used for the profit of just a few big corporations.

We need a new foreign policy of peace to end the war in Viet Nam by negotiating peace based on the Geneva agreements which call for withdrawal of all foreign troops, leaving the Vietnamese people free to settle thir own affairs.

Why Does Pearson Want Majority Government Now

What is so good about majority government? The record shows that majority government by either of the old parties of big business is bad for the people, bad for Canada. But under minority government these parties have to make concessions to the people's interests to stay in office.

Why does Pearson want majority government now?

Johnson is asking for more help from Canada in his war against the Vietnamese people. There is U.S. pressure for Canada to join the U.S.-run Organization of American States, and Pearson says he is considering this.

There is pressure from the U.S. to take over our water resources.

There are calls from the big companies for government help to hold down wages. The MacPherson report proposed to fire railway workers and drive up farm costs by closing down branch lines. Are these the reasons why Pearson wants a majority government?

We call upon democratic Canadians to unite to win new policies. Defeat the candidates of the old parties! Elect the largest bloc of progressives ever to sit in the House of Commons.

NEW TIMES REQUIRE NEW POLICIES

1) Friendship, trade, cultural exchanges with all nations; enforce Geneva Agreement to end war in Vietnam; Remove U.S. nuclear arms from Canada; Divert armament waste to needs of peaceful growth; Make U.N. all-inclusive; Recognize China.
2) Curb monopoly profiteering; Plan steady economic growth; License and control automation, REDUCING CONSUMER PRICES and work hours without pay-loss; Retrain and relocate displaced workers; Take back our resources from U.S. control; Large scale public investment for industrial development; A new deal for farmers with farm price floor;
3) Total war on poverty — increase minimum wages, pensions, security,; All-inclusive gov't medicare; Vast, public low-rent housing; Open universities and higher education to all meriting, by replacing fees by grants; Raise income tax exemptions; Allow deduction of municipal taxes for income tax; Tax "capital" gains and relieve municipalities of elementary education costs.
4) A new, "made-in-Canada" Constitution that will recognize the bi-national character of our country, and strengthen democracy and independence in a new confederal agreement.

The most effective vote you can cast for these policies is for Victoria Communist candidate

Two Papers Quit Grits For Tories

REGINA (CP)—The Regina Leader-Post and the Saskatoon Star - Phoenix, long supporters of Liberal governments federally and provincially, Tuesday switched editorial support to the Progressive Conservatives in the Nov. 8 federal election.

The Leader - Post criticizes Prime Minister Pearson for making "no move to rid himself of his weak ministers, those who brought disaster either through fumbling and bumbling or through the scandals bared by the Dorion report."

"The Liberal party now is far away from Liberalism."

The Star - Phoenix says the Liberal party appears to have been collecting among its heirarchy "individuals who have a philosophy or ideology we find disturbing."

"At one time this party was considered to be the party of big business," the Star-Phoenix says. "It can hardly be called that today. The Conservatives are just as much in favor of a pension plan and a good medical care plan as any party. At the same time they believe in the right of the individual to look after himself if he can, and to fashion the best life he can for himself and his family."

'Telegram Contradicts Bennett'

LADNER (CP)—B.C. Liberal leader Ray Perrault produced a telex message from Ottawa Tuesday night and claimed it proves Premier Bennett is guilty of a falsehood.

Mr. Perrault said the message, from federal Works Minister George McIlraith, confirms a meeting in Ottawa last December that the premier has denied attending.

"The information . . . gives the absolute lie to Bennett denials a few days ago that he had any knowledge of any meeting in Ottawa or any offer of federal help for the Lower Mainland freeway crossing system," Mr. Perrault told an election meeting here. He spoke in support of Chris Brown, Liberal candidate Nov. 8 in New Westminster.

Mr. McIlraith said he had confirmation that Premier Bennett met last Dec. 7 in Ottawa with Jean - Paul Deschatelets, then minister of public works. Mr. Deschatelets told Mr. Bennett the federal government would be willing to consider a proposal from B.C. for the rerouting of the highway. Mr. McIlraith said two works department officials were present during the meeting.

Bandit Gets $5,000

VANCOUVER (CP) — A lone bandit escaped with more than $5,000 Tuesday from the west-end branch of the National Trust Company.

Teller Corine Morley said a man entered the office shortly before 3 p.m., ordered her to hand over all her money, and said he had a gun.

SCANDALS are sparked by underworld contributions to campaign funds, says Creditiste leader Real Caouette, who has challenged other parties to publish a financial statement and limit expenses. He says he will do the same.

Give Your Mind A Chance

This Businessman had to break a thighbone to learn a lesson many people never learn: snap judgments need review...some period should be set up every day just for thinking! November Reader's Digest tells you how quickly you can improve your life if you make use of some of your unused thinking capacity!

'Old-Line Parties Welch on Medicare'

PENTICTON (CP) — The Liberals and the Conservatives are "welching" on medicare, B.C. Opposition Leader Robert Strachan told a standing-room-only New Democratic Party rally here Tuesday night.

He spoke in support of Okanagan-Boundary NDP candidate Alex Turner.

He said Prime Minister Pearson, Conservative chief Diefenbaker and Social Credit leader Thompson would like to bring in medicare but they can't because they have refused to adopt economic policies that would make medicare financing feasible according to the recommendations of the Hall commission.

"If you want medicare you must support the party that will make medicare economically possible."

He said British Columbia could face a recession next year similar to the recession in 1958 after the 1957 boom.

When the economy is unplanned, he said "things like this boom-and-recession cycle just happen. It's on-again-off-again."

NDP policy was dedicated to the maintenance of a reasonable surplus in the balance of international payments and an investment level sufficient for stable economic growth.

Woodward's COLOUR TV

With the Increase of Colour Television Programming Being Received in the Greater Victoria Area, Woodward's offers the Following Information

American Television Networks this fall have increased their programming in colour. For example this month — N.B.C. (Channel 5, Seattle) 238 hours — A.B.C. (Channel 4, Seattle) 117 hours — C.B.S. (Channel 12, Bellingham) 52 hours — C.B.S. (Channel 7, Seattle) 144 hours — (Channel 11, Seattle, 67 hours) . . . as per TV Guide.

Good Colour Reception requires a strong local signal. There are few areas in the Greater Victoria area capable of consistently good signal strength for colour TV viewing from Channels 4 and 5. Cablevision or other service is available in many areas of Greater Victoria and will provide the signal strength required.

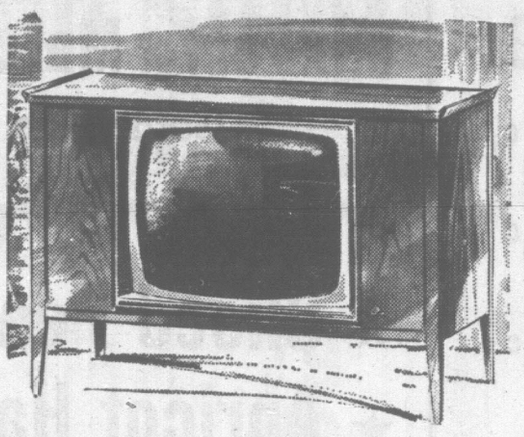

Woodward's Offer to have a cable service, if available in your area, installed in your home to insure satisfactory colour TV at no charge and a 6-month line rental, at no cost to our customers, with the purchase of a colour television receiver. This offer is limited to one TV connection per home. Offer expires December 5, 1965.

Manufacturers' Representatives will be in attendance Nov. 4th and 5th to help with any of your enquires:

Mr. Murray Chapman	Canadian Admiral
Mr. John Griffiths	Canadian Westinghouse
Mr. Graham Senner	Dominion Electrohome
Mr. Ken Baxter	Philco Corporation

Victoria Cablevision will have a representative in attendance each evening to answer any enquiries as to colour reception.

Safeway Chuck Roast

or Round Bone Roast

lb. 43c

See for yourself why you get so much more!

1. Note the large portion of lean meat to fat and bone. We never "rob" a chuck roast of lean meat (as some do) to be sold as boneless beef at a higher price.
2. There's bone of course, but it's carefully trimmed. Grandmas tells us that the juices which flow through the meat from the bone help give pot roasts their perfect flavor.
3. Just enough fat is left on a Safeway chuck roast to make sure it will cook tender, flavorful and juicy and have that rich brown color you want in your pot roasts.
4. It's cut from Canada Choice Beef. Only beef judged by expert Canadian government graders to be of fine-eating quality is awarded this high grade.
5. Like all steaks and roasts at Safeway, this chuck roast has been carefully aged to peak of tenderness and flavor in our central meat plant.

GROOS TELLS MEETING

'Election Was Needed Now To Get Liberal Majority'

By AB KENT

Victoria Liberal candidate David Groos said Tuesday he is glad the so-called "unnecessary election" is upon the country.

He predicted in a campaign gathering of 25 persons in Sir James Douglas School that government after next Monday will be better because it will be a majority for Prime Minister Pearson.

"I'm glad this time of testing is upon us, particularly when in the day to day business of government we never knew whether we were going to be defeated the next day," he said.

The Liberal program envisaged needs a "clear mandate of the people," he said, quoting a phrase used by John Diefenbaker when he was prime minister.

"I'm convinced we'll come out of it with a majority . . . and get on with the business of running the government for four years without interruption," Mr. Groos said.

He said the parliamentary system was never meant to have minority government indefinitely.

Although he was elected in the spring of 1963, Mr. Groos said he still feels "a new boy" in Parliament, which he finds "a thrilling place" to be and in having an influence on decisions made there.

OUTLINES STRIDES

He outlined the strides he said were made by the Liberals since then, from the rescue of the dollar and pegging at 92½ cents, to stabilization of foreign trade balance, the end of deficit financing, slashing unemployment by 228,000 and creation of an atmosphere of business expansion and long-range job planning.

The balance of payments alone resulted in 20,000 new jobs through the Canada-U.S. automobile trade agreement, Mr. Groos said.

"This should be trumpeted . . . If this is a bad deal, let's have more like it."

The idea could be expanded to a similar "little common market" that would be of special benefit to the west coast through the lumber, plywood and newsprint industry, the candidate said.

Canada should find a way of entering further into the vast U.S. market, he said.

In response to a question, Mr. Groos said the difference between Liberal and Conservative parties is essentially that the Liberals believe in freer trade and closing the gap between the very rich and the very poor.

Liberals also go for long-term planning.

But Conservatives favor restrictive tariffs and deficit financing, he said.

LIBERAL POLICY

Conservative policy used to mean financial responsibility, or pay-as-you-go.

"But somehow or other this seems to have been forgotten and now is a mark of Liberal policy," Mr. Groos said.

The candidate spoke in favor of a non-political B.C. bank, entry of Red China to the United Nations and greater federal participation in education.

As an ex-service man he said he thought little of Mr. Diefenbaker's proposal to create a federal forest firefighting force with the armed services.

MILITARY ROLE

"Every member of the armed services remembers the survival and firefighting role" imposed by Mr. Diefenbaker's government on the militia.

Now the reserves have returned to their fighting and military role "as an integral part of Canada's forces. I think that is what our forces are for," he said.

Union Vet's Funeral On Saturday

Funeral service will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. in Sands Mortuary for Harry Doidge, 93, a pioneer Victoria trade unionist who died Tuesday.

He was born in Devonshire, England, and lived here since 1908.

He held a life membership in the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers' International Union of America and in 1958 was given a gold card to commemorate his 50 years with the union in Victoria.

He had been in the trade since age 17 in England.

Mr. Doidge built his own house at 171 Bushby Street in 1914 and worked on the CPR Building on Belleville, the Crystal Garden and he put "the face on the clock of the old Normal School," now a part of the University of Victoria, Lansdowne campus.

He was also a member of Court Victoria, Ancient Order of Foresters.

Survivors include: three sons, Leslie, Arch and Clarence, all of Victoria; one grandson, Lloyd of Vancouver; a granddaughter, Mrs. H. Gerrard; two great-granddaughters; one brother and one sister, all of Victoria.

He was predeceased by his wife Ellen Edith in 1950.

Estate Value Rises

Value of Victoria's McPherson bequest has risen by $150,000 since early September Mayor R. B. Wilson reported Tuesday.

He said the value of the estate to the city stands at more than $2.9 million, of which $2.5 million is liquidated to cash or bonds and short-term notes.

"There is more in cash now than the value of the estate when Mr. McPherson died," the mayor said.

Thomas Shanks McPherson left the bulk of his estate to Victoria and the University of Victoria, specifying $2 million should go to the university.

By the end of this year the liquidated portion of the city's share will stand at $1.2 million, the mayor said, and liquidation will be complete well within the five-year waiting period before the estate can be claimed — Dec. 31, 1967.

The city has built Centennial Square largely through McPherson money and in order to do this has had authority from the legislature to borrow $750,000 against the estate.

Another request to borrow $450,000 will be made to permit reconstruction of Royal Athletic Park.

If the authority is given and the project goes ahead, about $1.8 million would remain unspent, probably sufficient to enable the city to make a proposed indoor sports-convention-exhibition complex at Memorial Arena site.

SUSPECTED of supplying cannon used in $400,000 Brinks robbery in Syracuse is Jack Frank, 33, of Freeport, N.Y., who will be prosecuted in Albany, N.Y.—(AP Wirephoto).

FURS FETCH LESS

The fur trapping business in Ontario declined four per cent from 1964 to 1965, with a total value of about $850,000.

CIVIL SERVICE RAISES ASKED

Ottawa Warned of Worker Unrest

OTTAWA (CP) — The Staff Side Conference of civil service organizations warned the federal cabinet today there is "serious discontent" among 75,000 government workers in the A and B pay groups.

In a letter to Prime Minister Pearson, the organization appealed for an immediate salary increase for the two groups. It said pay schedules are far out of line with similar jobs in private industry.

The letter proposed an increase of at least four per cent for the 9,000 professionals in Group A and 6½ per cent for the 67,000 clerical and administrative workers in Group B.

It urged that the Group A boosts be made retroactive to July 1, 1964, and those in Group B to Oct. 1, 1964.

In August the government approved a series of special increases for the 58,000 employees covered in Group D—postal, immigration and customs workers. This stemmed from the special pay study that followed the cross-country postal strike.

Groups A and B were given increases last year but these led to protests from the employee groups on grounds of inadequacy.

Today's letter complained that the cabinet has been reducing the wage recommendations produced by a special section of the civil service commission.

Pay scales of federal workers are studied in four groups—A, B, C and D. There was no mention in the letter of Group C, covering hospital workers.

Hospital Honors Retiring Aide

She had been a nurses' aide for 34 years.

This tobacco seedling hopes to grow to be a Sportsman Cigarette

From this tiny seedling, nestling in the palm of a grower's hand, will come the best-tasting tobacco under the sun.

We grow these tender little plants from blue ribbon seed—the very best. And then we baby the plants along in good, rich soil with plenty of warm sunshine and cool summer rain. This is proud tobacco. As it grows strong and tall through the long, lazy days, it ripens into the best-tasting tobacco under the sun.

$100,000 Owed Northern Firms

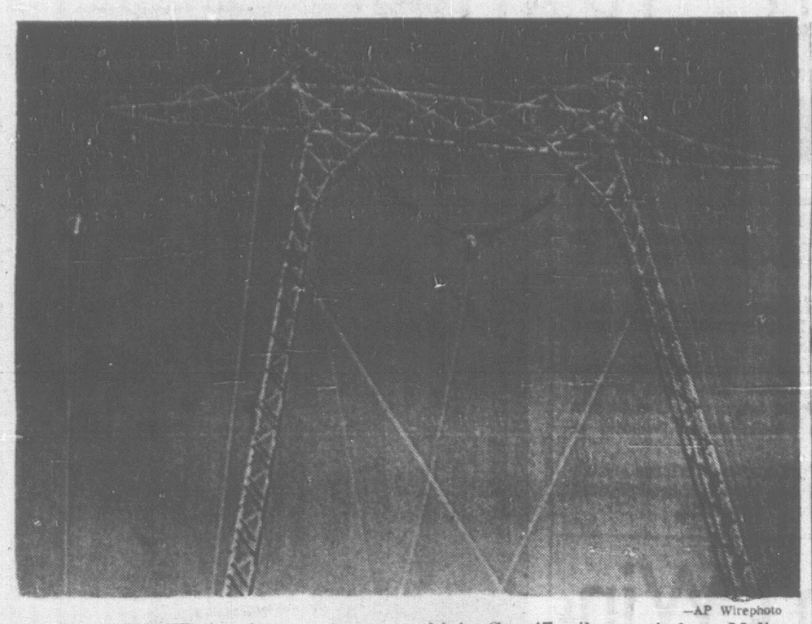

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Business firms in this interior city were waiting Tuesday for word about an estimated $100,000 owed to them by Canus Services Ltd.

Canus, which catered to workers at Prince George's two pulp mills, has gone bankrupt.

The only communications creditors in Prince George have is a letter over the signatuer of Vancouver chartered accountant Ian H. Bell, informing them of the bankruptcy of three Canus enterprises and announcing formation of a new firm with the backing of Kelly Douglas and Company Limited.

Mr. Bell appealed for support of the new company from its creditors.

The three Canus concerns which have gone into bankruptcy are Canus Prebuilt Ltd., Canus Services (Alberta) Ltd. and Canus Services Ltd.

B.C. in Running for Car Plant

HALIFAX (CP)—The Chronicle-Herald says Nova Scotia is in the running for another Japanese automotive assembly plant.

The newspaper says it has learned that Nissan Motor Co. Ltd. of Tokyo, producer of the Datsun, is studying the Canadian market with the intention of building an assembly plant.

It says Ontario, British Columbia and Nova Scotia were selected as possible sites. Neiji Uno, Nissan's foreign trade division president, said in Vancouver last week the company has been studying plans for a Canadian assembly plant for the last three years.

The newspaper says Mr. Uno held talks with Premier Stanfield and Lieutenant-Governor H. P. MacKeen about the possibility of locating in Nova Scotia.

Location of the plant will be announced when Nissan's Canadian sales reach 400 to 500 cars a month, the report says.

Volvo has a plant in nearby Dartmouth and Canadian Motors Industries Ltd. is to build a plant in Cape Breton Island.

BEFORE PROBE

BCT Takeover Strachan Plan

VANCOUVER (CP) — Robert Strachan suggested Tuesday the board of transport commissioners make it possible for the B.C. government to take over the federally-charted B.C. Telephone Co.

In a submission to the board the provincial leader of the New Democratic Party suggested that the board recommend to the federal government that the company be returned to provincial jurisdiction.

Then the government could take it over.

The board is conducting hearings into the finances of the telephone company and its levels of earnings.

Mr. Strachan said B.C. Tel subscribers must not become milch cows to provide higher profits for the company's parent, affiliates or subsidiaries.

TOO LIMITED

He suggested the board's authority in regulating the company is too limited.

B.C. would have been better served over the years if the company had been under the jurisdiction of the provincial public utilities commission.

Mr. Strachan protested the control held over the company by its U.S. parent.

"It can also be shown that the B.C. Telephone Co. operates on a non-competitive, cost-plus basis and such an arrangement invites loading operating costs with all the traffic will bear."

Mr. Strachan said local and long distance rates charged by B.C. Tel are the highest in Canada.

He said one reason for this is the company practice of financing a large part of its expansion through borrowings rather than through share capital.

This amounted to "a compulsory capital donation by every customer, about 20 per cent of the monthly phone bill."

G. A. Kennedy, senior vice-president of B.C. Tel, said Tuesday the company doesn't expect any slowdown in the province's economic growth.

He said the company's capital expansion plans for the next four years indicate B.C. Tel expects the province to continue to expand at a high rate.

His comments were at variance with testimony given earlier by Arthur Phillips, a Vancouver investment analyst called by B.C. Tel to give evidence on the general economic picture in Canada and B.C.

Mr. Phillips said there is a possibility of a slowdown in construction activity in B.C. by 1967 or 1968 and that a possibility exists of a slowdown or recession in the Canadian economy in 1967.

Replying to questions Tuesday, Mr. Kennedy said that "in our forward planning, we have not given any consideration to a slowdown in the economic pace of British Columbia."

B.C. Tel has asked that its permissive earnings level be related to total capital invested, rather than on the number of shares issued.

POUND HITS TOP LEVEL IN 3 YEARS

LONDON (Reuters) — The pound today reached its highest level in nearly three years.

Within two hours of the opening of business at the Foreign Exchange Market it rose by $0.0006 to $2.8050 in U.S. funds.

The gain was a reflection of overseas reaction to Tuesday's announcement that Britain's gold and convertible currency reserves have risen £42,000,000 ($126,000,000), in the last month.

Hardware Company Will Merge

WINNIPEG (CP)—The stockholders of Marshall Wells of Canada Ltd. unanimously approved Tuesday the amalgamation with Gamble Macleod (Canada) Ltd., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Gamble Macleod Ltd.

Operating divisions of Gamble Macleod Limited are Marshall Wells, Macleods, Stedmans, Clarks and Gamble Drug, each of which will continue its own independent merchandising programs.

The buying of these companies will be closely co-ordinated and there will be resulting economies from the common usage of certain assets and facilities, company spokesmen said.

A special dividend of $1.25 per share was declared to the holders of Marshall Wells of Canada Ltd. payable Nov. 9 to stockholders of record at the close of business Nov. 1, 1965.

One share of 6½ per cent cumulative redeemable first preferred stock of the par value of $5 in the capital of the amalgamated company will be exchanged for each share of the common stock of Marshall Wells of Canada Ltd.

Gamble Macleod Limited will purchase any of these new preferred shares of the amalgamated company for $5,50 to Jan. 31, 1966. Gamble Macleod also agreed to purchase any outstanding share purchase warrants of Marshall Wells of Canada for 25 cents.

Each warrant has the privilege of purchasing one share of the new 6¼ per cent cumulative redeemable first preferred stock at $7 until May 1, 1967.

Profits Take Drop

VANCOUVER (CP) — Laurentide Financial Corp. Ltd. showed a net profit of $835,052 for the three months ended Sept. 30, down $99,762 from the corresponding period of 1964.

Earnings for the quarter amounted to 23 cents per common share, compared with 37 cents in the same period of '64.

Labor Income Takes Jump

OTTAWA (CP)—An estimated $2,146,000,000 was paid to Canadian workers in salaries and wages in August, an increase of 1.3 per cent from the July figure and 10.6 per cent greater than labor income in August, 1964, the bureau of statistics has reported.

Labor income for the first eight months of this year totalled $16,243,000,000, also 10.6 per cent higher than in the same period of last year.

Cain Raises Hopes

So said Wilf Cain Tuesday.

He told Saanich Parks and Recreation Committee that if the municipality would make an attractive offer to the league headquarters in Williamsport, Pa., "I am sure it would be favorably received."

Cain is a member of the league's international board of directors and Vancouver Island director of LL.

"Hampton Park is suitable in area, well located and has parking facilities," Cain said.

"Saanich has done more for Little League than any other Canadian municipality."

Cain's optimism about the likelihood of Hampton becoming permanent headquarters for Canadian LL clubs is well-founded. The park will be the site of the 1966 Canadian LL finals in August.

Because of the need to ready the field, Hampton Little Leaguers will use Marigold Park this summer.

Support for Cain's proposition came from committeeman Edward Lum. But he also suggested a look be taken at a 20-acre site across Burnside which Saanich proposes to buy.

"Hampton Park may not be large enough for expansion if the Canadian headquarters is established here," Lum said.

Rearguards Don't Win, But What About Fred?

Everybody knows defencemen don't win scoring championships but you couldn't blame Victoria Maple Leafs for doing a little dreaming while they prepared for tonight's Western Hockey League game against San Francisco Seals.

Leafs, leading the league by three points over Portland, entertain the Seals in Memorial Arena at 8:15 while the Buckaroos clash with Cleveland Barons at Portland.

Also at stake will be first place in the individual scoring derby, in which Victoria's Fred Hucul and Buckaroo centre Art Jones are currently locked on top with 13 points each after seven games.

Hucul, whose sparkling play has been a big reason why the Leafs are running out in front, doesn't expect to continue his pace of almost two points per game. But the veteran defenceman appears to have recaptured the touch that gave him remarkable point totals in previous seasons at Calgary.

MIGHT BE ODDS

Fred has been handling the puck so well that his mates feel he might beat the odds against defencemen and make a serious run at the point title.

Hucul, who has formed a fine point combination with Ed Litzenberger on the Victoria power play, has accumulated his total on three goals and 10 assists. Jones has bagged six goals and seven assists.

Seven times in eight seasons at Calgary, the 33-year-old Hucul collected more than 50 points. He hit his personal high in the 1955-56 campaign when he fired 21 goals and picked up 38 assists for 59 points.

Seattle's Guyle Fielder, tied with four other players at 11 points, took the crown last season with 92 points. But the Leafs are hoping this will be Fred's biggest year.

First business for the Leafs tonight will be the task of trying to whip the Seals, who held Victoria to a 3-3 deadlock here last week.

The Leafs, starting with six of their first nine games on home ice, want to build up a solid cushion for later in the season, when they must make some tough road trips, including a six-game March swing through the American League.

Here are the scoring leaders:

SPORTS DIARY

By SHIRLEY POVICH
(The Washington Post)

WASHINGTON—Before the advent of Laurel's Washington, D.C., International in 1952, the gathering of foreign stars in this country was hampered by the time required to send horses. Sometimes halfway around the world, aboard ships.

Transportation not only was slow but, in most cases, the thoroughbreds had to get rid of their sea legs and often were off their training and/or off their feed when they arrived.

The fact that horses could be flown to the scene was one of the reasons John D. Schapiro, Laurel's president, saw a future in international racing. Instead of more than a week on the high seas, distant flights required 12 hours or less and horses retained their form.

An early example came in 1955.

A week before the Laurel race, Venezuela's Prendase and El Chama ran 1-2 in the Simon Bolivar Classico at Caracas. Prendase's owner promptly accepted an invitation, but the owner of El Chama thought so much of his horse that he asked and received permission to compete at his own expense.

The two South Americans arrived on the same plane three days before the big race in which they battled head-and-head through the stretch, with El Chama winning in the final strides.

Without air transportation, it's doubtful that Russian horses could have been lured to Laurel, although they are sometimes shipped by boxcar to the point of takeoff.

Air Jaunt Easier Than Trip In Van

Last year for the first time an International horse travelled by jet. The honor went to Russia's Aniline, the colt who was scheduled to be on hand again on Nov. 11, but will now remain in Russia.

This year several entries will make propless flights, cutting in half the time usually consumed en route.

The delivery of the horses at Laurel and the return to their homelands is in the charge of John J. McCabe, who operates an equine flight service with headquarters in New York. McCabe's cargo has to be some of the most valuable ever aloft—thousands of horses worth millions of dollars.

He has never lost a horse. In fact, it is generally accepted that flying is easier on thoroughbreds than van or railroad transportation, once the plane is airborne—and jets add to the comfort.

Laurel Prefers Them Slim and Trim

Several years ago, a British group was asked how its horse fared in the air and reported the thoroughbred took the flying more in stride than the van trip from the airport to the racetrack.

Many horses are as much at home in the air as on the ground. Round Table was an example. McCabe estimates the millionaire travelled more than 25,000 air miles during his racing career.

Horses now get on and off planes now with the ease of a bus passenger. However, it wasn't always so. Boarding and unloading facilities were lacking in the old days.

Horse flying got off to a sluggish start when owners and trainers were discouraged by an unfortunate accident. In 1948, a pioneer company was flying the 250,000-dollar stallion Djelal from France to Kentucky.

The cargo also included some howling dogs which so upset the horse that he fell and broke a leg. Modern safety equipment precludes such accidents; then, too, it's doubtful horses and dogs now are on the same flight.

The cost is rated by so much a pound for the horse, tack feed, water, etc. The present price is $1.05 a pound from England and $1.10 from France.

Laurel picks up the International transportation tab and so Schapiro and Co. can be excused if they secretly hope that foreigners keep their horses slim and trim—like the so-and-so-for-lunch-bunch.

BRUINS RECALL ANOTHER

Rangers' Confidence, Drive Impresses Phil

(Times News Services)

Phil Goyette, starting his 10th National Hockey League season and his third with New York, is certain the Rangers will make the playoffs this season.

"We've got a lot more drive than last year. The young fellows have a lot more confidence in themselves and we feel we can beat anybody."

Goyette, who celebrated his 32nd birthday Sunday, could achieve two milestones tonight when the Rangers play host to Toronto Maple Leafs in Madison Square Garden.

One goal would give the centre 100 and one assist would give him 200 assists for a career total of 300 points.

Boston Bruins, who visit Chicago in the only other NHL game tonight, are trying to achieve another milestone of a sort.

Boston called up defenceman Gilles Marotte from Oklahoma City of the Central League. He's the fourth player promoted in three days.

On Monday, the desperate Bruins called up goalies Bernie Parent (from Oklahoma) and Jack Norris (from Los Angeles) and centre Forbes Kennedy (from San Francisco).

H. J. Tapp Elected Bowling President

H. J. Tapp has been elected president of the Victoria Lawn Bowling Club.

Other officers are: Honorary president, H. Greenwood; past-president, H. O. Thomas; vice-president, T. B. Risely; secretary, Dr. N. James; treasurer, V. McLeod.

Named to the executive at the club's annual meeting were: A. B. King, H. Botel, D. C. M. Davies, L. Exton, S. Smitherman, C. N. Bennett, G. M. Shaw, C. S. Wrong, C. B. Tallack.

MCLEAN TO CONTROL . . . CANUCK CLUB

Asking Price $500,000

VANCOUVER (CP) — A syndicate this week is expected to ratify an agreement to purchase Vancouver Canucks' Western Hockey League franchise, the club's territorial rights and assets for $500,000.

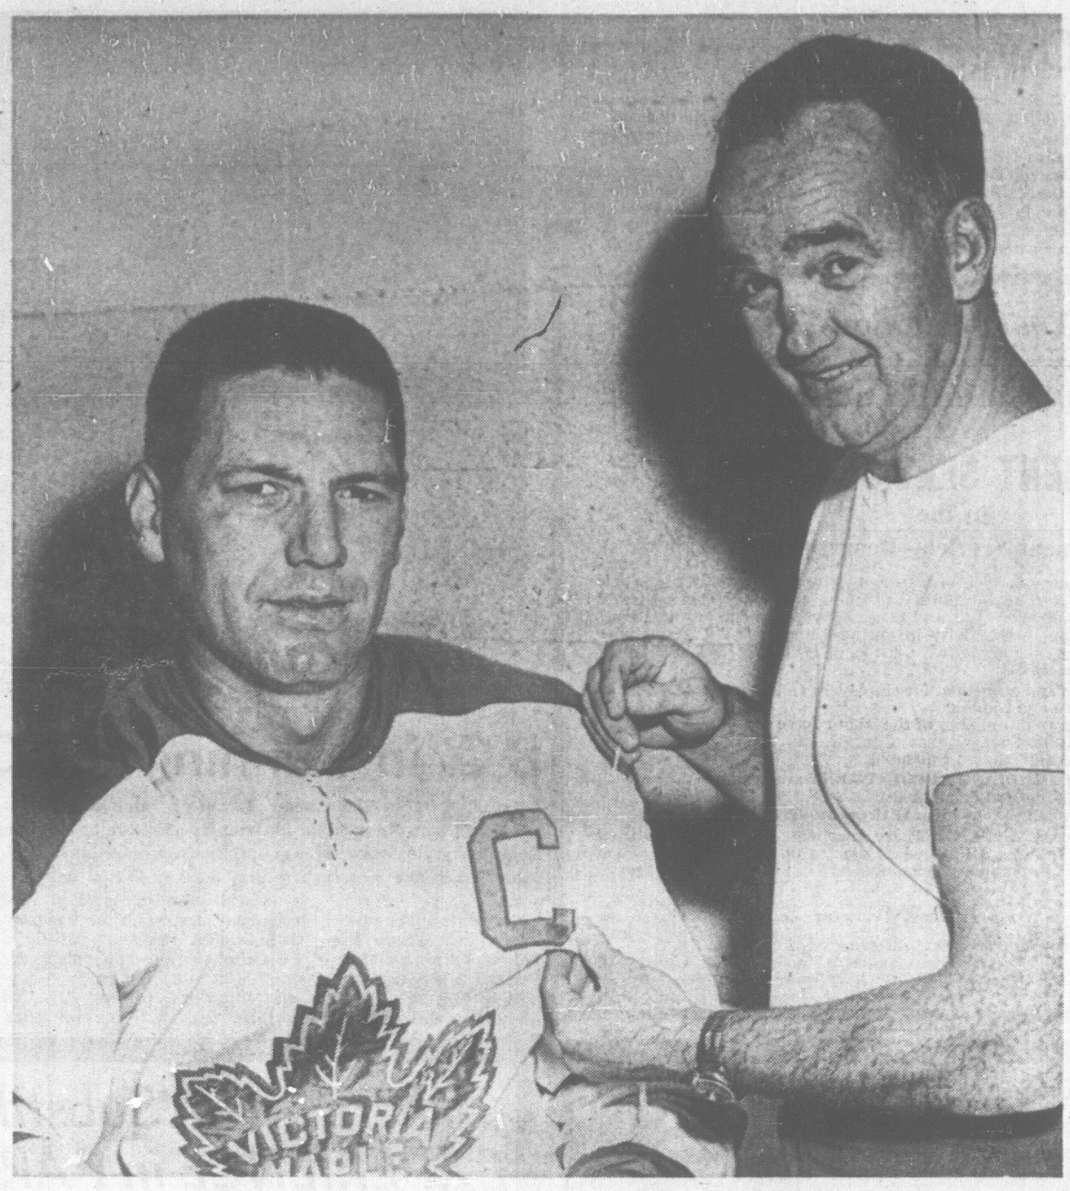

The syndicate has applied for the National Hockey League franchise that has been approved for Vancouver.

Cyrus McLean, head of the syndicate of 11 men, said Tuesday the $500,000 will purchase 90 per cent of the club. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hume, current owners of the Canucks, will retain 5 per cent each.

Hume purchased the Canucks from the Pacific National Exhibition in 1962. It has been estimated that the club has cost him $300,000, including the purchase price and losses since.

On Oct. 20 the NHL voted to include Vancouver in the league's planned expansion to a new six-team division in time for the 1967-68 season. The league endorsed the McLean syndicate's application and that of a group headed by industrialist Frank McMahon.

The McMahon group withdrew its bid Oct. 27.

. . . is being taken by trainer Gordie Marchant to get defenceman Sandy Hucul up to date for tonight's Western Hockey League game at Memorial Arena. Sandy has been elected captain of Victoria Maple Leafs and Marchant sews badge of honor on sweater. Hucul will lead Leafs against San Francisco Seals tonight as Victoria club attempts to bolster league lead. Game time is 8:15.

CONDITION 'IMPROVED' FOR AILING CONACHER

TORONTO (CP)—Charlie Conacher, former National Hockey League star and a member of Hockey's Hall of Fame, was taken to hospital Tuesday after suffering a heart attack at his home.

Officials at Toronto General Hospital reported that Conacher, 55, later underwent an operation. They said his condition was fair at first and early Tuesday night said he was improving.

Conacher, a 13-year veteran of the NHL, is a member of the Toronto family of outstanding athletes that included the late Lionel Conacher, voted Canada's Athlete of the Half-Century in 1950. Charlie coached junior hockey until 1947, when he joined Chicago Black Hawks as a coach, remaining with them until 1949-50.

Blades Belted 9-1 By Powerful Aces

(Times News Services)

QUEBEC—Los Angeles Blades probably are glad they don't meet the Quebec Aces very often.

The power-packed Aces, scoring four goals in the first period, coasted to a 9-1 victory over the touring Blades of the Western Hockey League.

Aces, Eastern Division leaders in the American League, got two goals each from Leon Rochefort and Terry Gray as they outshot the last-place Western League team, 42-23.

Bill Sutherland and Jim Robertson fired power-play goals midway through the first period to get the Aces started. Gray and Rochefort made it 4-0. Rochefort and Ed Hoekstra made it 6-0 in the second period before Willie O'Ree got Los Angeles on the scoreboard with less than a minute left in the period.

Goals by Gray and Don Blackburn inside of 11 seconds late in the third period and another by Cleland Mortson wrapped up scoring.

'Jolly Green Giants' Ready for Bombers

REGINA (UPI)—After ending the season on a winning note by defeating Edmonton Eskimos 15-12 Saturday, the Saskatchewan Roughriders are now busy preparing for the sudden-death Western Football Conference semifinal against Winnipeg Blue Bombers on Sunday.

Sunday's semifinal will be televised on the CBC network (channels 2 and 6 in Victoria), starting at 12 noon.

Coach Eagle Keys is wearing a visible grin when he looks at his Saskatchewan charges because for the first time he has a relatively injury-free crew to toss at the Bombers. All the "Jolly Green Giants" except Bob Ptacek and Ron Atchison are "ready to go."

The Rider coach has no real big changes in mind for Winnipeg. According to the head man, the secret of Roughrider success will be the blocking of the offensive line, and the pass defense. He is optimistic that both will come through.

Riders will be continuing regular drills up until Friday, and will leave for the Manitoba capital Saturday.

Rushing Reed Canada's Best?

MONTREAL — Nobody could successfully stop George Reed this season on the pleateaux and veldts of the Canadian Football League.

Now, the question is, can Garney Henley?

Henley is the lone man in the way of Reed's drive to the Schenley Award as Canada's outstanding football player.

Their names popped up on the second ballot this week as all others were eliminated.

Reed rushed more than a mile for Saskatchewan Roughriders, whose main weapon had been the pass-catch combination of Ron Lancaster and Hugh Campbell. Reed put teeth into the Roughies' attack behind what many believe was the best offensive line in the country.

TICAT MAINSTAY

Henley, at 180 some 30 pounds lighter than Reed, has been a mainstay with Hamilton Tiger-Cats since 1960. He plays offence and defence, either brilliantly.

Along the Schenley trail also marched Larry Robinson, Zeno Karcz, John Barrow and Wayne Harris.

The Stamps' Robinson has to beat out Ticats' Karcz for the top Canadian award. It won't be easy.

Robinson has won the Western Conference individual scoring title the last two years with his talented toe. He is a good if not great defensive back. Karcz counts his points not on the scoreboard but on the number of enemy ball carriers he has maltreated. Hamilton was the top defensive team in the east and Zeno was one of the reasons.

FANTASTIC STRENGTH

Barrow and Harris have all the qualifications and more for lineman-of-the-year honors.

Barrow's fantastic strength and agility earned him the title before and could do it again. Harris, tiny at 195 by gridiron standards for a middle linebacker, strikes terror in the hearts of ball-carrying halfbacks with fierce tackles.

Of him it has been said: "If he weighed 30 pounds more he would be murder."

As elections go, this one should be a pip.

Hannigan Sold

Hannigan, who was drafted for $20,000 by the National League Wings last June, was returned to the Bisons for $15,000.

Bell Ringing For Referees

Hockey referees will be under the gun this weekend from, of all people, other referees.

District refs will be graded at a two-day clinic at Esquimalt Saturday and Sunday.

The sponsoring B.C. Amateur Hockey Association will have referees Bob Kemp and Don Sarkissian grade their counterparts so that they can work at the level for which they are suited.

Exams will be held at Fraser Street Hall and skating tests will be conducted at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

FOR CHUVALO

Doubt Clouds Future

TORONTO (CP)—Where now for George Chuvalo?

This appears to be the main question posed by Canadian boxing fans following the Canadian champion's unsuccessful bid to capture the World Boxing Association heavyweight championship from Ernie Terrell here Monday night.

It's obvious the 15-round decision won by Terrell knocked the 28-year-old Chuvalo out of the "muddled" title picture for the time being at least.

The six-foot-six Terrell will await the outcome of a 15-round match between Cassius Clay and Floyd Patterson in Las Vegas Nov. 22 in hopes of getting a bout with the winner.

CLEAR UP PICTURE

This would clear up the "confused" heavyweight championship situation that resulted after the WBA stripped Clay of the crown for signing a return match with former champion Sonny Liston.

The WBA has refused to recognize the Clay-Patterson clash as for the heavyweight title.

It is conceivable Chuvalo might work his way back into the title scene, but that won't be for at least another year—if at all. In the meantime, the Canadian might find that a series of bouts in Europe could provide him with a few lucrative purses.

And there is still Madison Square Garden where Chuvalo won the hearts of New Yorkers with a pair of rousing bouts against Doug Jones and Patterson. He stopped Jones in 11 rounds last October and lost a 12-round decision to Patterson four months later.

LIKED IN NEW YORK

Harry Markson, boxing promoter at the garden, attested to this.

"He can come and fight for me in New York as soon as he's rested and we'll pack the house," Markson told the Toronto Telegram Tuesday. "His fights against Jones and Patterson . . . were the best in many years and Chuvalo rates as a top favorite with New York people. . . ."

While the majority of boxing experts and writers at ringside agreed with the unanimous decision, the Chuvalo camp vehemently accused the officials of "robbing" them.

In a heated verbal battle behind closed doors, Chuvalo blamed his manager, Irving Ungerman, for making the match in Toronto.

"Right now we have made no plans for the future, but neither of us is quitting," said Ungerman.

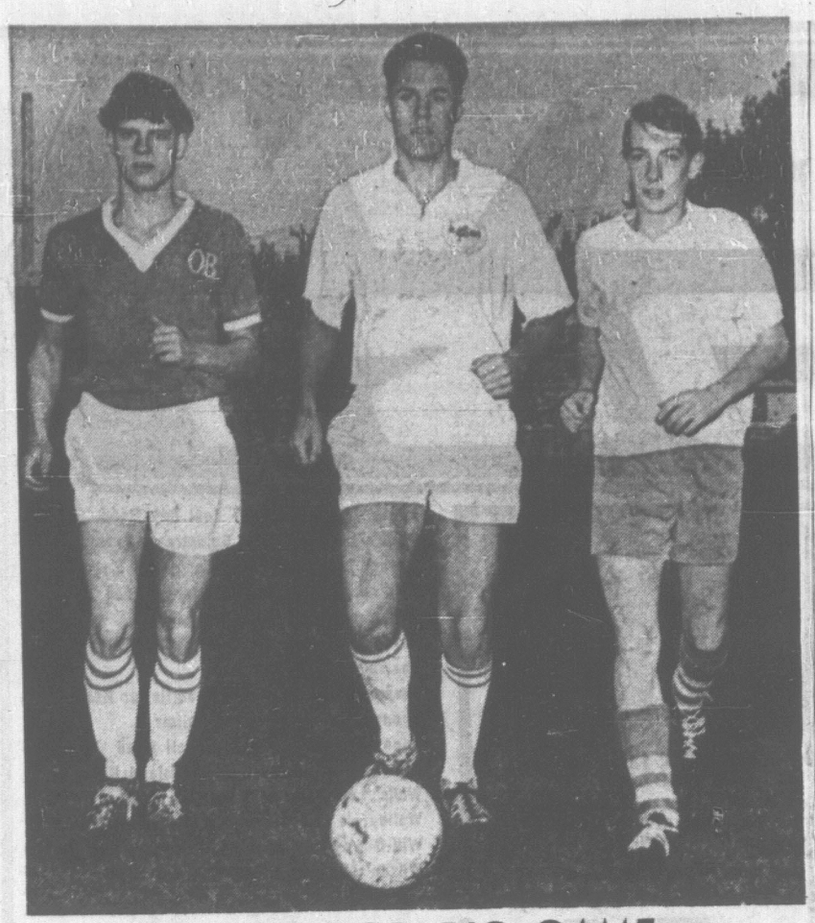

CLAY 'REAL' CHAMP

On the other hand, Terrell is still striving for worldwide recognition. He is recognized in 47 states and 27 countries by the WBA, but the paying public looks to Clay as the "real" world champ.

WORLD ASSOCIATION . . .

Boxing Body a 'Mad Hatter's Outfit'

. . . BREAKS ITS OWN RULES

LONDON (UPI) — The World Boxing Association was referred to as "that mad hatter's outfit" today by Daily Mirror columnist Peter Wilson who took them to task for stripping flyweight champion Salvatore Burruni of his world title.

Wilson, one of the most respected boxing writers in Europe, asked: "I wonder how the low and not-so-mighty WBA justified the selection of the only European holder of a universally-recognized world title for their petty would-be dictatorship."

The globe-trotting columnist pointed out that Burruni is not the only champion who has exceeded the six-month grace period before taking the wraps off his title.

In the case of Giardello and Terrell, he said that the WBA should have stripped them of their titles because they exceeded the time limit before defences against Dick Tiger, the new champion, and George Chuvalo, respectively.

Wilson said "they even break their own rules," then reminded the WBA that Burruni has already signed to defend his title against ranked Australia contender Rocky Gattelari at Sydney, Dec. 2, and that he has announced he would fight the WBA's challenger, Hiroyuki Ebihara of Japan, in January, assuming he got past Gattelari.

Breedlove's Jet Betters World Land Speed Mark

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP)—Craig Breedlove drove his jet-powered car 566 miles per hour Tuesday and set a world land speed record of 555.127 mph.

The record is the average of two runs, back and forth, over a measured mile. In his first run the speed was 544.382 m.p.h. and on the return he was timed at 566.394 m.p.h.

The old record set by Art Arfons of Akron, Ohio, was 536.71 m.p.h.

Arfons probably will try to regain the record next week. He has been waiting to see what Breedlove does.

Both men have jet-powered cars. Their speed record falls into the recently-recognized unlimited class. The record for a piston engine car is 403.1 m.p.h. set by Donald Campbell of England.

VIKING VIEWS

By MIKE WOODLEY

There hasn't been much to cheer about in rugby circles around the University of Victoria so far this season. Last weekend the best the three Uvic teams could manage was a tie. The Vikings, in a lacklustre display, were annihilated 17-0 by a fine-tuned JBAA machine in a first division match.

Bill Carpenter and Russ Baker collected a try and a penalty goal, but it wasn't enough as the Norsemen dropped a 10-6 decision to Navy. In Cowichan Sunday afternoon, the Uvic "thirds" played to a 9-9 sawoff.

Although their won-lost record has left something to be desired, there has been one bright light on the Vikings' horizon. Providing the sparkle is an Englishman by the name of David Clarke.

The London-born Clarke has been in Canada for six of his 27 years, three in Montreal and three in Victoria. In the Vikings' five games to date he has scored 26 of his team's 41 points, good for second place in the Victoria Rugby Union individual scoring race.

Clarke began playing rugby at age 11 and has been at it ever since. He spent two years at Loughborough College in London and during that time he played with one of the top rugby clubs in the British Isles. The Wasps Rugby-Football Club in London sponsors 20 teams. Clarke played for the first team.

In 1959, Dave Felt the urge to move so he came to Canada. In 1962 he went back to England as a member of the Canadian national team which toured the United Kingdom. On that national team Clarke met several B.C. players. When they returned to Canada, Dave followed them out to Victoria. For the past two seasons Clarke has performed with the Oak Bay Wanderers. This year he decided to pick up his education again and this move has pleased Uvic's rugby coach Howard Gerwing no end. For without Clarke, the rugby Vikings would indeed be in a sorry state.

Last year Wally Yeamans had a Canadian champion. This time around he doesn't know what he'll have. Yeamans is the coach of the University Vicettes, reigning Canadian junior women's basketball champs. This week the Vicettes began preparation for defence of their title here next March by trimming First United juniors 30-18.

The new edition probably won't be as strong as the unit which won all the marbles in Montreal in April of this year. With only two members of that squad, Gaynol Vosburgh and Eleanor Ingebritson, with the Vicettes this season, Yeamans has his work cut out for him.

Leading the rookie parade is Marg Maysmith, the Vic High product who was the most valuable player and a first all-star in the 1965 Island high school playdowns. Marg also set a new record by swishing 19 of 20 tosses in the free-throw competition at the B.C. high school finals at UBC last year.

She will be teaming up with four former opponents, Oak Bay grads Lynn and Lee Hagglund, Jean Robertson and Marg Oliver. Lee and Jean joined Miss Maysmith on the first all-star team in the Island tournament at Courtenay eight months ago.

From Fort St. John come two other promising rookies, Pat Shevkenek and Irene Smith. Miss Smith was the most valuable player in the north central high school tournament at Prince George last season.

Judging by their performance against First United, although they won, the '65-'66 Vicettes have a long way to go in order to live up to the rating of Canadian champions. But with a lot of hard work and the expert coaching of Walter Yeamans, this rookie-studded aggregation might capture another Canadian crown. The potential may be there.

This weekend at UBC, the Pacific Northwest college women's field hockey tournament is to be staged. Teams from 22 different women's colleges from as far away as Idaho will be competing. The Uvic "A" team, coached by Mrs. Doris Watton, will be our representative in this tourney.

Mrs. Watton says she will be "very disappointed if we don't come home with the silverware. Our girls have had much more experience at the junior and senior high school levels. Almost all of the girls from the other schools didn't even know what a grass hockey stick looked like until they got to college."

BOWLER OF WEEK

Finalist in Bowler-of-the-Year rolloff for Times Trophy in 1963 and winner of title last spring, May Wallis is back for another shot at rolloff crown. She collected Times Bowler-of-the-Week award in women's fivepin division and qualified for third annual rolloff with three-game series of 803 in Mixed Classic League at Gibson's Recreations. Mrs. Wallis, a Pacific Coast champ, looks like a good bet to become the first to win two rolloff crowns in May because that happens to be May's lucky month.

Surtees Quelches Optimist

LONDON (UPI) — Former world driving champion John Surtees, badly injured in a crash five weeks ago, said reports he would be racing again by Christmas were "premature."

Surtees, 32, was flown as a stretcher case to London on Oct. 18, three weeks after his crash while practising for the Canadian Grand Prix in Mosport, Ont.

Speaking from his hospital bed here, he said "I'm certainly making a good recovery, but I don't know yet when I'll be back to full fitness. I will not consider my racing plans until my doctors here advise me that I have made a complete recovery."

The Daily Mirror's Tommy Wisdom had quoted the Ferrari ace, who sustained a badly-smashed pelvis among other injuries, as saying he "hopes to be walking within a fortnight and driving again by Christmas."

PROFESSOR BACKS SAUCERS

History Full of Scoffers

Some unearthly facts—and perhaps fancies—were given Victoria Kiwanians at a luncheon meeting in the Empress Hotel on Tuesday.

Speaking on unidentified flying objects was P. M. H. Edwards, associate professor of linguistics and modern languages at the University of Victoria.

He made a case, if not for extra - terrestial intelligence, then for a "fair intellectual response "to its possibility.

Prof. Edwards said "the rut of orthodoxy" is the enemy of knowledge.

He said arguments used against Copernicus and Kepler are exactly those used now to deny the awesome possibility that there are intelligent beings in outer space.

History offers parallels, he said.

"British scientists, confronted with Edison's discoveries said 'they did not deserve the consideration of any real scientist.' "

Prof. Edwards, himself at first a skeptic, weighed the evidence and is now convinced that unidentified flying objects are controlled by beings from outer space.

He told about sightings and said they are not connected with any of the earth's armies or armaments programs.

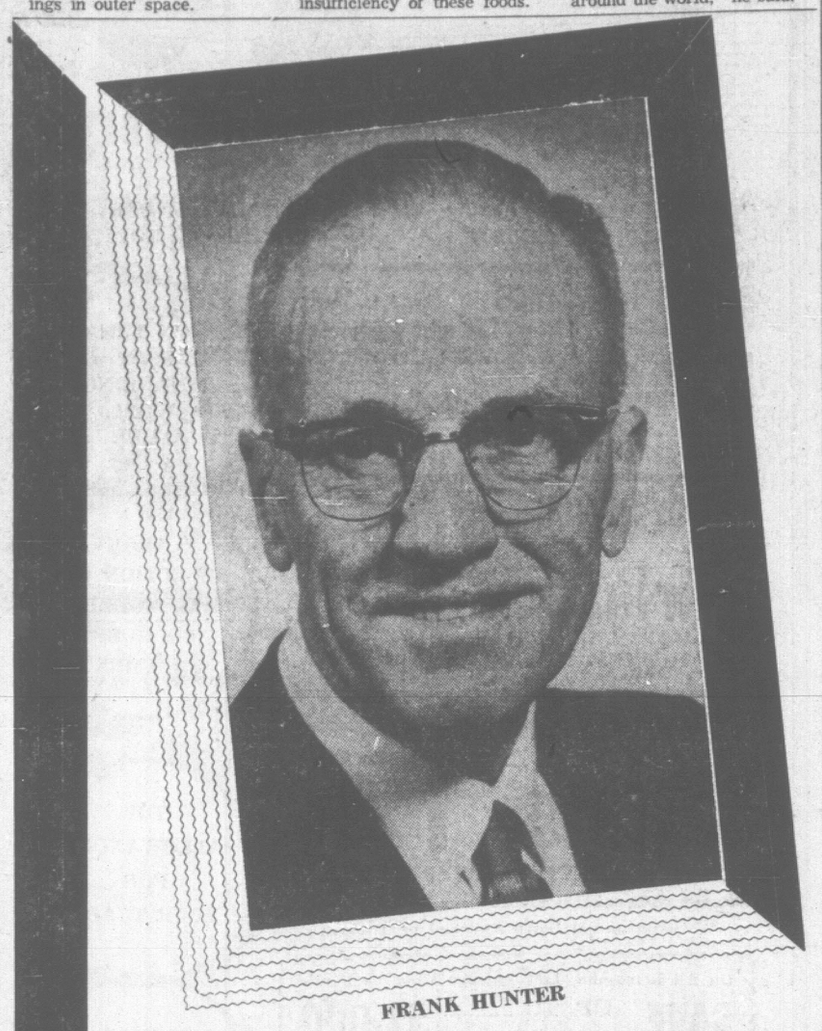

"They have been seen for a long time. In fact, much of mythology stems from these sightings, including phenomena like the Irish 'leprechauns," said the professor.

He said that even disregarding reports of sightings by obvious cranks, the fact remains the objects are being seen by independent, disinterested observers.

"The locations of the sightings make straight lines around the world," he said.

INDIANS SKIP MONDAY MEAL

NEW DELHI (AP)—Families throughout India fasted and restaurants suspended services in response to Prime Minister Shastri's call for everyone to pass up the Monday night meal each week. Shastri said this will help conserve rice and wheat and partly tide over the chronic insufficiency of these foods.

HARMFUL TO CANADA

Tory Disturbed By 'Bitterness'

The Liberal election theme of a need for a majority government was attacked Tuesday night by former Conservative MP George Chatterton.

In the last Parliament, it was known to every MP that one of the three minor parties would always support the government, he said.

Prime Minister Pearson called the election because he thought the Conservatives were disunited, Mr. Chatterton told 40 persons in Hampton Hall.

'PARTISAN REASONS'

"He called it for partisan political reasons," he said.

"And it has done harm. There is a kind of cynical, bitter attitude across the country. This is unhealthy.

"Part of the cause of this feeling is the attitude of government towards wrongdoing."

Mr. Chatterton, seeking re-election in Esquimalt-Saanich, said there will always be those who are tempted.

"But it is most unfortunate if the government of the day appears to condone wrongdoing."

MISLEADING

In a 20-minute speech followed by a question period, he criticized federal government advertisements on the Canada Pension Plan as misleading.

The full-page ads in newspapers didn't tell of the shortcomings of the plan, how those in greatest need—those retired or not earning—wouldn't benefit from it.

The pension plan "discriminates heavily" against young married women, whose earnings by age 65 would be insignificant because of years at home with family, he said.

He also criticized full-page advertisements by the Liberals reproducing 1963 promises with ticks beside almost every item saying it was done or underway."

'CUNNING'

"This is the cunning type of advertisement they are putting forward," he said.

Half the items ticked off haven't been done, he said. One of them is 10,000 scholarships each for $1,000.

$100 PENSIONS

Mr. Chatterton emphasized these Conservative promises:

- A $100-a-month pension for all recipients of old-age security;
- Extension of National Housing Act loans to older homes;
- Municipal taxes (before application of the homeowner grant) up to $500 to be deductible from federal income tax;
- Abolition of the 11 per cent sales tax on building materials, which he said adds $1,000 to the cost of a new home;
- Make possible for every Canadian with ability to attend university or vocational school through increased grants;
- Revise upwards the pensions being paid to retired federal civil servants;
- Restore the 35 per cent shipbuilding subsidy.

THIS IS NEW!

"... CANADA INDEPENDENT!"

IT SHOULD BE

In spite of most of our main industries and much of our natural wealth being under direct or indirect contol of the United States.

In spite of pressures from Washington and unrevealed communications from the American Government.

In spite of all these things and many more, Canada should follow an independent policy.

The DEMOCRATIC PARTY thinks so. Don't you?

TELL THEM YOU'VE HAD ENOUGH

You've put up with the old line parties for one election after another. Socialism is a proven failure. Now tell them all you have had enough. Tell them what you think of the policies they say are good enough for Canada. In recent years Ottawa's unjust treatment of British Columbia has mounted. The parties rooted in Toronto and Montreal must now be rooted out of British Columbia. This time tell them you want a complete change. Israel Rejects Ben-Gurion's Bid

With nearly half of the 3,059 voting districts reporting, Eshkol's Mapai Labor Party and its ally, the left-wing Achdut Haavada, seemed assured of at least 42 of the 120-seats in the Knesset (parliament). The two parties had 43 seats in the old Knesset.

The Mapai - Achdut Haavoda coalition was polling about 38 per cent of the total vote, compared with 18.6 per cent for the right wing bloc of Herut and the Liberal parties and nine per cent for Ben-Gurion's new Rafi Party.

Eshkol now will be able to continue in power as head of a multi-party coalition similar to the Mapai-led governments which have ruled Israel for the 17 years of its existence.

Ben - Gurion, 79, quarrelled with Eshkol, 70, over the running of the government and the so-called "Lavon affair," a security mishap that occurred 10 years ago in Egypt. Ben-Gurion wanted a judicial inquiry into the incident but the Mapai leadership led by Eshkol wanted to forget it.

Ben - Gurion stormed out of retirement to split Mapai, which he helped found, and to campaign against Eshkol as head of the new party.

The Communists, who split into Arab and Zionist factions, made a worse showing at the polls than four years ago when they won five Knesset seats. The Arab Communists were expected to win two seats and the Zionists perhaps one.

School Expansion

NELSON (CP) — The federal government announced Tuesday approval of a $1,500,000 addition to the B.C. vocational school here. The federal government will provide $1,125,000 toward the cost of construction and the provincial government $375,000.

ORDERED back to Seattle to face a $200,000 burglary charge are Byron Harker, 22, formerly of Edmonton and now of Seattle, left, and Ronald Switzer, 25, of Kennewick, Wash. The pair were arrested in San Francisco by the FBI Monday after $116,064 was found in their hotel suite. They have been sought since September after $200,000 was stolen from the home of a Seattle restaurant owner who died last July.

Davis 'All For' B.C. Private Bank

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jack Davis, parliamentary assistant to Prime Minister Pearson in the last House, said Tuesday night he is "all for" a private bank in British Columbia, "perhaps even called the Bank of B.C."

But, he said in an election meeting in his constituency of Coast Capilano, the bank must in no way be connected with the Social Credit provincial government.

C. SAANICH CENTENNIAL PROJECT

Pool, Bowl Green Backed

Central Saanich council Tuesday approved in principle construction of a swimming pool and bowling green as a Centennial project.

It approved the project after Al Vickers, chairman of the centennial committee, said 18 organizations are in favor of Central Saanich undertaking a project on its own.

They all favored a swimming pool and bowling green.

Councillors at first were reluctant to approve the proposal. They felt it would be too costly to construct and maintain a swimming pool.

Mr. Vickers said the committee could not go into the matter of costs until council approved the project.

"We can't very well ask you for money to pay for plans and to find out how much the job will cost until you have approved the project," he explained.

Shooting on Cyprus

NICOSIA (Reuters) — The eastern Cypriot port of Famagusta was quiet today after overnight shooting in which four Greek-Cypriots were reported wounded. A United Nations spokesman said Swedish UN troops re-established posts which they evacuated during the hour-long shooting Tuesday night.

DOING ALL WE CAN, SAYS INDUSTRY

'Pulp Odors Don't Hurt Anyone'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pulp mill odors are a nuisance, but research so far has failed to find them injurious to human health, an industry official said Tuesday.

Pulp makers are doing "all that is necessary and economically feasible" to check air pollution in B.C., said R. F. Patterson, general manager of Canadian Forest Products Ltd. He spoke to a convention of the Air Pollution Control Association.

The seven major pulp companies are spending about $50,000 a year on a joint research program conducted by the B. C. Research Council.

Mr. Patterson said B.C. is producing more than 4,000 tons of marketable pulp a day.

"This is a good piece of the B.C. economy, and we don't want to do anything that would hurt our world markets. But we will do whatever is necessary."

Dr. G. H. Bonham, director of the North Shore health unit, said a barrier to better air quality in B.C. is the failure to separate industry from residential communities. There was a lack of provincial legislation correcting the problem.

He said medical research has failed to provide convincing data of the effects of air pollution on health.

Impaired Drivers Get $350 Fines

Two impaired drivers were each fined $350 and suspended from driving when they pleaded guilty in central court Tuesday.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1965 --PAGE 25

Automatic Increases Set In Compensation Benefits

Arthur Mayse

The young folk of good Dr. Taylor's Finnerty Road academy are always up to something, and today I have before me the results of a pre-election poll conducted by members of a campus political club titled the Christian Atheist Party.

That name, I'm assured, has nothing whatever to do with religion or the lack of it, and club spokesmen describe the group as politically non-aligned.

On, then, to its poll results, tabulated from answers given by 445 Uvic students:

Liberals, 32.4%; New Democratic Party, 23.8%; Progressive Conservatives, 11.5%; Social Credit, 2.9%; Communist, .4%; undecided or uninterested, 30.3%.

What surprises me about these percentages is the gap they reveal between Liberal and Progressive Conservative ratings. My notion, which would appear to stand disapproved, has been that students tend to toss the old-line parties into the same basket.

As to how completely the attitudes of Canada at large are reflected by the student cross-section, we can only guess.

Sticking my own neck out a dangerous distance, I would transpose NDP and PC scores to obtain the Nov. 8 standings.

Not content with their poll, the Christian Atheists, whose name is plucked from a Steinbeck play, also whopped our local candidates over their heads with an election questionnaire.

Mrs. Vera Pipes, Socred hope for Esquimalt-Saanich, isn't represented on the answer sheets, by her own request, I'm told. But the rest are, and for the most part, they seem to have dealt faithfully with their interrogators.

"What," one question demands, "is your party's campaign budget for this constituency?"

Of the PCs, Clifford Waite didn't wish his answer printed, but George Chatterton gave the Esquimalt-Saanich figure as approximately $4,500 from local contributors and provincial headquarters.

"Adequate," Liberal James Gorst is quoted as replying. Davey Groos gave the Victoria Liberal war chest as "less than last election's," and said it came chiefly from donations.

(The survey gave Mr. Groos $1,500 weekly. I was later assured an error had been perpetrated, and that the figure indicated his campaign letter output.)

NDPs Lloyd Brereton and Leonard Stephenson claim $3,000 and $3,500 respectively.

"I do not know," the answer sheet quotes him, a touch primly, "as I have nothing to do with the campaign funds."

None of those questioned would have Canada join the Organization of American States. Most saw her ideal position as a "peacemaker" or "middle power"; Mr. Morrison preferred "neutral."

To the question, "What is your stand on Canada's sale of her water resources to the U.S.?" replies ranged so widely and in some cases whimsically that it would appear the candidates—and in fairness, Canadians at large—need very much more information than has yet been made available to them on this matter.

Capital punishment, that awkward chestnut which government can't forever leave on the fire, drew a majority—but provisional—abolition vote. Exceptions were Mr. Hunter and Mr. Morrison.

To "Should capital punishment be abolished for life imprisonment?" the Socred contender gave a flat "No," and the Communist, a firm "Yes."

From where I sit, however, the chief point of interest in this student endeavor isn't questions asked or answers given.

It is the quality of the thinking that went into the questionnaire, and the obvious interest of its sponsore in the world beyond their campus.

Just possibly, when their turn comes to run for office, and they take their own lumps from probing questioners, they'll come up with a better set of answers!

"TAKING A TRIP, Tabitha? Well, don't take up with any Toms." Exchanging catty remarks are two strays in care of Cats' Protective League, who have display and information centre for National Cat Week set up at 709 Johnson Street. The models fought, bit and scratched in true feminine—er, feline fashion before photographer Bill Halkett could catch them, perched inside Kitty Kaddy, latest means of locomotion for four-legged, furred pets.

Beach, Park Work 'Severely Curbed' By Money Shortage

Financial restrictions almost strangled Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks improvements this year, Victoria parks administrator Herbert Warren today told a joint committee.

In his end-of-season report to city and Saanich delegates who administer the city-owned areas in Saanich, Mr. Warren said: "This year's activities were severely restricted and meant holding the line. Therefore, scarcely any new work was undertaken."

This was due to proposed development at Mount Douglas Park, he said.

The administrator submitted a list of work needing to be done, adding the sanding of all beaches.

"This list is the same as submitted at this time in 1964, which points up the fact that we are not making much progress," Mr. Warren's report said.

At the same time, use of the semi-urban recreation areas jumped by nearly 25 per cent over the 1964 season, he said.

The count showed 87,650 persons made use of Hamsterly Beach, 76,250 used Beaver Lake and 42,450 went to Eagle Park.

There were 28 large, organized picnics at the latter.

Recommendations include modernizing toilets at Mount Douglas Park; removal of dangerous stumps, extension of beach and parking at Hamsterly; extension of beach, picnic facilities and weed control at Eagle Park; removal of underwater stumps and general repair and improvement at Beaver Lake.

The future should also include acquisition of private property on the west side of Elk Lake between the water and the old Victoria-Sidney Railway to make the shore accessible to hikers, Mr. Warren said.

Chief Poses Burning Question

Danger of spontaneous combustion in tons of mill waste used to fill old filter beds at Beaver Lake Park was scored today by Saanich fire chief J. C. Sutherland.

Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee was told the land fill operation had been suspended until more money is available to buy sub-soil topping for the sawdust waste.

Fire Chief Sutherland said he found waste smouldering in several places when he inspected the site last month.

"The situation is not as serious as it appears," parks administrator Herbert Warren told the committee.

'FERMENTING'

"It wasn't burning, it was fermenting."

"Much like a compost pile?" Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis asked.

"Yes, or manure pile," Mr. Warren said.

To satisfy the fire department means trucking in soil, for which there are no funds left this year.

The committee deferred the land fill question to its first meeting next year.

The chief also complained that too much material was allowed to accumulate before being spread out, with the result that access roads were obstructed.

New House Faces Wrecking Prospect In Setback Ruling

A man having a new home built in Oak Bay may be forced to tear it down.

The home is being built at 532 Beach Drive and is 70 per cent completed, Oak Bay council learned Monday night.

The dwelling is violating municipal setback regulations as it is two feet too close to Beach Drive on one corner.

Builder Walter Wilson, 3391 Veteran Street, asked permission for the home to remain in its present position.

"We can't approve a breech of a bylaw," commented Reeve Allan Cox.

Mr. Wilson will be advised by council to take his application to the zoning appeal board.

Murder Trial Opens Here On Nov. 22

McIntyre Named Crown Prosecutor

The trial of David Leonard Robinson on a charge of murdering Susan Freschi, 14-year-old California schoolgirl, will begin in Victoria Law Courts on Monday, Nov. 22, at 11 a.m.

Susan Freschi's naked body was found in the woods near her temporary home at View Royal on May 12 last.

AUGUST HEARING

Preliminary hearing was held in central magistrate's court last August.

The Fall Assizes open Tuesday, Nov. 9, at 11 a.m., with the trial of Gerald Brune, Sidney Travers and Russell Bowcott on a charge of breaking and entering and theft of a safe from the Fairfield Pharmacy, 300 Cook Street, on July 6 last.

Crown prosecutor in the trial is Louis F. Lindholm. Alan Bigelow is defending Brune and Dermod Owen-Flood will appear for Travers and Bowcott.

Scheduled for hearing Nov. 15 at 11 a.m. is the trial of Mary Jean Bilton, 3138 Cook Street, charged with manslaughter involving the death of her six-month-old baby girl last June.

The body of the child was found in a crib about two weeks after death.

18-Month Term For Bad Cheque

Cashing a bad cheque for $150 resulted in an 18-months jail sentence today for Dennis Breeze, no fixed address.

Breeze, who has four previous convictions for car theft and six for assault, pleaded guilty.

Loaded Guns in Car Cost City Man $50

Sooke Magistrate Eugene Murphy also ordered that two guns belonging to Lawrence May, 770 Queens, be confiscated.

The magistrate noted that one rifle was defective and the other had holes drilled in the muzzle to reduce noise. He pointed out that the circumstances of the case brought it under the provisions of the "pit-lamping" section of the game laws.

Magistrate Murphy said anyone found with firearms at night in an area where deer are usually found may be prosecuted under the pit-lamping law that carries a minimum penalty of $500.

Police gave evidence that May was caught with loaded weapons during a routine check on the West Coast Road between Jordan River and Port Renfrew. He was checked at 1:30 on the morning of Oct. 22.

HELP SCORE FAIR SHARE GOAL

United Appeal total rose to an even 70 per cent today—with an encouraging $307,592 in the campaign kitty.

The figure represents a boost of over 7 per cent since Monday, the day the fund drive was officially extended in order to reach its goal.

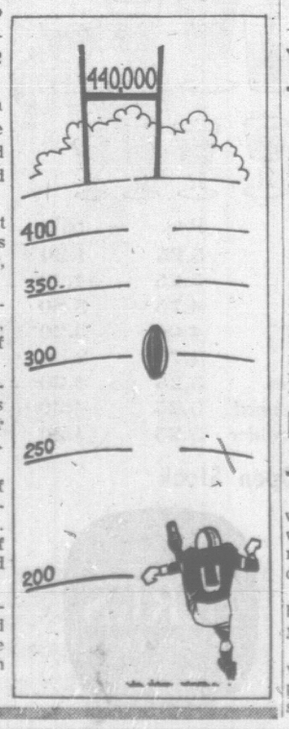

United Appeal booth at corner of Yates and Douglas took in $458.50 on Tuesday, the best day so far.

The booth, opened as a convenience to downtown donors, has so far taken in a total of $1,700.

Another good omen, according to campaign officials, was confirmation of a pledge for $2,300 from employees of B.C. Hydro in Victoria.

Two second-time winners of the appeal's award of excellence were named today. They are the Royal Bank of Canada, 1102 Fort St., and King Bros. Ltd.

Both had 100 per cent employee participation in fund drive, with equivalent of one day's pay or more from each employee.

'BULLETS DON'T UNDERSTAND'

Peter Havas, 930 McClure, couldn't wait to test a rifle he bought Oct. 12.

And today Havas was fined $15 for unlawfully firing a gun within the city limits. He was allowed to have the gun back.

Havas told Magistrate William Ostler that he thought it was permissible to fire the rifle on his own property.

Replied the magistrate: "Unfortunately bullets don't understand they have to stay on your property."

Retroactive Money In Mail by Dec. 1

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson today announced a major revision of workmen's compensation benefits and pensions — introducing a system for automatic increases in the future — which will cost about $20 million to cover existing cases alone.

For 1,965 widows it means a $275 retroactive cheque, and between $55 and $500 for each of their 2,167 children—depending on age and school status—by the beginning of December.

WCB chairman J. E. Eades, QC, told The Times from Vancouver his organization will send out the cheques as rapidly as possible and "certainly I'll be surprised and very disappointed if they aren't in the mail by Dec. 1."

Besides the widows and children, the WCB has 11,603 disability pensioners on its roll and it pays an average of 30,000 time-loss cheques in the course of a year—all of which will be increased.

The government will set a precedent by splitting the cost of retroactive increases with industry.

But all new cases after Jan. 1, 1966, will be paid the higher benefits entirely at industry's cost—the traditional situation—through the normal assessments levied by the WCB.

The new benefits provide higher pensions for widows, higher allowances for longer periods to their children, higher minimum allowances to disabled workers and introduce a cost of living bonus for the first time.

They were signed into law by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes in the form of an order-in-council under a prior authorization given by last spring's legislature.

It was the first major revision of the Workmen's Compensation Act in 11 years and was based on interim recommendations of the Tysoe Royal Commission.

All Retroactive to Jan. 1

The new benefits are retroactive to Jan. 1 of this year. They provide:

- An increase from $90 to $115 a month for dependent widows and invalid widowers;
- An increase from $35 to $40 a month as an allowance for each child of the pensioners under 16;
- An entirely new category of $45 monthly allowance for the same children between the ages of 16 and 18 if they are still going to school;
- Another new category raising the allowance to $50 for the same children between 18 and 21 if they are still going to school;
- A maximum lump sum settlement for a pensioned widow of $2,500 on remarriage, instead of the present $1,500 limit;
- An increase in the minimum compensation payable to disabled workers from the present $25 a month to a new "floor" of $30 a month;

An increase in the funeral and burial allowance from the present $250 to $350, effective last Nov. 1.

Two other provisions will have far-reaching effects on future disability payments.

The maximum annual earnings "base" of $5,000 used in calculating the individual payments will be raised to $6,600, the highest in Canada.

And an entirely new section has been written into the act under which all payments are to be increased automatically in 2 per cent increments every time the bureau of statistics consumer price index rises 2 per cent over the base year of 1964.

Mr. Peterson said the allowances will not be cut as a result of any decrease in the index.

He also pointed out that the automatic feature is likely to eliminate any need for royal commissions to review the act in the future as has been the rule in the past.

Many Companies Disappeared

The government will pay half of the estimated $20 million for the fund to take care of increases for the existing cases because many of them involve employees of companies that have disappeared.

"We felt it would be unfair to assess today's industries for the entire cost of the increases to these people," said Mr. Peterson. "But industry will bear the full cost, as usual, for all new cases at the higher rates."

The fund will be capitalized to provide annual interest income sufficient to cover the difference between old and new benefits for the existing cases as long as needed.

The new rates were based on interim recommendations of Mr. Justice C. W. Tysoe who completed the inquiry late last year. It was begun three years ago by the late Chief Justice A. C. DesBrisay.

Final report, including recommendations regarding administration practices of the board, is not expected for another month or so, Mr. Peterson said.

Mr. Peterson said that, as education minister, he was gratified to see Judge Tysoe's recommendation for increasing the age range and the size of the monthly allowance for widows' children attending school.

"This recognizes that it is more costly, for clothes and other things, to support an older child at school."

The last revisions to the act followed a royal commission headed by the late Chief Justice Gordon Sloan in 1954.

"Royal commissions have been the usual method employed to determine revisions needed," said Mr. Peterson. "Judge Tysoe recommended the consumer price index factor so that increases could be more automatic and not fall behind need as happens when they must depend on arbitrary decisions of the legislature."

'WHAT'S GOING ON?'

City Family Aboard Troubled Raffaello

Lou Holker, 2535 Killarney Place, phoned a friend in the city from aboard the liner Raffaello in mid-Atlantic Tuesday evening.

"He said the ship had turned back for Italy, the passengers weren't being told why, and he wanted me to find out," said the friend, John Damgaard, 3815 Cadboro Bay.

"They were limping back to Genoa, Italy, and he said they (The Holkers) planned to fly home from there," said Mr. Damgaard.

"He wanted to know what was wrong."

SECOND TRIP

With Mr. Holker are his wife, and son Brian, 21.

They were returning home after a month and half tour of Europe.

The Holkers' travel agent, Bill Ferguson of Totem Travel Service, heard this morning from New York via Vancouver that "electrical trouble" was what caused the liner to turn back.

No details were given, except that the Raffaello's next two sailings were being cancelled. No reason was given why the liner headed back to Italy instead of proceeding to New York, only a day away.

FOUR DAYS OUT

She was scheduled to arrive in New York today, but is returning to Genoa, which she left on Oct. 26.

Raffaello made her maiden voyage from New York to Italy on Oct. 15.

Mr. Damgaard said Mr. and Mrs. Holker have witnessed or narrowly missed two other mishaps at sea.

One was on the liner Oriana, which was rammed by an aircraft carrier in Los Angeles in December, 1962.

"He's always there," said Mr. Damgaard of Mr. Holker.

"Maybe he's a jinx."

TOPICS of the DAY

On a one-day visit to Victoria Thursday, Canadian author Farley Mowat will autograph copies of his books in Eaton's book department from 3 to 4 p.m.

His most recent publication, West Viking, is a modern-day saga in which he retraces the voyages by sea of the ancient Vikings.

An earlier book, The Desperate People, roused controversy with a scathing attack on the handling of Eskimo problems by Canada's northern affairs department.

The second person involved in a break-in Oct. 9 at Rankin's Ladies' Wear, 725 Yates, pleaded guilty to the charge in central court Tuesday.

Monday the other person involved, Peter Cloutier, pleaded guilty and was also remanded for sentence.

Detective Richard Berry said today that police have recovered about $460 worth of women's apparel stolen in the $700 break-in. He said Larson kept the clothes in a locker after the theft.

Youth Admits Theft From Boss

A young man who pleaded guilty to stealing $160 from his employer was remanded Tuesday to Friday for sentence.

Dennis Morgan, 2861 Carlow, pocketed payments for goods he sold at Suburban Motors, according to evidence given by Saanich detective Norman Baker. Morgan later cancelled the office copy of the sales receipts he gave out for payment.

Hit-Run Driver Jailed 8 Months

An eight-month jail sentence was imposed Tuesday on a man who pleaded guilty to hit-and-run driving and driving while disqualified.

Bacteria Counted

Cream Jugs In Cafes Investigated

The provincial health department has ordered an investigation into the conditions under which cream is supplied in local cafes.

Inspectors have been asked to look out for cream placed in jugs and to report if it might constitute a threat to health.

In many cases, the article said, cream was poured into jugs and laid out on tables.

This could lead to formation of bacteria in the cream which affects the lower intestines.

Deputy health minister James A. Taylor said today: "I've asked the inspectors to look into the matter.

"They will report back on whether there's any problem in this respect in the province."

He added: "I don't think there's any cause for worry. Most dairies supply cream in plastic containers which cuts out the human handling element."

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Impression of Youthfulness

Be it wartime or peacetime, there is never any shortage of spare tires which circle the feminine waist. The thickening waistline might almost be called a badge of middle-age since it is such a usual occurence with passing years. As a matter of fact, from a fairly early age on a woman must begin doing battle with calories and inactivity if she hopes to keep the tape-measure honest!

Lowman

The battle must be fought from three directions. In the first place stretched or lax abdominal muscles add inches to the waist measurement. Poor posture can also make a difference of inches. If you have any doubt that is is true, try allowing your abdomen to protrude and then measure your waist. Next pull your abdomen in and hold it that way while you measure again.

Then of course there are our enemies, the fatty deposits, which cling to our waistlines as though they love us. Well, it isn't mutual! It's a one-sided love affair because there is nothing a woman hates much more than a roll over the girdle.

A slim waist gives the impression of youthfulness. Fortunately this measurement responds more quickly and happily to diet and exercise than any other.

If you are overweight you will have to count calories as well as exercise. The prescription for exercise consists of abdominal toning and flattening exercises, along with some which stretch and slim the waist,

Remember that you will be giving your health a boost as well as your figure. A strong abdominal girdle of muscles is a necessity for best condition and most energy.

Try the following exercise. Stand with your right side toward the wall, about two feet away from the wall, right hand on the wall. Raise your left arm up by your left ear. Bend your trunk toward the wall and touch your fingers of the left hand to the wall. Keep your arm by your ear when you bend toward the wall. Stand as far away from the wall as you can and still keep your right hand on the wall and your left arm by your ear and touch the wall with the fingers of your left hand. After 10 times turn so that your left side is toward the wall and your right arm by your ear.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Roll Out the Barrel For the Penny Parade

By Penny Saver

Every year when I tear October off the calendar, a wave of panic sweeps over me. My purse strings are limp, and December 25 is racing up. Then, with a crafty glint in my eye, I decide to assume the role of a miser, and hoard all my money away.

This year, I am going to do it in a conventional manner—in a "penny bank". In one shop, I spotted a novel barrel, with the inscription "Barrel of Money", selling at $4.85. All members of the Saver household got a chuckle out of my purchase.

Other great ideas to help you want to save your pennies are huge black puppies and laughing donkeys, and grumpy bulldogs, selling at $4.50 each.

One item that I've discovered will ease the boredom that accompanies long winter evenings. It's a cribbage board shaped like a salmon. Made in Nanaimo, out of hard beach-comb wood, these boards sell at $4.95 each.

Why not invite the neighbors over for a foursome on your new cribbage board? Serve coffee in tri-point cups that this shop offers for 89 cents each. These ceramic cups are Vancouver-made, and feature the provincial dogwood design. You have a choice of either green or brown, and glazed or unglazed interior.

Various ceramic ashtrays caught my eye. A plain tri-point sells at 98 cents. A more decorative item was a black ashtray with a glazed green interior, and a white dogwood design in the centre. These sell at 89 cents each.

A lovely serving dish, ideal for sandwiches and other snacks, selling at $8.95, would complement the ceramic coffee set.

Held In Wardroom of HMCS Naden

ELEGANCE KEYNOTES SHOW

Luxury and the double-breasted look keynoted a fast-moving show held in the wardroom of HMCS Naden, Tuesday evening, under the sponsorship of the Women's Auxiliary to the Royal Canadian Navy.

Christian Dior hats, mink, fox and broadtail fur, vied with exciting exclusive evening gowns for top honors in the luxury poll. Suits and top coats relied on subtle stitch trim and double-breasted elegance for their popularity bid.

A record audience of 280 attended and helped raise more than $200, to be used for a $100 bursary for a deserving naval dependent attending first year university and other charities.

Velvet was seen in ensembles designed to make any woman a stand-out at Victoria's social affairs. Particularly effective was a theatre or cocktail suit that had a nostalgic air of the Little Lord Fauntleroy era. The slim skirt and matching jacket of jade green velvet were effectively complemented with a parchment white shell of romantic lace, complete with a flattering portrait collar. Add to this a matching velvet chapeau and the picture was complete.

Another show-stopper was a short party dress in burgundy red velveteen, restrained as a portrait and finished with puffed three-quarter-length sleeves that hinted of Spain with their leg-o-mutton fullness.

Camel, this season's darling, was prominent, both by itself and teamed with more compelling shades. One such outfit that received overwhelming approval was a sports ensemble that mated a pair of camel slims with a delightful pink poodle cloth cardigan, elevated into the haute couture bracket with camel buttons.

The young in years were as much to the fore as the young of heart. Dramatic evidence of this was a delightful cream evening gown for the young miss. Styled in the popular Granny Look, it combined demureness with sophistication with its generously ruffled bottom and narrow tie interest at the waist.

For those past the teen stage, evening gowns were just as exciting. One outstanding creation was in fresh-as-a-lime chartreuse. Feminine silk chiffon draped the neckline and floated in a panel at the back. The gown itself was a designer's triumph in a rich brocade a-light with beaded patterns.

Win Sinclair was commentator for the show which featured styles and accessories from Miss Frith's. Hair styling was by Margo's Beauty Studios. Modelling were auxiliary members Linda Essery, Eileen O'Reilley, Val Mottershead, Rey Sharrow, Judy Burt, Louise Nugent, Jean McLellan and Kay Bissell.

Conveners were: Hospitality, Mrs. B. Shirley and Mrs. H. Norman; hostesses, Mrs. D. Taylor and Mrs. J. Wood, and fashion show, Mrs. Essery and Mrs. H. T. C. Addison. Mrs. M. G. Stirling, wife of the Flag Officer Pacific Coast, drew the tickets for the door prizes. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Vancouver Luncheon

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor will travel to Vancouver on Thursday to attend a luncheon, given by the Variety Club of Western Canada. Col. James Carreros, MBE, chief barker of the Variety clubs, will present a charter to the Vancouver branch.

Dinner Host

Mr. Joseph Sharples, 1403 Ryan Street, was guest of honor when a visitor from Atlanta, Ga., Dr. Joseph L. Rankin, entertained at a dinner party in the Princess Louise Room of the Empress Hotel. Also attending were Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ley, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Howard, Mrs. Rose Casswell, Mrs. Irene K. Ley, Miss Monica Frith, Mr. Brian Green, Miss Mary Whitehead, Mr. Russell Bell, Miss Irene Guertin, Mr. Ronald MacDonald, Miss Agnes Stewart and Mr. Lewis P. Evans.

Novel Decor

Miniature telephones in both modern and crank-style decorated the cake which centred the refreshment table when Mrs. J. Metcalfe and Mrs. J. Dumphy entertained at a shower in the Metcalfe home on Culduthel Road in honor of bride-elect, Miss Beverley Robinson. The honor guest is an employee of the British Columbia Telephone Company. Gifts were in the decorated model of a telephone. Miss Robinson received a corsage of white carnations, centred with a pink rose. Her mother, Mrs. V. L. Robinson was presented with pink carnations en corsage. Also invited were Mrs. J. Sutton, Mrs. V. Toth, Mrs. V. Wells, Mrs. N. Pope, Mrs. D. Hill, Mrs. M. Plecash, Mrs. G. Ridley, Mrs. I. Toogood, Mrs. F. Herman, Mrs. T. Stimpson, Mrs. D. Blackstock, the Misses Jean Carter and Shirlee Pronk.

To Marry

Ald. and Mrs. Geoffrey I. Edgelow, 50 Highland Road, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Dorothy Constance, to Sub-Lt. Leonard Milus Kirby, RCN, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Kirby of Ajax, Ont. The wedding will take place this Saturday at 3 p.m. in the Archbishop's Chapel of Christ Church Cathedral with Archbishop Harold Sexton officiating. Following the wedding the couple will leave on a honeymoon trip motoring across Canada to Halifax where they will make their new home.

From Mainland

A number of Vancouver residents travelled to Victoria to hear vows exchanged recently between Miss Armand Lavertu and Mr. David Morton. They included Mr. and Mrs. A. Taionchkonsy, Mr. Stuart Qually, Mr. and Mrs. K. Morton, Mr. and Mrs. M. Voss, Mr. and Mrs. D. Morton, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. McLean, Dr. and Mrs. Gaston Robinson, Mr. David Robertson, Mr. Duncan McLean, the Misses Janice Taionchkonsy, Denise Robinson and Elizabeth Goode. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. O. Lavertu of Prince Albert, Sask.; Dr. and Mrs. C. Lefebvre and Carol of Edmonton; Miss Cecile Lefebvre, Kelowna; Mr. and Mrs. Y. Humphreys of Vernon, and Mrs. J. J. Clarkson of Regina.

Morton-Lavertu Vows

Bride's Father Is Soloist

"Le Pater," sung by the bride's father, and solos by Charles Smith, her brother-in-law; Mrs. A. Charpentier and Mrs. L. Rumsby provided a musical background when Fr. Alexis heard marriage vows between Armand Marie Lucille Lavertu and David Livingstone Morton, recently in St. Jean Baptiste Church. Organist was Eric Edward.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jules Lavertu, 1365 Rockland Avenue, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. David Morton of North Vancouver. Mr. Lavertu gave his daughter in marriage.

A string of pearls with matching earrings sent by a family friend, Fr. J. Kennedy from Kure, Japan, was the only jewelry worn by the bride. Her floor-length gown of velvet was styled slightly en train. A self-fabric bow held her floor-length veil and she carried a colonial bouquet of white roses.

ATTENDS SISTER

Keith Morton was best man for his brother and ushers were Roger and Derek Morton.

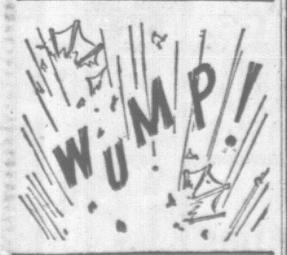

Pink sweetheart roses and ivory candles surrounded the four-tier wedding cake which centred the bride's table at the reception following in the home of the parents. Serviteurs were the Misses Shari Roberts, Sherry Lupu, Sherry Fahey and Mai Gunderson. W. A. Jones proposed the toast to the bride.

Victorian Heading for Trouble Spot

By DINA STEWART

Starting next week, British Columbia will have its own unofficial tourist promoter in the Dominican Republic. Agent, information officer and public relations woman will be Miss Kathleen Goodall, who leaves by plane for the West Indian island Thursday.

"I'm really pro-B.C.," she boasts proudly. "I've been across Canada five times, visited in the Caribbean, the southern United States and Hawaii, and believe me, nowhere, not even the other provinces can compare."

So when Miss Goodall leaves for her two-year post, it will be with mixed feelings. "It's a little sad having to leave a place where you grew up, where all your friends are—especially such a beautiful city as Victoria.

"But when I think of the wonderful opportunity in store for me . . ."

Miss Goodall will take over the post of manager of call "traffic" in the telephone office of the Dominican capital, Santo Domingo. She was chief operator in the B.C. Telephone office, and has been with the company 26 years, starting as an operator.

"I first heard about the post six weeks ago," she said. "The girl presently holding the position decided to leave and, at the time, was interviewing potential candidates for the post. I applied and—next week I'm off!"

The fact that the West Indian country is now one of the hottest trouble spots today doesn't seem to bother her a bit.

She says, "Why should I worry? I won't have anything to do with the rebels. My job will be in the city. But I do hope that the rebels haven't taken over the beaches . . . I'd like to get a sun tan!

"Seriously, I find that taking over a new position in a new place is a challenge—meeting new people, living a totally different life. "I'm all set to leave . . . and so is everyone else. All my friends have been asking me to reserve room in my suitcase and trunks to take them along."

Miss Kathleen Goodall will arrive at her new position in Santo Domingo at the right time of the year—in the middle of the West Indian country's summer season. "It should be wonderful—sunny and warm. The best thing, of course, is that I missed the hurricane season in October. That would be terrible to cope with on the first day on a new job!"

That must have been in the minds of Miss Goodall's coworkers when 125 of them entertained at a reception recently in the Uplands Golf Club.

She received a set of luggage.

She was also entertained by the Altrusa Club of which she is a member and which is affiliated with the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club.

Having worked with the BPW, she feels that she will be a little more at home when she can attend meetings of the organization on the island of Costa Rica near her new home.

Although there isn't a BPW club in Santo Domingo, Miss Goodall just may be instrumental in starting one herself!

Another fact which may make her feel more at home is the abundance of "flora and fauna," as she calls it, on the island. Miss Goodall is an avid gardener and has been successful in using her "green thumb" in coaxing four varieties of orchids to grow, a difficult feat.

Miss Goodall admits she's excited about leaving.

"I think the biggest challenge about going to the island is the fact that I have to learn a brand new language—Spanish. They say the best way to learn a new language is to live with the people who are speaking it.

"Well, I'm boarding with a family who speak English about as well as I speak Spanish. So, either I learn Spanish in a hurry or I starve!"

Victoria Toastmistress Club Marks Its 20th Anniversary

Blue and gold, the colors of the International Toastmistress Club, highlighted the huge birthday cake, made by Mrs. Frank Hong, which marked the 20 birthday meeting of Victoria Toastmistress Club No. 90, held Tuesday evening in the Pacific Club.

The newest and oldest members, Miss Donna Koeppel and Mrs. C. C. Warren respectively, combined in a ceremony to cut the cake.

Special guest for the evening was Mrs. Sybil McCulloch, regional treasurer, who gave an outline of the purpose of regional councils. Inspiration was by Mrs. E. Brady.

Miss Gail Hitchen introduced table topics mistress, Mrs. J. Wiart, who gave a detailed description of a club window display and then quizzed various members and guests on the meaning of parts of the display pertaining to toastmistress.

Toastmistress Mrs. P. A. Petersen introduced regional council chairman, Mrs. K. V. Lopatecki, Chemainus, who spoke on "Communication," in keeping with the evening's theme, "The Whole Wide World." Speakers were Miss Koeppel, food; Miss Mary Gillean, music; Mrs. Hong, arts and crafts; and Mrs. Warren, club, who related their topics to world affairs.

General evaluator, Mrs. McCulloch, presented the Oscar to Mrs. Warren and Spur to Mrs. Hong.

The two council representatives were presented with bud vases.

Following the addresses by the speakers, Mrs. Petersen presented the club with the first shelf of a bookcase, to start a research library for members. President Mrs. Blanche Grant asked members to donate toastmistress magazines, reference and handbooks.

Mrs. D. Booth, Chemainus, was grammarian for the evening and timer was Miss Hitchen. Mrs. J. W. Speers and Mrs. K. S. Bains gave criticism and Mrs. E. Brady, the vote of thanks.

Closing thought was by Miss Donalda Lentz.

DEAR ABBY ...

Help!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Every year I receive several Christmas cards from friends of long-standing with little notes written on the bottom saying, "Why don't you ever write to us and let us know something about you?" This is frustrating to say the least because, much as I'd like to, I can't! These people have moved from their last addresses, have left no forwarding addresses, and nowhere on their envelopes are their new addresses so, consequently, the cards and letters I send them are returned to me.

It takes only a moment to jot down one's address on the corner of the envelope. Please, Abby, won't you remind people to write their return addresses on their Christmas cards this year?

JUST MARY.

DEAR JUST: Yes—but why only on Christmas cards? If you could see the mountain of mail (not to mention packages) that are "all addressed up" and no place to go because of insufficient or careless addressing, and no return address, you'd weep.

DEAR ABBY: Siegfried and I have been married for 16 years and all of a sudden he has become a problem. He gets very fresh with me, even in the presence of our children. Siegfried is 44 and I am 36. I have never refused his advances at the proper time and place, but he is getting ridiculous! When he is home he doesn't leave me alone a minute. He is always following me around, whispering intimate suggestions in my ear, putting his arms around me, and so on. I am not a cold woman, Abby, but when Siegfried acts this way in front of other people, I get very nervous and upset. What could be wrong with him? He never carried on this way before. I have heard that men go through a "change" at a certain age just like women do. Could that be it?

SIEGFRIED'S FRAU.

DEAR FRAU: There is a possibility that there is something physically wrong with Siegfried, and he should have a thorough checkup by a competent physician. If your husband is found to be physically fit, and only his judgment is out of focus, lecture him privately, and practice your footwork in public.

DEAR ABBY: I read your column every day, but that letter signed "Sniffy" hits an all-time high.

The very idea of that woman saying she can tell the minute she walks into a room if there are any dog owners present! I have owned dogs all my life and they are as clean as I am! If anyone ever told me he could tell I was a dog owner by the way I smelled, that would be the end of our friendship.

I have worked for, with, and supervised people who have needed a deodorant far worse than any dog I've been near. In fact, I used to give a girl a ride to work, and had to drive with all the windows down in the middle of winter. I have never found it necessary to do this because I've had a dog in the car.

BURNED-UP.

Confidential to "Sissy" in Boulder: Yes, college girls are wearing their skirts shorter this winter. And if they get much shorter, the boys will be looking longer.

Bazaar in Esquimalt

Fishermen Ask Ottawa To Halt Russian Fleet

VANCOUVER (CP) — Major fishing companies Tuesday, concerned about the appearance of a 45-vessel Russian fishing fleet off the West Coast, appealed to the federal government for help.

The Fisheries Association of British Columbia wired Fisheries Minister Robichaud asking for a change in the method of measuring the 12-mile fishing limit.

It asked that the limit be measured from a baseline stretching from Vancouver Island to the Queen Charlotte Islands.

The effect of this measure would be to exclude the Russian fishing fleet from the Queen Charlotte Sound, between Vancouver and Queen Charlotte Islands. The fleet can fish there now because the 12-mile limit is measured from the mainland.

PATROL VESSELS

Fisheries department spokesmen said Tuesday the fleet is being kept under observation by two patrol vessels.

He said the 34 trawlers, 10 mother ships and a tanker are stretched between Cape Scott on Northern Vancouver Island and the southern tip of the Queen Charlottes. The ships appeared to be catching ocean perch exclusively.

MOTHER SHIPS

The mother ships were between 3,000 and 15,000 tons.

The department spokesman said the Russian vessels are outside the limit and within their rights. During October at least 100 Russian fishing ships had been counted.

The fisheries association said immediate action is needed "to protect and conserve the stocks of fish in Queen Charlotte Sound and the Hecate Strait."

Gland Injury Blamed On Fallout

WASHINGTON (AP)—A government doctor says some natives in the Marshall Islands are beginning to show thyroid gland damage from an accidental drenching of radioactive fallout during an American hydrogen bomb test.

Dr. Robert Conard told the Washington Post there also is evidence that fallout damage to the thyroid gland may be causing an observed stunting of growth among children subjected to the drenching in March 1954.

Conard is the leader of a medical survey team that commutes between Brookhaven National Laboratory on Long Island and Rongelap Island in the Marshalls. He is in charge of treating the islanders for thyroid damage.

The finding was viewed as meaning estimates of hazard from short - lived radioactive debris will have to be revised upward. This is the kind of fallout—such as radioactive iodine—which persons near blast areas may absorb through food and drink.

The Rongelap findings followed last week's report of a possible link between fallout in Utah and Arizona and the incidence of suspicious thyroid nodules or "warts" among children near there.

Nazi Leader Jailed In Britain

LONDON (UPI) — National Socialist Party leader Colin Jordan Monday was sentenced to three months in jail for insulting behavior during the visit of Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith Oct. 8.

Jordan said he would appeal bail. Bail was set at $140.

The 42-year-old right wing leader had pleaded not guilty to the charge stemming from an incident at No. 10 Downing Street, the prime minister's official residence, where Jordan displayed a cardboard medallion reading:

"To Harold Wilson. Award for treachery for the betrayal of our white kinsfolk in Rhodesia." It was signed by the National Socialist movement.

Jordan has four previous convictions for similar offences.

MAYNE QUEEN STARTS FRIDAY

22ND IN GOV'T FLEET

Triplet Gets Captain George's Blessing

By RON SUDLOW

Captain George Vancouver looked down from his lofty perch atop the Legislative Buildings dome Tuesday afternoon as the provincial government added the 22nd ferry to its growing fleet.

The gold leaf statue of the great navigator seemed to nod approval as the double-ended Mayne Queen changed hands.

Harold Husband, president of Victoria Machinery Depot, handed over the 207-foot craft to Provincial Secretary Wesley Black who accepted her on behalf of Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

The vessel was secured across the harbor from the Buildings near the B.C. Ferry Authority administrative offices.

One of the flags was replaced at the conclusion of the acceptance ceremony.

The Mayne Queen is the second of three sister ships to join the fleet.

The Powell River Queen is now operating on the Sunshine Coast and the Bowen Queen will go down VMD ways Nov. 15.

Each can carry up to 240 passengers and 50 cars and are equipped with passenger lounges and dining areas. Total cost for triplets is $3 million.

It goes into service on the 30th anniversary of the ferry link to the Gulf Islands provided by the old wooden ferry the Cy Peck.

Legal Action Studied In Fight Over Marina

ISLAND DIGEST

MAPLE BAY—Maple Bay residents are considering legal action in their fight against plans to build a marina and mobile trailer unit here.

A lawyer has already been approached but not yet engaged.

Said Norman Gourlay, chairman of a special ratepayers' committee set up to fight the marina development:

"The rezoning is not a dead issue and we are looking into further action."

Said Mr. Gourlay: "Engaging counsel is a fairly expensive proposition and there's no certainty we can go ahead."

Mr. Gourlay's committee was appointed by Maple Bay Ratepayers' Association after North Cowichan council rezoned six acres of waterfront property for commercial purposes.

The property has been bought by Calgary syndicate of Maybay Pacific Ltd., along with 19 acres of upland property for use as a trailer park.

Constable Cleared

ALBERNI (CP) — A charge of failing to halt at a stop sign, levelled by a motorist against an RCMP constable, was dismissed in magistrate's court here Tuesday.

Henning Skaarup laid the charge against Constable Vernon R. Baugh on Aug. 14, an hour after the officer had given him a ticket for a similar offence at the same sign.

Skaarup pleaded guilty, but told the court he had seen police cars doing the same thing he had done—slowing to a crawl to go through the sign.

Park Rezoning Proposed To Councillors

DUNCAN—North Cowichan council was to be asked today to rezone Pioneer Park for recreational-commercial uses.

The curling rink was sold for $46,000 by Cowichan Co-operative Curling Association to Karm Singh and Associates.

FURTHER AHEAD

Referring to another proposed project in Pioneer Park, Reeve Morton said if Duncan Rotary Club had taken on itself the promotion of a swimming pool there it would now be much further ahead.

'Shooting Star' Hits Tory

By DON DINGWALL

Conservative "Bus" Matthews joked about locking his prepared speech in his car.

He even envied NDP Colin Cameron his "smooth oratory" and introduced him as the star of the evening.

But Mr. Cameron didn't return the kindness.

Mr. Matthews said whichever party was elected must build up Canada's prosperity before turning to a foreign aid program.

Mr. Cameron retorted this was not only immoral and unethical but "stupid and ignorant."

In between, Doug Greer put the Liberal claim to have brought about near-full employment.

Calling for a majority government in Ottawa, he added a new reason—the authority of the central government must be maintained in dealing with the provinces.

Mr. Matthews urged a federal water-conservation policy with no export of hydro power until domestic needs are met.

Mr. Cameron said automation and the displacement of human labor is a serious problem. It was only because the trade unions had been able to extract higher wages from employers our economy did not grind to a halt long ago.

This should be remembered when unions are accused of being too powerful and too greedy.

Mr. Cameron said Canada's wealth is controlled by a few giant corporations which dictate government policies.

Canada needs a vastly stepped up program of general education and training in industry.

It cannot be done with corporations which have no social responsibility, he said.

Neither Conservatives nor Liberals can be expected to change this because they are elected to protect the interests of big business.

'PRATTLING'

Mr. Greer said he was sick of people like Mr. Cameron "prattling on about socialism."

Canada is years away from thinking about embracing socialism.

About 250 people attended the Jaycee-sponsored rally which did not have a Social Credit representative.

Candidate Lyle Wilkinson had a prior engagement.

Mr. Bennett's Doctrine...

Premier Bennett's entry into the federal election is not an act of public service. It is an act of personal aggrandisement. He is not trying to strengthen the nation. He is trying to prevent the establishment of a stable majority government.

He is striving to send to Ottawa from British Columbia a minority of his chosen Social Credit delegates, all under his own control. Through them, he hopes to dominate the next Parliament of Canada.

This strategy will not work because Mr. Bennett, an able provincial politician, knows nothing of national politics as his record proves.

Immediately on taking office at Victoria more than a dozen years ago, Mr. Bennett aimed his ambitions at Ottawa. In the federal elections of 1953, 1957, 1958, 1962 and 1963 he announced over and over again that Social Credit would soon govern the nation, undoubtedly under his leadership, though he was too modest to say so.

The federal government would be engorged, as he once explained, "in two bites." For a start Social Credit would win about 90 parliamentary seats and, next time, a majority, which he then regarded as essential. In fact, it won 15 seats in 1953, 19 in 1957, none in 1958, 30 in 1962 and 24 in 1963. Even this tiny splinter could not hold together.

Mr. Bennett had ardently supported Mr. Real Caouette as the leader of the party and thereby demonstrated the quality of his judgment in national affairs. If Mr. Bennett's plans had succeeded Mr. Caouette would be prime minister of Canada today — provided that Canada could exist under such auspices.

But Mr. Caouette smashed the Social Credit party, creating a separate party of his own, based on bitter antipathy to English-speaking Canada. And in the last election Mr. Bennett, with all his fury, money and organization could elect only two members in British Columbia.

Now his purpose is to expunge the memory of a humiliating personal fiasco, if he can. To that end he has devised a new doctrine of democratic government which, if it were enforced, would break the nation into 10 quarreling states.

...Strives to Splinter

First, Mr. Bennett argues that majority government in Ottawa, needed by Social Credit in former elections, is now both unnecessary and undesirable.

He demands a majority for himself in the provincial legislature and has always won it (though always with a minority of the total vote). The nation, on the other hand, can be governed best by a Parliament of splinters like the parliaments that almost ruined France and brought President de Gaulle to dictatorial power. Majority government is good for British Columbia under Mr. Bennett but bad for Canada under anyone else.

Since Mr. Bennett can no longer hope to elect more than a score or so of Social Credit members throughout the nation and a mere handful in the West, he proposes that they, with Mr. Caouette as their nominal leader, shall dictate to Parliament.

Wiser than any national party, this little group, while split within itself, shall have the right to decide national policy. This from Mr. Bennett, the great democrat.

The Social Credit splinters will not only be wiser than any other party but more virtuous, too.

In truth, says Mr. Bennett, with a straight face, Social Credit is not a party at all, in British Columbia or elsewhere. It is a strictly non-partisan movement of good people who detest politics and seek nothing but the welfare of the nation.

This from Mr. Bennett who is the most violently partisan politician in Canada and controls its richest, slickest and most powerful party machine, managed by that selfless public servant, Einar Gunderson, and financed by the lush Social Credit "Free Enterprise Education Fund."

...Appeals to Fantasy

British Columbia, says its premier in one breath, has become the most prosperous and fortunate area on earth, thanks to his sound administration. Yet in the next breath he suddenly finds that British Columbia is ground down in penury and squalor by a rapacious federal government. This Cinderella of the Canadian provinces goes to the ball in her magic coach but always returns to her debt-free ashes.

Mr. Bennett tells us that the federal government collects far more money in British Columbia than it spends here. If that were true, as it is not, it would be irrelevant.

Contrary to the Bennett doctrine, the money collected by the federal government in any province belongs to the federal government as trustee of the Canadian people and must be spent as the national Parliament decides. It is not British Columbia's money. It is the nation's money if this is a nation and not a loose alliance of 10 sovereign states.

The federal government does not collect its revenue here with the kind permission of Mr. Bennett. It is collected by the authority of Parliament and if that authority is challenged so is the existence of the nation.

Actually what Mr. Bennett says about these revenue collections is not only irrelevant but inaccurate. What are the facts?

Jack Davis, parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson in the last Parliament and Liberal candidate now for re-election in Coast-Capilano, has produced the House of Commons records.

In 1962, federal spending in B.C. exceeded federal revenues from this province by $83 million and the spread has been increasing since to more than $100 million annually.

Despite these figures, Mr. Bennett demands that the federal government hand over more of its revenues to the provincial government. Where does he think this money will come from?

It will come, of necessity, from the taxpayers living within the provinces since only a few thousand of them live elsewhere. Every British Columbian will pay his share of these costs one way or another. The notion that the people of this province can unload any bill on the federal government and escape it entirely is a bedtime story for tiny tots. No Santa Claus or fairy godmother lives in Ottawa.

...Distorts the Record

The Bennett doctrine is refined in the specific case of offshore mineral rights which, he says, the federal government is trying to steal from British Columbia. What are the facts here?

Mr. Bennett's attempt to make the Liberal government, and especially Resources Minister Arthur Laing, appear as villains for referring the offshore mineral rights issue to the Supreme Court completely collapses.

It was Mr. Bennett's own mines minister, Donald Brothers, who decided with Mr. Laing, as far back as June 13, 1964, that this question must be referred to the court.

Mr. Brothers said then in an interview that this was "the only way this matter can be reconciled." And in April, 1965, when Mr. Pearson told the Commons the reference had been made to the Court he was condemned publicly by Attorney-General Bonner for not first consulting B.C. about the terms of reference.

Mr. Pearson was able to show that he had written Mr. Bennett in person asking B.C.'s views and that he had received no reply. It would appear from this that British Columbia's premier was not taking even his own ministers into his confidence about the issue.

...Seeks Personal Glory

Finally the Bennett doctrine is codified by Attorney-General Bonner, the intellect of the non-partisan party.

Having rejected Social Credit itself long ago as mere moonshine, Mr. Bonner reinterprets it in his usual slick idiom to mean a "regional approach" to national unity.

British Columbia, he says, "should always be sympathetic to the problems of every other region. But we should consider our own region first. Too many elected representatives from B.C. get caught up in the problems of the Ottawa Valley."

That is to say, British Columbia is the primary concern, the nation secondary. Hence the member of Parliament from British Columbia who puts the nation first is betraying his province — as if British Columbia could possibly be strong in a weak and impoverished nation.

There we have the double-distilled essence of the Bennett doctrine, a candid separatism that Mr. Caouette might well envy.

It argues that 10 provinces, each seeking its own local advantages at the expense of the others, will produce a unified Canada.

If its throat is cut often enough the nation will enjoy vigorous health.

If Parliament is controlled by Mr. Bennett's tiny band of personal deputies the democratic process will flourish, with no nonsense like the will of the majority.

If Mr. Bennett persuades British Columbians to vote for his doctrine they will have little influence on national policy for the nation's good or their own. They will achieve nothing but Mr. Bennett's glory, the sole object of his present electoral exercise.

'Delay Water Export'

VANCOUVER (CP)—The federal government must not consider water export deals until it finds out how much water the country has and how much it needs, says the B.C. Federation of Labor.

The federation's annual convention Tuesday proposed a broad study projecting water requirements for agricultural, industrial, urban, recreational and other needs.

It called for legislation on conservation and distribution of water, overriding jurisdictions and boundaries.

The labor body has strenuous objections to the Columbia River treaty as a giveaway of water, soil and air pollution.

The study would specifically tackle sewage, chemical and detergent pollution, uncontrolled discharge of industrial wastes into the air and fresh water, and the dangers of pollution and insecticides to food.

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Federation of Labor turned its convention session Tuesday into a picket line.

Delegates marched from a session at 4 p.m. and tramped for half an hour around the headquarters here of the strike-bound British American Oil Co. Ltd.

Leaders of the 400 delegate-pickets said it was an information line in support of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (Ind.) which has been on strike against the company in many parts of Canada since mid-September.

During the day at the federation's annual convention oil workers president Ed Geddes said some unions are failing to observe a labor boycott against B-A products.

He said the union is spending $2,000 a week on picket lines. He appealed for money and volunteers.

"We can't match the oil industry with money, but we can with courage," he said. "Remember when you see a B-A tanker delivering oil, there's no tiger in the tank, there's a scab in the cab."

UNIVERSITY GETS BILL AFTER MARCH HALTED

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Alameda County is billing the University of California for $15,982—to pay the expense of halting Viet Nam protest marches.

The county board of supervisors, voting approval for the bill Tuesday, said the money had been spent in overtime pay for sheriff's deputies who blocked marches Oct. 15 and 16 at the Oakland city limits.

The bill was sent to the university in Berkeley because the protest march was spearheaded by a group centred on the campus.

Reluctant Bride Swims to Freedom

The female and a calf were being hauled in a makeshift corral toward Namu's winter home in Rich Cove, across Puget Sound from here, when the backwash of a pleasure boat sank the boom at the rear of the corral.

The cow "took off like a shot," said Ted Griffin, Seattle aquarium owner who has been trying to acquire a wife for Namu for months.

Griffin bought Namu last summer after the whale got caught in a Canadian fisherman's net.

He hasn't decided whether he will keep the calf, which didn't follow its mother to freedom.

The tuned car. Buick 1966.

When every sweeping line and gentle curve is blended into the look of motion... and when this look of motion is the reflection of the automobile's character... the styling is tuned. Buick styling is tuned.

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

What makes a car a car is styling, performance, braking and ride and handling. Only when they're all tuned together is the car a Buick. Like the cars you see above. Every element is tuned to every other element. Just looking at the cars tells you what the matching of elements means to styling. But how about performance? Same story.

Buick is especially particular about the careful matching of engines to transmissions. And when you offer five V8s, two automatics and two manual transmissions, this gets to be quite a job. But the result is worth it. The result is smoother acceleration, quieter cruising and maximum economy. The result is tuned performance. To understand what the tuned car can mean to you, drive one sometime.

Riviera, Electra 225, Wildcat, LeSabre, Skylark or Special Deluxe. They're all tuned cars. All tuned to you. And really, wouldn't you rather drive a Buick?

25 members in recognition of its right to strong representation as a separate crown colony that joined to make the province.

Besides historical claims, Mr. Macfarlane said there were geographical and social factors to consider, such as the need for adequate transportation services to the mainland, the special needs of the "retirement and tourist mecca of Canada," the existence of a major port, seat of the government and core of the nation's western military defences in the region.

KEEP BALANCE

"Six members in the legislative assembly are few enough to maintain the balance in favor of these interests," Mr. Macfarlane told the commission.

In an arithmetical analysis, he pointed out that population projections show Oak Bay constituency will have 16,874 registered voters by 1975, or slightly more than the "ideal average" for the province of 16,791.

Mr. Macfarlane said the same projections show Esquimalt riding would have between 16,000 and 18,000 registered voters by 1975 if the present portion north of the Malahat was split off and added to the Cowichan-Newcastle constituency.

He contended that only Victoria is over-represented but said the city lends itself into division into north and south constituencies with the boundary at Fort Street. This would give to cohesive ridings with not more than 18,000 voters in each by 1975.

SPLIT SAANICH

Saanich also should be split into north and south constituencies with the boundary running approximately along the Trans-Canada Highway-McKenzie Avenue-Cedar Hill Road.

This would allow the urban and rural portions of the peninsula to have their own representatives in the legislature, he said.

The total number of projected voters in both proposed Saanich constituencies would be 50,940—higher than the "ideal" in each—but this could be adjusted by taking a part of the southeast corner of the urban constituency and adding it to Oak Bay.

The result would enable each Saanich constituency to come close to the 18,000 mark.

MORE BRIEFS

Mr. Macfarlane also argued that there should be no overall reduction in the 52-seat total for the province but said multiple-member constituencies should be abolished in favor of a single MLA for each.

Mr. Bruch and Mr. Tisdalle were to follow with verbal submissions.

J. LLOYD BRERETON

NEW DEMOCRATIC PARTY CANDIDATE FOR VICTORIA

. . . to the Voters in his Constituency:

Dear Friends,

I have had the pleasure of speaking to many of you in the street or in your homes and have learned how you are feeling about the election. Our party has not the $1,000 it would cost in postage alone to send a letter to you all. Hence this short open letter.

Some of you are disillusioned by the old parties and deeply worried as to how to vote. You may be ready to support the N.D.P. but fearful that your vote would be wasted or that you might be committing the country to immediate large scale nationalization of industry. These fears are groundless. Some of you are intensely concerned about the threat of nuclear war. I know many of you share my horror of the deliberate slaughter of Vietnamese by Americans.

I will make only three comments.

1. THE TORIES are brazenly opposing the admission to the United Nations of China, the largest country in the world. The Tories have NO plans for improved health and medical services.

2. THE LIBERALS had two years to carry out their promises. Many of you agree that they are proved unreliable, indolent and incompetent. They think of our less fortunate citizens as paupers.

3. You must be tired of reading lists of promises. The N.D.P. has had a consistent policy for forty years and more. Tommy Douglas gave details of our program last week at our rally. I ask YOU to use your vote for ME on Monday to enable HIM to complete, for all Canada, what he began to do for Saskatchewan. If you have questions, please contact me. JOIN IN WINNING A GREAT VICTORY!

Yours sincerely,
J. Lloyd Brereton.

Army Purge of Communists Spreads Through Indonesia

JAKARTA (CP)—The army's purge of Communists in Indonesia was reported today to have spread to Parliament, the universities and more government agencies.

The official news agency Antara said 57 representatives of the Indonesian Communist party had been dismissed "temporarily" from the House of Representatives — an advisory body — and 14 Communist or pro-Communist universities and colleges had been closed in the continuing aftermath of the attempted Oct. 1 coup.

More than 1,300 Communists were fired by the maritime ministry, the army-controlled agency reported.

Among the Communists ousted from Parliament were two of the party's top three men, M. H. Lukman and Njoto. Both are members of President Sukarno's cabinet. The party chief, D. N. Aidit, has been in hiding since the coup attempt.

Antara said the Jakarta military command had requested government agencies and institutions under its jurisdiction to suspend all personnel who were members of the Communist party, the pro-Peking PKI.

Indonesian crowds tore down the Chinese Communist flag and damaged the coat of arms in a wild demonstration outside the Chinese consulate in Medan, North Sumatra.

Travellers from the area said the demonstration Tuesday lasted about an hour, with the mainly Moslem crowd chanting slogans about alleged Chinese involvement in the abortive coup.

Reports estimated 100,000 demonstrators took part.

Diplomatic observers said the attack on the consulate would torpedo President Sukarno's desperate efforts to renew ties with Peking.

It was the first reported demonstration of this size outside any Chinese diplomatic mission in Indonesia.

PAYS FOR STUDY

Lady Pushes View Royal As New Town

There is a "sweet little old lady" in View Royal who feels very strongly the area should be incorporated into a town.

So strongly, in fact, she largely paid for a special study of the move, View Royal ratepayers were told Tuesday at a public meeting. She was not identified.

Support for the study came shortly after ratepayers received another report saying their taxes would double if the area amalgamated with Esquimalt.

The town study was made by a group of "interested citizens" and the amalgamation report was prepared by former deputy municipal affairs minister B.C. Bracewell.

Both proposals were discussed at the meeting Tuesday, but the 150 in attendance generally favored incorporation.

The town report, presented in detail to the meeting, was prepared by a committee of the View Royal Ratepayers' Association.

INTENSE STUDY

In concludes: "After an intense study the committee is confident that View Royal incorporate as a town without a requirement for any increase in the existing general revenue tax rate (12.6 mills)."

In a proposed budget which covers incorporation and costs of the first fiscal year, the committee shows a $30,000 surplus on a total revenue of $125,200.

Revenue for the town would come from four main sources: general taxation, $48,000; the provincial per capita grant, $74,800; business licences for the town's 36 businesses, $900, and revenue from utilities would amount to $1,500.

MAIN EXPENSES

Major estimated expenses include: municipal staff, $18,850; public works, $30,000; welfare, $14,000; weekly garbage service, $12,000, and Victoria Public Library service, $7,600.

There was some question as to whether residents of the View Royal panhandle would be included if the town were incorporated.

Petitions for and against amalgamation of the panhandle with Esquimalt were circulated last year and supporters came up with the figures 60 per cent in favor and 70 per cent against.

Action on both reports will likely be taken Nov. 10 when they are formally presented to the View Royal Ratepayers' Association.

Victoria West Bowling Green Repair Urged

City council should pay $5,535 for major repairs to Victoria West lawn bowling greens, Victoria parks committee recommended Tuesday.

The restoration program should commence now with $300 out of the contingency vote and the rest carried out over the next two years, committee recommended.

It is 40 years since the greens received city assistance for operational maintenance or improvements.

The city manager and parks administrator were given authority to vet plans and call tenders for a new comfort station at Gonzales Beach.

Fishermen On Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 650 B.C. herring fishermen went on strike Tuesday for higher pay and better fringe benefits.

They are asking coast canneries to pay each eight-man crew $20.48 for each ton of herring landed, an increase of $9.94.

Officials of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union said this includes increases in the welfare fund, vacation pay, pensions and health benefits.

The current contract expired Oct. 16, and was followed by a two-week holiday period.

Sunken Garden Hard Way

Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Sceats, 157 Barkley Terrace, reported a leaky water main had their home awash the past two summers.

Water seepage turned their front and rear flower beds into sunken gardens in 1964.

"Plants and shrubs were sitting in water and the roots were rotting," they complained to council.

A plumber was called in. He laid 20 feet of copper piping at a cost of $30.32. Next day the water flow over their property was greater than ever.

So the public works department was called in and the water flow was finally corrected.

But the Sceats still have a blacktop parking area which was dug up to correct the situation, a plumber's bill and an estimated $25 loss in shrubs.

Council referred the matter to works committee for study.

DOWNTOWN

Tree-Plant Priority Advocated

Mayor R. B. Wilson Tuesday urged priority for continuation of the downtown tree-planting program "or we miss out another year."

The sidewalk beautification, begun two years ago, should be "rounded out," the mayor suggested, indicating a need for more planting around city hall.

He asked parks committee to have administrator Herbert Warren report on what steps can be taken this fall with funds available in the current budget.

"If we miss this fall we miss out another year," he said, referring to the ideal tree-planting time.

Mr. Warren said difficulties are posed by underground conduits and narrow sidewalks in some parts of the downtown area, including just outside city hall.

Policy dictates that sidewalks should be at least 10 feet wide and trees four feet from the curb.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow urged the committee to view a site where a resident asks for the removal of eight fir trees near 935 Cowichan, which interfere with overhead wiring.

Mr. Warren said the trees were poorly situated and form a 15-foot hedge.

"When we get requests for one tree to come down we go out and view it," Ald. Edgelow said.

"Unless we take a firm stand for the good of beautification of the city, we're going to get many such requests," Mr. Edgelow said.

Cheque Case Dismissed

Do two men who own a company that owns a store own the store?

The answer, decided in central court Tuesday, is no, legally speaking.

And as a result, a charge of false pretences against Ron Thody was dismissed by Magistrate William Ostler.

But Mrs. Thody, the accused's wife, who was jointly charged with him, pleaded guilty. She was remanded for sentence.

The issue was raised by Dermod Owen-Flood, lawyer for both accused. They were charged with obtaining goods and cash totalling $35 by a worthless cheque from two men who trade under the name of Hi-Way IGA Foodliner.

But under cross-examination one of the partners said that eight years ago they formed a company called Island Food Market & Enterprises Limited and it was this company that carried on the business.

Mr. Owen-Flood argued that the charge was therefore nullified because the alleged offence could not have been committed against the two partners but only against the company they had formed.

Magistrate Ostler at first rejected this submission. But then Crown prosecutor Cecil Branson called one partner in the business back to the stand. He confirmed that the business was operated and owned by the Island Food Market.

The magistrate then dismissed the charge.

8 CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our many friends who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement, also for the beautiful floral offerings.

—Mrs. Edith Boulton, George and Isabel.

9 IN MEMORIAM

BEECH—In loving memory of our son John Raymond who passed away Nov. 3rd, 1962.

Gone is the face we loved so dear
Silent is the voice we loved to hear
Too far away for sight or speech
But not too far for thought to reach
Sweet to remember him who once was here.
And who though absent is just as dear.

—Mum and Dad.

BEECH—In loving memory of John Beech, who departed this life suddenly November 3, 1962.

Every day in some small way,
Memories of you come my way.
A loving thought, a silent tear,
Though absent you are very near.
God be with you till we meet again.

—Sadly missed, Aunt Dolly.

BEECH—In loving memory of our dear nephew, John, who passed away November 3, 1962.

Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear.
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.

—Sadly missed and forever in our hearts, Aunt Mabel, Uncle Lin.

CAMERON—In loving memory of a dear son, Ian Bruce, who passed away November 3, 1962.

Time speeds on, three years have passed
Since death its gloom, its shadow cast
Within our home, where all seemed bright,
And took from us a shining light.
We miss that light, and ever will,
His vacant place there's none to fill.
Down here we mourn, but not in vain,
For up in heaven we will meet again.

—From the family.

EDDIE—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, James Alexander Ross Eddie, who entered into eternal rest Nov. 3, 1948.

Though his smile is gone forever,
And his hand we cannot touch,
Still we have so many memories
Of the one we loved so much;
His memory is our keepsake,
With which we will never part;
God has him in his keeping,
We have him in our hearts.

—Fondly remembered by his loving wife Elsie, son Jim and daughter Elsie.

EQUITY

CAN MEAN

CASH IN YOUR HAND

That investment you have in your home is an asset in more ways than one. You qualify for the Associates' Home Owner's Loan Plan. Under this plan, you may borrow from $2,000 to $20,000 on the equity you've built up. The interest rate is reasonable. There are no hidden charges or obscure clauses. You completely repay the loan in equal monthly installments over a period of up to ten years. There are no "balance" or "balloon" payments. Interest is computed monthly on the unpaid balance. This means that each payment you make reduces the amount of interest you pay. There are 101 reasons why you might need cash—financing a university education, buying a second car, remodelling your home. Keep the Associates' Home Owner's Plan in mind.

HOW TO SUCCEED IN SELLING YOUR HOME

1) BE HONEST. Don't conceal defects. You'll gain the respect's confidence and he'll be inclined to do business with you.

2) BE OBJECTIVE. Put yourself in the prospect's shoes. Are you aware of his needs? KNOW the adaptability of your home through alteration or addition and its cost.

3) BE INFORMED. Above all know the mortgage field. 2/3rds of sellhomes is financing them. There are probably 6 ways of financing your home catering to all down payments. Know them or a qualified buyer will slip through your fingers.

4) OR JUST RELAX. Real Estate Brokers are successful in selling homes. So—if you really want to sell, but just don't have the time, experience or specialized training to do it yourself, let your Broker sell it for you. Andy Stephen Looks at TV

The people who spiel commercials on big-time television do so for two reasons. One is that it pays well and, at the same time, they are performing for any producer who may be on the look out for talent.

Stephen

It has turned out successfully for several nonetics during the past few years.

Alfred Hitchcock was once watching TV and caught a pretty young thing selling a product. He signed her to a motion picture contract. It was a lucky day for Tippi Hedren.

This season, two series regulars were signed on the basis of their commercial work.

Barbara Feldon was signed as the female lead in the hit comedy "Get Smart" while doing those sexy "tiger girl" commerks.

Hal Buckley, selling commercials out of New York, was signed as a regular in "O.K. Crackerby," the ABC-TV comedy with Burl Ives.

Buckley was earning $100,000 a year doing commercials, but now is earning only one-third that amount. His reason for taking less but liking it more is that pitching on TV leads you nowhere but to the band. The role in a series could lead to almost anything. It's that opportunity that most people look for but can't recognize when it arrives. Buckley thinks he did.

Gilbert Roland, like 'ole man river, keeps rolling along and along and along.

He has to be one of the most exceptional actors to ever appear before a camera.

His persnal history with the celluloid world goes back to the days of the student movies. He was a big-time lover in those days.

He made the transition from silent movies to talkies as easily as rolling off a log. He was so successful that he was in great demand. A more swashbuckling role became his during the '30s and '40s and early '50s. Then came television and he is as successful today and as in great demand as he was those 30 years ago.

Even though in his 60s, he carries out active he-man roles with the best of the young, healthy muscled actors.

After guest-starring on almost everything active, including Bonanza, a role of his own has been fashioned for his style.

IN SELLING YOUR HOME

1) BE HONEST. Don't conceal defects. You'll gain the prospect's confidence and he'll be inclined to do business with you.

2) BE OBJECTIVE. Put yourself in the prospect's shoes. Are you aware of his needs? KNOW the adaptability of your home through alteration or addition and its cost.

3) BE INFORMED. Above all know the mortgage field. Two-thirds of selling homes is financing them. There are probably 6 ways of financing your home catering to all down payments. Know them or a qualified buyer will slip through your fingers.

4) OR JUST RELAX. Real Estate Brokers are successful in selling homes. So—if you really want to sell, but just don't have the time, experience or specialized training to do it yourself, let your Broker sell it for you. You'll get top dollar, plus the quickest sale possible, without any aggravation, strain or pressure on yourself by calling:

Sidewalk Cover Bids Approved

Permission to erect two sidewalk canopies was given by Victoria city council public works committee Tuesday, although council waits an overall policy on canopy construction.

If council approves the recommendation new ones will appear on the former liquor store at 716 Johnson, leased by Hammond Furniture Co., and on a new building at 1034 Hillside.

Changes to the first building will include gutting and adding another storey, committee was told.

Eventually, the building may be needed as part of a proposed car park to serve the Douglas-Blanshard district.

DEFAMATION ALLEGED

Dag Story Damages Set

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — A Stockholm court today ordered a magazine editor to pay 15,000 kroner (about $3,000) damages for publishing an article which alleged former United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold caused the air crash in which he died four years ago.

The editor of Idun - Vecko Journalen, Bengt Oeste, was also fined an undisclosed sum based on a percentage of his salary.

The case was brought by the late UN chief's brother, Sten Hammarskjold, who filed a suit for 100,000 kroner (about $20,000) damages, claiming the article "gravely defamed" his brother's name.

Oeste was also ordered to pay courts costs amounting to 4,500 kroner (about $1,260).

Hammarskjold's lawyer, Hjalmer Petri, said at an earlier hearing the magazine article indicated the secretary-general placed a bomb on board the plane which crashed in what was then Northern Rhodesia, now Zambia, four years ago, killing him and 15 other persons.

Petri said the magazine also published statements indicating Dag Hammarskjold was a homosexual.

Last month the Swedish newspaper Sydsvenska Dag-Bladet was found guilty of defamation for publishing a similar article and the chief editor ordered to pay 10,000 kroner (about $2,000) damages.

He has lodged an appeal against the decision.

UN Asked for Time

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Canada called Monday for a longer mandate—perhaps three years—to facilitate the work of the United Nations Relief and Work Agency for Palestine refugees in the Middle East.

Canadian delegate Paul Beaulieu told the UN General Assembly's special political committee that Canada agrees with the agency's Commissioner-General Laurence Michelmore that a longer mandate is needed if he is to organize his program on a stable and economic basis.

The present mandate, which was renewed for one year only, will expire June 30, 1966, said Beaulieu.

Beaulieu said the Canadian government has "duly noted" Michelmore's appeal for financial contributions, adding that Canada will examine the question of her contribution.

In the six-month period which ended last June, Canada had contributed $1,200,000 — $500,000 in cash, of which $200,000 was allocated for vocational training of the refugees and $700,000 in wheat and flour.

FOR AFRICAN STUDENTS

Fund Sponsors 'Guns of August'

The African Students Fund at the University of Victoria is sponsoring the first Victoria showing of the dramatic historical film, The Guns of August, at the Fox Cinema on Thursday at 7 p.m.

All proceeds from this performance will go to the fund. But the film will be shown again at 9 p.m. and on subsequent nights at 7 and 9 p.m.

"We are bringing it to Victoria because we know it will be of special interest to the many First World War veterans living here," said Gary Nixon, assistant manager at the Fox.

The Guns of August was originally a book by Barbara W. Tuchman which won the Pulitzer Prize for 1963.

Producers Nathan Kroll and Lawrence White have transferred it to the screen by using actual photographs and moving pictures taken before and during the war.

This required months of research in four government archives and the libraries of collectors, news services, magazines and newspapers. The finished production was made from more than 150,000 feet of film and some 1,200 photographs, skilfully edited to present the dramatic impact of the war.

Of the film which has been evolved from her book, Mrs. Tuchman writes:

"It reveals what the world and its people looked like at the moment when the clock struck in modern history. The First World War lies like a band of scorched earth between that world and ours and Mr. Kroll has collected extraordinary pictures of that lost rich age."

Two Indians Awarded College Scholarships

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two $300 university scholarships were among the eight awards given to outstanding British Columbia Indian students here Tuesday.

Also awarded were three cultural scholarships, two vocational scholarships and a nursing scholarship. The awards were presented by Immigration Minister Nicholson.

The university scholarships were awarded to Theresa Nahanee, 19, and Richard Band, 21, both of the Squamish Band.

Last year, Miss Nahanee completed her second year of arts at Notre Dame University at Nelson and Mr. Band completed his second year of arts at the University of B.C.

The cultural scholaships were given to Saul Terry, 23, of the Bridge River Band, near Lillooet, Daniel Gonu, 24, of the Gitlakdamix Band, near Terrace, and Shirley Sterling, 17, of the Lower Nicola Band, near Merritt.

Mr. Terry and Mr. Gonu received scholarships of $300 and Miss Sterling $150.

The vocational scholarships were awarded to Roger Spence, 21, of the Cooks Ferry Band, near Merritt, and Eugene Louie, 20, of the Sliammon Band, near Powell River. Both received scholarships of $250.

Mr. Spence is enrolled at the B.C. Institute of Technology and Mr. Louie at B.C. Vocational School in Burnaby.

The $300 nursing scholarship was given to Seraphine Ned, 24, of the Upper Nicola Band, near Merritt. Miss Ned, a registered nurse, is doing post graduate work at UBC.

Masquerade Dance Set

A masquerade dance will be held Saturday by Langford Buffalo Lodge members, the first dance on the new floor of the Buffalo Hall, 1011 Goldstream Ave.

Door prizes, spot dance prizes and best costume awards will be given and clam chowder will be served.

Music will be by the Colwoodairs.

SHE DEMANDS RIGHT TO PAY

VARESE, Italy (AP)—Antonia Biasini, 84, filed a formal protest Tuesday against the village council of nearby Casalzuigno, demanding the right to pay taxes. The woman, living on a pension, said her name had been left off the communal tax list this year and declared: "I won't stand for it. Everyone must contribute to meet the public expenses."

SOLUTION FRIDAY

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Danny Boher, age 13, of Charlotte, N.C., for his question:

Why Isn't Rain Water Salty?

This is a very logical question. Clouds are formed from moisture that evaporates from the earth, and most of the surface of our planet is covered by the salty seas. At some stage in the weathery water cycle the salt is sifted out and the rain that falls is the earth's freshest water.

The water cycle is powered by the beaming sun. As the earth rotates, its warm rays evaporate moisture from every watery surface. The moisture becomes gaseous vapor that condenses into misty cloud droplets. The cloudy moisture condenses and precipitates rain and snow, hail and sleet upon the land and sea. Life on earth depends on this precipitation, and it is adapted to this supply of fresh, salt-free water. If the clouds suddenly started dousing salty water, most of the earth's plants and the animals that depend upon them would perish.

Every year some 350 billion tons of rain waiter rain down around the world, and some 80,000 cubic miles of moisture are evaporated from the sea to contribute to this precipitation. A cubic mile of sea water would fill a tank a mile high and a mile wide. Some parts of the sea are saltier than others, but an average cubic mile of ocean water contains 166 million tons of dissolved salts.

You would expect 166 million tons of salty chemicals to fall with every cubic mile of water evaporated from the sea. This does not happen because of the nature of heat evaporation and the water molecule. This frisky particle of hydrogen and oxygen is so small that we need 18 billion of them to measure one inch. It gains the frisky energy to change from liquid water to gaseous vapor from the heat of the sun.

Ocean Contains Gold

Water molecules attract each other and in liquid water this attraction links them together in a sort of follow-the-leader game. The sun's heat gives them energy to move faster. Countless molecules on the surface of the sea get up enough speed energy to break the attraction that holds them together. They become separate particles and break away to mingle with other gaseous particles of the air, but the sun does not provide enough heat to change the dissolved chemicals into gases. The salts stay behind in the ocean, and the evaporated sea water falls as fresh rain.

The chemicals in the sea are dissolved from the land by the rivers and dumped into the ocean, trace by trace. Since the evaporating water leaves its chemicals behind, the sea becomes saltier every day, and its waters contain dissolved metals and other chemicals besides salts. A cubic mile of the ocean contains about 38 tons of gold. If this evaporated with the water, we could expect golden showers to fall upon us from the clouds.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

NEW YORK—CELEBRITIES SOUND OFF: Maximillian Schell will alienate a few fans with this quote: "I missed Richard Burton's 'Hamlet,' but I don't think it would have appealed to me anyway. He doesn't look like a 'Hamlet'; perhaps more like a 'Coriolanus'."

Let me tell you, Max, I saw him, and he looked like the best Hamlet I've ever seen, including John Gielgud, whom I consider an extraordinarily splendid actor. Burton made the role come alive with tremendous strength and virility, which made Hamlet believable and fascinating, and he did it under the handicap of one of the worst supporting casts I've ever seen in any play by Shakespeare on the stage. The movies are quite different, of course; what they've done to the greatest of playwrights, between Mickey Rooney and Norma Shearer and Marlon Brando, is not to be believed unless you watch the late shows on television.

Jennifer Jones, working in "The Idol"—her first film in four years—was asked what it takes for an actress to come out of retirement. Her reply: "Two things. A good script and reassurance from her mirror."

Boris Karloff keeps up with all the latest horror magazines. "After all," he says, "I wouldn't want to be known as last year's monster."

James Fox, the cute English star of "King Rat," refuses to confirm or deny any romance rumors. "I'm terribly old-fashioned about that sort of thing," he insists with what must be tongue very much in cheek. "I hold that an actor belongs to the public only insofar as his work is concerned. What he does in his own private life is his own bloody business."

Bravo, Jimmy, but don't forget how hard you worked to get to the point where people were interested in your autograph—or your romances. If you want to assure yourself of complete privacy, get out of show business and become a bank clerk.

John Wayne tells pals that his secret ambition is to play James Bond—"That is," he adds, "if Sean Connery really meant it when he said he was tired of the role."

Sean probably did mean it, but it was ungrateful of him to say so. He could have been a little-known actor in a zillion B pictures for the rest of his life if it hadn't been for Ian Fleming's character.

Rex Harrison spent weeks growing a beard for his role as Pope Julius in "The Agony and the Ecstasy," then, at the last minute, when the cameras were ready to turn, he shaved it off. He felt it made the Renaissance pontiff look too modern. Drawled Rexy: "I was rather afraid that the beatniks would claim me as their idol."

Quit kidding, you old scene stealer. You know quite well that your coiffure isn't quite right to make you the hero of the "Mods" or the "Rocks."

Francis X. Bushman is making a film comeback—at age 83—in "Bikini Party in a Haunted House." The former dreamboat of our grandmothers said of the assignment: "It's a complete departure from anythig I have ever done. But I have a simple philosophy: yesterday is dead, tomorrow is unborn, I live today."

And may there be many more todays for you, Mr. B.

ABANDONED by its mother, this 3½-month-old wallaroo-type kangaroo is fed warm milk with an eye-dropper by an attendant at the Land Park Zoo in Sacramento, Calif. Normally Cuddles would have stayed in its mother's pouch until it was six months old. But when Cuddles was thrown out last month hand-feeding was started and now officials believe that Cuddles will survive.

New Star Emerges for GOP With Victory in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — John V. Lindsay was elected this city's first Republican mayor in 20 years early today.

The Liberal congressman's 136,000-vote victory over Democrat Abraham D. Beame marked him as a man to be reckoned with in national politics.

Beame, 59, city comptroller under retiring three - term Mayor Robert F. Wagner, had been endorsed by President Johnson, Vice-President Hubert Humphrey and Senator Robert F. Kennedy.

Lindsay, 43, won despite a 7-to-2 Democratic enrolment, and a challenge by William F. Buckley Jr., a Goldwater Republican who ran on the Conservative party ticket. Lindsay had the endorsement of the Liberal party.

Buckley is a Catholic, Beame Jewish and Lindsay Anglican.

Buckley drained votes from Beame, but his biggest gains came in sections of Queens which Lindsay won, as predicted in pre-election polls.

Beame's margin of victory in Brooklyn, the Bronx and Harlem section of Manhattan were substantial, but nowhere near as overpowering as Democrats normally are in those areas.

Lindsay won by staging a three-party "fusion" campaign in the manner of the late Fiorello La Guardia, the last Republican mayor, who left office in 1945 after three terms.

COULDN'T CARRY MATES

But Lindsay was unable to carry in his running mates—Liberal Party Chairman Timothy Costello and Democrat Milton Mollen, housing aide under Wagner.

They were defeated by Beame's Democratic team, Queens District Attorney Frank O'Connor, who won the city council presidency, and Mario Procaccino, city comptroller.

Beame was bidding to become the first Jewish mayor in a city of 8,000,000 that is nearly one-fourth Jewish.

Lindsay cut deeply into a traditionally Democratic Jewish vote and held his own in Republican areas to put together his victory. He also whittled down a bit the generally top - heavy vote Democrats usually win in Negro neighborhoods.

STATES

New Jersey — Democratic Governor Richard J. Hughes scored a record-breaking victory of more than 350,000 votes over Republican state Senator Wayne Dumont Jr. Democrats captured both houses of reapportioned legislature for first time since 1912.

Virginia — Lieutenant-Governor Mills E. Godwin Jr. elected 21st consecutive Democratic governor, defeating Republican A. Linwood Holton Jr. and Conservative William J. Story Jr. Democrats retained overwhelming legislative control.

New York — Republican Kenneth B. Keating, former U.S. senator, elected to state Court of Appeals. Republicans regained control of state Senate while Democrats appeared to be keeping majority in Assembly.

NEGRO BIDS FOR RECOUNT

CLEVELAND (AP) — State Representative Carl B. Stokes, bidding to become the first Negro mayor of a major U.S. city, fell 2,458 votes short of unseating incumbent Ralph S. Locher. Early today Stokes, 38 asked for a recount. He also asked state election officials to impound all ballots, saying, "in our opinion there are certain irregularities which constitute fraud."

Pair Sent To Assizes In Break-In

But Magistrate William Ostler refused to commit Sid Travers and Russell Bowcott, both of Victoria, for trial on the charge despite what he called "suspicious circumstances."

Evidence at the preliminary hearing showed that Remington and Lalonde were in possession of marked bills that had been in the safe at the feed store before the break-in.

Magistrate Ostler said evidence against Travers and Bowcott was only that they were on the same premises as Lalonde and Remington.

The magistrate set bail for Remington at $7,500 and for Miss Lalonde at $3,000.

Bomb Found in Hall After PM's Wild Rally

(See Page 16)

VANCOUVER (CP) — An incredible volume of more than 4,200,000 shares was traded on the Vancouver Stock Exchange in the first four hours today as buyers ignored warnings that they were dealing in speculation.

The total is near to the record all-day totals established Monday as speculators rushed to properties in the Pine Point area of the Northwest Territory buy shares in companies with ies.

In the first hour a record 1,381,000 shares were traded.

The wild pace that started with a report on a single test at the Pyramid Mines property at Pine Point brought warnings from John Van Luven, president of the exchange.

He said in a statement that the public should realize that nothing was known of the other properties except that they were near Pyramid and the rich Pine Point mine of Consolidated Mining and Smelting.

"I want the public to be made fully aware of the fact that a lot of these companies have so far only acquired property in the Pine Point area. There has been no work done on them. People should think of this before rushing to buy these stocks."

Later Mr. Van Luven said he has asked all the Pine Point companies on which there is a rush of trading to issue a press release on their properties. One company had already released a statement.

But sales continued. The Pyramid statement on its test was issued Friday when the stock was trading at $4.45 on the unlisted market.

The rush started Monday when a record 4,292,400 shares were traded. Tuesday the volume was only slightly less.

By noon today Pyramid had traded 78,300 shares and added $1.75 to its Tuesday price to reach $12.

MEET MY MOM, says Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal candidate Jim Gorst (right) when Immigration Minister John R. Nicholson dropped by Burnside campaign headquarters. Mrs. Gorst, 75, was one of about 30 people at hand-shaking, teacup-balancing reception this morning. Victoria Liberal candidate Dave Groos crossed the border from his riding for the welcome, too. Later, Mr. Nicholson addressed University of Victoria students, had lunch in Chinatown and visited with Chinese community elders. His Vancouver Centre riding includes Chinatown there.

Offered Vanderpols

By PETE LOUDON

Mr. Nicholson, here on a pre-election visit, said Mr. and Mrs. Martin Vanderpol will receive their certificate without voicing allegiance with the phrase "so help me God."

The immigration minister said he was to meet Mr. Vanderpol later today at University of Victoria where he has been taking studies.

CONSCIENCE

Mr. and Mrs. Vanderpol made headlines last July when they refused on a matter of conscience to employ the accepted oath. Judge Montague Drake reluctantly refused them citizenship saying he was bound by the Citizenship Act.

However, Mr. Nicholson today said a court decision in a similar case, that of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bergsma of Caledonia, Ont., has made the usual oath unimportant and circumvents the Citizenship Act.

"The court of appeal in Ontario has settled the law. The judge in the Bergsma case delivered the certificate to the Bergsmas," said Mr. Nicholson.

"The decision by Judge Drake was handed down before he knew the decision on the Gergsma case. We sent it to him and asked him to review it and he has done so.

"The citizenship certificate is ready for presentation, but I frankly didn't want to proceed with it until the election was over. I'd be confident that Mr. Vanderpol would re-

Fights Mar Montreal Meeting

By IAN MacDONALD
Times Ottawa Bureau

When he spoke in English they chanted: "en Francais."

And when he spoke in French they also chanted: "en Francais."

Punches were exchanged and chairs overturned as Liberal supporters tried to shove them to the exit by force of numbers.

At one time panic also swept through a part of the crowd as the strugglers swept forward, knocking over chairs by the dozen.

PICKETS ARRESTED

The separatists had put down their signs and come quietly into the hall after an exchange outside with police, which resulted in about a half-dozen being arrested.

The meeting ended without a major donnybrook, the action being confined to the area where the separatists were.

But Pearson was loudly cheered and applauded by his supporters as he played on the prosperity theme and the need for a majority government to keep it going.

And, turning to personality for about the first time in the campaign in a major way, took some swings of his own at Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker, without actually naming him. He said the Tory leadership didn't have the slightest idea of what co-operative federalism means; had criticized efforts to give Canada and not Great Britain

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson opened his final Ontario campaign swing today by telling a noon rally here the government will give financial assistance to the tourist industry, "one of Canada's most important."

He announced an accelerated depreciation program available to industries in designated areas will be extended to cover tourist facilities.

Between 200 and 300 persons filled the hotel dining room where Mr. Pearson spoke and more than 500 stood in the street outside.

He said the tourist industry is expected to be worth $1,000,000,000 by 1967.

DIEF CHARGES

Promotion Tied to Vote

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau Staff Writer

GODERICH, Ont. — Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker suggested here Tuesday that the national defence department was attempting to "scare" and "intimidate" members of the armed forces while the service vote is in progress.

"Strange things are happenning in the last couple of days, I am informed," he said. He promised if elected prime minister to take immediate steps to restore the morale of the forces which he said had sunk to a low level.

"Instructions have gone out from the headquarters, the department at Ottawa, that there are not to be any promotions without the consent of the department," he said. The Opposition leader spoke to a crowd of 400 in the afternoon.

"What is the reason for this? Is this a form of intimidation?" he demanded to know.

OTTAWA CONTROL

The directive was in the form of a telegram. It was sent out Nov. 1 to all areas and commands, cancelling any further promotions, unless special authority was received from Ottawa.

The order did three things, according to Mr. Diefenbaker:

(2)—Promotions in trade categories have been frozen.

(3)—Four must go out, before one can be promoted.

This move had undermined the services' morale, which he said was already at a very low level.

Mr. Diefenbaker suggested that a reason for the "strange order" from Ottawa was to "scare the commanding officers" with regard to the taking of the "franchise."

MILITARY VOTE

He said the result had been "uneasiness in the armed forces." Mr. Diefenbaker pointed out the taking of the military vote has started.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the low morale had resulted in part from the forces retirements. He said there was a two-page document referring to forced retirement.

One section said officers were to be retired who had become redundant. "That means," he

BOMB THREAT AT PRINCESS

LONDON (UPI)—A bomb threat has forced a heavy police guard to be placed tonight over the British Overseas Airways Super-VC10 airliner which will fly Princess Margaret to San Francisco Thursday.

The princess and her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, are scheduled to leave London airport at 11 a.m. (3 a.m. PST).

Airline security patrols and ministry of aviation police mounted an all-night watch on the plane after an anonymous male caller called the press room at London airport and said: "I feel someone in authority should know about this. An attempt will be made to bring down Princess Margaret's flight, either by a bomb or by other dubious methods."

Gas and Powder Wired to Clock

MONTREAL (CP)—"A big Molotov cocktail connected to a firing mechanism" was found Tuesday night in a hall where, minutes before, Prime Minister Pearson had addressed a big and scuffle-fraught Liberal election rally.

The description of the explosive device came from Montreal bomb-disposal police who were examining its components today.

It was found in the cavernous Showmart by building employees after the rally broke up. During the noisy meeting, police had unsuccessfully searched for a bomb following an anonymous telephone call.

The device found, one bomb-disposal officer said, was complete and "had all the reason in the world to go off."

It was discovered at a point about 200 feet from the stage where the prime minister spoke to 2,700 persons.

Before the rally started, four Quebec separatists were taken into custody when they ignored police orders to stop demonstrating in front of the Showmart's main entrance. There was no link reported between the explosives - discovery and any separatist group.

WRAPPED IN PAPER

The explosive device, wrapped in brown paper, consisted of a gallon can of what police called "an inflammable liquid most likely gasoline;" a bag of black powder immersed in the liquid and connected with two wires; and, attached to the wires, a large battery and a clock mechanism with its hands missing.

Police said they could not estimate the danger range of the explosive, since the blast might have blown out only the bottom of the can, or might have ripped out the sides too, thus giving a wider explosion range.

The primary effect would have been incendiary.

The lack of hands on the clock meant police had no way of telling when the mechanism was set to go off.

NO SPECIAL PLANS MADE

Montreal Police said no special precautions are being taken for another political rally in the same hall tonight, at which NDP Leader Douglas is to speak, or for still another with Conservative Leader Diefenbaker at the east-end Maurice Richard Arena.

Montreal NDP spokesmen also said they are making no special arrangements, but a high - ranking Conservative spokesman said the party has hired 150 police from a private police agency ot keep order inside the hall.

The spokesman added that 200 uniformed Montreal policemen would be patrolling outside. City police declined to comment on the statement, saying only that no special arrangements were being made.

Save-Area-Seats Battle Launched

A struggle for retention of all six Greater Victoria seats in the provincial legislature began this morning in Victoria Law Courts.

Alan MacFarlane, Liberal member for Oak Bay, was the first to jump into the fight with a strong brief arguing history, logic and arithmetic demand that Greater Victoria has six seats although they should be redefined.

The question was raised by Dr. Henry F. Angus, chairman of a royal commission on redistribution of provincial constituencies, who opened public hearings here with a request for opinions on whether or not the number should be cut to five.

Dr. Angus said the three Victoria seats and one each in Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt represent an average of only 15,400 voters apiece compared with the 16,790-voter average for all 52 provincial constituencies.

NORTH BOOSTED

He said it appeared the lower mainland and Kootenay Valley may have to give up some of their seats so that more could be added to the remote areas of the north, thus raising the question "whether Greater Victoria should share this burden with them and have not six members but five."

Mr. MacFarlane opposed the suggestion adamantly but said it would be more fair to take one of the Victoria seats and create a new one in Saanich.

None of the Victoria MLAs —Works Minister W. N. Chant, Waldo Skillings and J. Donald Smith—showed up for the opening. Mr. MacFarlane and Social Credit MLAs Herbert Bruch of Esquimalt and John Tisdalle of Saanich came prepared to make submissions.

"To diminish the total number of members representing lower Vancouver Island would be to defy history and logic," Mr. MacFarlane, the first, said in a written brief.

POPULATION

He said cutting the number here would not help doing justice to the provincial balance and argued that the commission "should try to achieve the ideal, namely, representation by population—and southern Vancouver Island is a good place to start."

He said this area has had six seats since the first legislature when there were a total of only

Woman Admits Arson

QUEBEC (CP) — Alma Roy-Gagnon, 53, of Sherbroke, Que., pleaded guilty today to arson and conspiracy to commit arson in connection with fires which destroyed the Beaurivage Hotel in Neuville near Quebec City and a house in Garthby in the eastern townships.

Cong Rebuffed

Pacifist Suicides by Fire Protesting U.S. Viet Role

WASHINGTON (AP)—A pacifist sacrificed himself in flames in front of the Pentagon Tuesday to protest the U.S. government's "deep military involvement" in Viet Nam.

Norman R. Morrison, a Baltimore Quaker, clutched his one-year-old baby daughter Emily in one arm as he began to burn. Screams of "drop the baby" from onlookers may have saved her life, for she fell uninjured to the ground.

Morrison, 31, drenched in kerosene, was a human torch in full view of hundreds of defence department workers and military men.

It was dusk and the Pentagon's thousands were streaming for home.

He had picked a spot within sight of Defence Secretary Robert McNamara's office window. But McNamara, in his office at the time, was unaware of the incident.

MORRISON
. . . drops baby

Army Maj. Richard Lundquist said Morrison "yelled something" as he stood on a concrete abutment.

The Washington Post quoted a Quaker friend of Morrison's as saying the dead man twice before had been dissuaded from immolating himself.

The unnamed Baltimore source said the first occasion came during a summer demonstration, and the second several weeks ago as he and others picketed outside the Pentagon.

About five hours after Morrison's death, his wife, in a statement issued through family friends, said:

"Norman Morrison has given his life today to express his concern over the great loss of life and human suffering caused by the war in Viet Nam.

"He was protesting our government's deep military involvement in this war. He felt

Lone Liberal Kept CCF Out, Says Winch

VANCOUVER (CP)—The former socialist opposition leader in the British Columbia legislature Tuesday night told the story of how but for the orders of a Liberal federal official he would have become premier.

Harold Winch broke years of silence to tell this and two other heretofore unrevealed stories at a celebration honoring his 32nd anniversary in public life.

Mr. Winch is seeking re-election as New Democratic Party member of Parliament for Vancouver East. He was first elected to the B.C. legislature in 1933, was leader of the opposition from 1941 to 1953 when he resigned and entered federal politics.

His other two stories were of an attempt to "bribe" him to give up politics and of a time the Conservatives in the legislature attempted to "double-cross" the Liberals.

Mr. Winch said in 1952 Social Credit elected 19 members and the then CCF had 18. In the 1953 sitting of the legislature, the Social Credit government invited defeat by introducing a budget unacceptable to the combined opposition which included six Liberals, two Conservatives and a Labor Independent.

WINCH

"It is tradition, and customary in the British system of government, that if a government is defeated in the first session after an election the lieutenant-governor invites any party capable of forming the government to do so," Mr. Winch said.

Mr. Winch said the CCF could have formed that government because it had received promise of support from the Conservatives and Tom Uphill, the Independent.

He said he told the then lieutenant - governor, Clarence

Arthur Mayse

The young folk of good Dr. Taylor's Finnerty Road academy are always up to something, and today I have before me the results of a pre-election poll conducted by members of a campus political club titled the Christian Atheist Party.

That name, I'm assured, has nothing whatever to do with religion or the lack of it, and club spokesmen describe the group as politically non-aligned.

On, then, to its poll results, tabulated from answers given by 425 Uvic students:

Liberals, 32.4%; New Democratic Party, 23.8%; Progressive Conservatives, 11.5%; Social Credit, 2.9%; Communist, .4%; undecided or uninterested, 30.3%.

What surprises me about these percentages is the gap they reveal between Liberal and Progressive Conservative ratings. My notion, which would appear to stand disapproved, has been that students tend to toss the old-line parties into the same basket.

As to how completely the attitudes of Canada at large are reflected by the student cross-section, we can only guess.

Sticking my own neck out a dangerous distance, I would transpose NDP and PC scores to obtain the Nov. 8 standings.

Not content with their poll, the Christian Atheists, whose name is plucked from a Steinbeck play, also whopped our local candidates over their heads with an election questionnaire.

Mrs. Vera Pipes, Socred hope for Esquimalt-Saanich, isn't represented on the answer sheets, by her own request, I'm told. But the rest are, and for the most part, they seem to have dealt faithfully with their interrogators.

"What," one question demands, "is your party's campaign budget for this constituency?"

Of the PCs, Clifford Waite didn't wish his answer printed, but George Chatterton gave the Esquimalt-Saanich figure as approximately $4,500 from local contributors and provincial headquarters.

"Adequate," Liberal James Gorst is quoted as replying. Davey Groos gave the Victoria Liberal war chest as "less than last election's," and said it came chiefly from donations.

(The survey gave Mr. Groos $1,500 weekly. I was later assured an error had been perpetrated, and that the figure indicated his campaign letter output.)

NDPs Lloyd Brereton and Leonard Stephenson claim $3,000 and $3,500 respectively.

"I do not know," the answer sheet quotes him, a touch primly, "as I have nothing to do with the campaign funds."

None of those questioned would have Canada join the Organization of American States. Most saw her ideal position as a "peacemaker" or "middle power"; Mr. Morrison preferred "neutral."

To the question, "What is your stand on Canada's sale of her water resources to the U.S.?" replies ranged so widely and in some cases whimsically that it would appear the candidates—and in fairness, Canadians at large—need very much more information than has yet been made available to them on this matter.

Capital punishment, that awkward chestnut which government can't forever leave on the fire, drew a majority—but provisional—abolition vote. Exceptions were Mr. Hunter and Mr. Morrison.

To "Should capital punishment be abolished for life imprisonment?" the Socred contender gave a flat "No," and the Communist, a firm "Yes."

From where I sit, however, the chief point of interest in this student endeavor isn't questions asked or answers given.

It is the quality of the thinking that went into the questionnaire, and the obvious interest of its sponsore in the world beyond their campus.

Just possibly, when their turn comes to run for office, and they take their own lumps from probing questioners, they'll come up with a better set of answers!

"TAKING A TRIP, Tabitha? Well, don't take up with any Toms." Exchanging catty remarks are two strays in care of Cats' Protective League, who have display and information centre for National Cat Week set up at 709 Johnson Street. The models fought, bit and scratched in true feminine—er, feline fashion before photographer Bill Halkett could catch them, perched inside Kitty Kaddy, latest means of locomotion for four-legged, furred pets.

Beach, Park Work 'Severely Curbed' By Money Shortage

Financial restrictions almost strangled Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks improvements this year, Victoria parks administrator Herbert Warren today told a joint committee.

In his end-of-season report to city and Saanich delegates who administer the city-owned areas in Saanich, Mr. Warren said:

"This year's activities were severely restricted and meant holding the line. Therefore, scarcely any new work was undertaken."

This was due to proposed development at Mount Douglas Park, he said.

The administrator submitted a list of work needing to be done, adding the sanding of all beaches.

"This list is the same as submitted at this time in 1964, which points up the fact that we are not making much progress," Mr. Warren's report said.

At the same time, use of the semi-urban recreation areas jumped by nearly 25 per cent over the 1964 season, he said.

The count showed 87,650 persons made use of Hamsterly Beach, 76,250 used Beaver Lake and 42,450 went to Eagle Park.

There were 28 large, organized picnics at the latter.

Recommendations include modernizing toilets at Mount Douglas Park; removal of dangerous stumps, extension of beach, picnic facilities and weed control at Eagle Park; removal of underwater stumps and general repair and improvement at Beaver Lake.

The future should also include acquisition of private property on the west side of Elk Lake between the water and the old Victoria-Sidney Railway to make the shore accessible to hikers, Mr. Warren said.

Chief Poses Burning Question

Danger of spontaneous combustion in tons of mill waste used to fill old filter beds at Beaver Lake Park was scored today by Saanich fire chief J. C. Sutherland.

Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee was told the land fill operation had been suspended until more money is available to buy sub-soil topping for the sawdust waste.

Fire chief Sutherland said he found waste smouldering in several places when he inspected the site last month.

"The situation is not as serious as it appears," parks administrator Herbert Warren told the committee.

'FERMENTING'

"It wasn't burning, it was fermenting."

"Much like a compost pile?" Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis asked.

"Yes, or manure pile," Mr. Warren said.

To satisfy the fire department means trucking in soil, for which there are no funds left this year.

The committee deferred the land fill question to its first meeting next year.

The chief also complained that too much material was allowed to accumulate before being spread out, with the result that access roads were obstructed.

New House Faces Wrecking Prospect In Setback Ruling

A man having a new home built in Oak Bay may be forced to tear it down.

The home is being built at 532 Beach Drive and is 70 per cent completed, Oak Bay council learned Monday night.

The dwelling is violating municipal setback regulations as it is two feet too close to Beach Drive on one corner.

Builder Walter Wilson, 3391 Veteran Street, asked permission for the home to remain in its present position.

Council refused.

"We can't approve a breech of a bylaw," commented Reeve Allan Cox.

Mr. Wilson will be advised by council to take his application to the zoning appeal board.

Automatic Increases Set In Compensation Benefits

Retroactive Money In Mail by Dec. 1

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson today announced a major revision of workmen's compensation benefits and pensions — introducing a system for automatic increases in the future — which will cost about $20 million to cover existing cases alone.

For 1,965 widows it means a $275 retroactive cheque, and between $55 and $500 for each of their 2,167 children—depending on age and school status—by the beginning of December.

WCB chairman J. E. Eades, QC, told The Times from Vancouver his organization will send out the cheques as rapidly as possible and "certainly I'll be surprised and very disappointed if they aren't in the mail by Dec. 1."

Besides the widows and children, the WCB has 11,600 disability pensioners on its roll and it pays an average of 30,000 time-loss cheques in the course of a year—all of which will be increased.

The government will set a precedent by splitting the cost of retroactive increases with industry.

But all new cases after Jan. 1, 1966, will be paid the higher benefits entirely by industry's cost—the traditional situation—through the normal assessments levied by the WCB.

The new benefits provide higher pensions for widows, higher allowances for longer periods to their children, higher minimum allowances to disabled workers and introduce a cost of living bonus for the first time.

They were signed into law by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes in the form of an order-in-council under a prior authorization given by last spring's legislature.

It was the first major revision of the Workmen's Compensation Act in 11 years and was based on interim recommendations of the Tysoe Royal Commission.

All Retroactive to Jan. 1

The new benefits are retroactive to Jan. 1 of this year. They provide:

- An increase from $90 to $115 a month for dependent widows and invalid widowers;
- An increase from $35 to $40 a month for an allowance for each child of the pensioners under 16;
- An entirely new category of $45 monthly allowance for the same children between the ages of 16 and 18 if they are still going to school;
- Another new category raising the allowance to $50 for the same children between 18 and 21 if they are still going to school;
- A maximum lump sum settlement for a pensioned widow of $2,500 on remarriage, instead of the present $1,500 limit;
- An increase in the minimum compensation payable to disabled workers from the present $22 a month to a new "floor" of $30 a month;

An increase in the funeral and burial allowance from the present $250 to $350, effective last Nov. 1.

Two other provisions will have far-reaching effects on future disability payments.

The maximum annual earnings "base" of $5,000 used in calculating the individual payments will be raised to $6,600, the highest in Canada.

And an entirely new section has been written into the act under which all payments are to be increased automatically in 2 per cent increments every time the bureau of statistics consumer price index rises 2 per cent over the base year of 1964.

Mr. Peterson said the allowances will not be cut as a result of any decrease in the index.

He also pointed out that the automatic feature is likely to eliminate any need for royal commissions to review the act in the future as has been the rule in the past.

Many Companies Disappeared

The government will pay half of the estimated $20 million for the fund to take care of increases for the existing cases because many of them involve employees of companies that have disappeared.

"We felt it would be unfair to assess today's industries for the entire cost of the increases to these people," said Mr. Peterson. "But industry will bear the full cost, as usual, for all new cases at the higher rates."

The fund will be capitalized to provide annual interest income sufficient to cover the difference between old and new benefits for the existing cases as long as needed.

The new rates were based on interim recommendations of Mr. Justice C. W. Tysoe who completed the inquiry late last year. It was begun three years ago by the late Chief Justice A. C. Desbrisay.

Final report, including recommendations regarding administration practices of the board, is not expected for another month or so, Mr. Pearson said.

Mr. Peterson said that, as education minister, he was gratified to see Judge Tysoe's recommendation for increasing the age range and the size of the monthly allowance for widows' children attending school.

"This recognizes that it is more costly, for clothes and other things, to support an older child at school."

The last revisions to the act followed a royal commission headed by the late Chief Justice Gordon Sloan in 1954.

"Royal commissions have been the usual method employed to determine revisions needed," said Mr. Peterson. "Judge Tysoe recommended the consumer price index factor so that increases could be more automatic and not fall behind need as happens when they must depend on arbitrary decisions of the legislature."

Murder Trial Opens Here On Nov. 22

McIntyre Named Crown Prosecutor

The trial of David Leonard Robinson on a charge of murdering Susan Freschi, 14-year-old California schoolgirl, will begin in Victoria Law Courts on Monday, Nov. 22, at 11 a.m.

Susan Freschi's naked body was found in the woods near her temporary home at View Royal on May 12 last.

AUGUST HEARING

Preliminary hearing was held in central magistrate's court last August.

The Fall Assizes open Tuesday, Nov. 9, at 11 a.m., with the trial of Gerald Brune, Sidney Travers and Russell Bowcott on a charge of breaking and entering and theft of a safe from the Fairfield Pharmacy, 300 Cook Street, on July 6 last.

Crown prosecutor in the trial is Louis F. Lindholm. Alan Bigelow is defending Brune and Dermod Owen-Flood will appear for Travers and Bowcott.

Scheduled for hearing Nov. 15 at 11 a.m. is the trial of Mary Jean Bilton, 3138 Cook Street, charged with manslaughter involving the death of her six-month-old baby girl last June.

The body of the child was found in a crib about two weeks after death.

18-Month Term For Bad Cheque

Cashing a bad cheque for $150 resulted in an 18-months jail sentence today for Dennis Breeze, no fixed address.

Breeze, who has four previous convictions for car theft and six for assault, pleaded guilty.

Loaded Guns in Car Cost City Man $50

Sooke Magistrate Eugene Murphy also ordered that two guns belonging to Lawrence May, 770 Queens, be confiscated.

The magistrate noted that one rifle was defective and the other had holes drilled in the muzzle to reduce noise. He pointed out that the circumstances of the case brought it under the provisions of the "pit-lamping" section of the game laws.

Magistrate Murphy said anyone found with firearms at night in an area where deer are usually found may be prosecuted under the pit-lamping law that carries a minimum penalty of $500.

Police gave evidence that May was caught with loaded weapons during a routine check on the West Coast Road between Jordan River and Port Renfrew. He was checked at 1:30 on the morning of Oct. 22.

HELP SCORE FAIR SHARE GOAL

United Appeal total rose to an even 70 per cent today—with an encouraging $307,592 in the campaign kitty.

The figure represents a boost of over 7 per cent since Monday, the day the fund drive was officially extended in order to reach its goal.

United Appeal booth at corner of Yates and Douglas took in $458.50 on Tuesday, the best day so far.

The booth, opened as a convenience to downtown donors, has so far taken in a total of $1,700.

Another good omen, according to campaign officials, was confirmation of a pledge for $2,300 from employees of B.C. Hydro in Victoria.

Two second-time winners of the appeal's award of excellence were named today. They are the Royal Bank of Canada, 1102 Fort St., and King Bros. Ltd.

Both had 100 per cent employee participation in fund drive, with equivalent of one day's pay or more from each employee.

'BULLETS DON'T UNDERSTAND'

Peter Havas, 930 McClure, couldn't wait to test a rifle he bought Oct. 12.

And today Havas was fined $15 for unlawfully firing a gun within the city limits. He was allowed to have the gun back.

Havas told Magistrate William Ostler that he thought it was permissible to fire the rifle on his own property.

Replied the magistrate: "Unfortunately bullets don't understand they have to stay on your property."

'WHAT'S GOING ON?'

City Family Aboard Troubled Raffaello

Lou Holker, 2535 Killarney Place, phoned a friend in the city from aboard the liner Raffaello in mid-Atlantic Tuesday evening.

"He said the ship had turned back for Italy, the passengers weren't being told why, and he wanted me to find out," said the friend, John Damgaard, 3815 Cadboro Bay.

"They were limping back to Genoa, Italy, and he said they (The Holkers) planned to fly home from there," said Mr. Damgaard.

"He wanted to know what was wrong."

SECOND TRIP

With Mr. Holker are his wife, and son Brian, 21.

They were returning home after a month and half tour of Europe.

The Holkers' travel agent, Bill Ferguson of Totem Travel Service, heard this morning from New York via Vancouver that "electrical trouble" was what caused the liner to turn back.

No details were given, except that the Raffaello's next two sailings were being cancelled. No reason was given why the liner headed back to Italy instead of proceeding to New York, only a day away.

FOUR DAYS OUT

She was scheduled to arrive in New York today, but is returning to Genoa, which she left on Oct. 26.

Mr. Damgaard said Mr. and Mrs. Holker have witnessed or narrowly missed two other mishaps at sea.

One was on the liner Oriana, which was rammed by an aircraft carrier in Los Angeles in December, 1962.

"He's always there," said Mr. Damgaard of Mr. Holker.

TOPICS of the DAY

On a one-day visit to Victoria Thursday, Canadian author Farley Mowat will autograph copies of his books in Eaton's book department from 3 to 4 p.m.

His most recent publication, West Viking, is a modern-day saga in which he retraces the voyages by sea of the ancient Vikings.

An earlier book, The Desperate People, roused controversy with a scathing attack on the handling of Eskimo problems by Canada's northern affairs department.

Monday the other person involved, Peter Cloutier, pleaded guilty and was also remanded for sentence.

Detective Richard Berry said today that police have recovered about $460 worth of women's apparel stolen in the $700 break-in. He said Larson kept the clothes in a locker after the theft.

Youth Admits Theft From Boss

A young man who pleaded guilty to stealing $160 from his employer was remanded Tuesday to Friday for sentence.

Dennis Morgan, 2861 Carlow, pocketed payments for goods he sold at Suburban Motors, according to evidence given by Saanich detective Norman Baker. Morgan later cancelled the office copy of the sales receipts he gave out for payment.

Hit-Run Driver Jailed 8 Months

An eight-month jail sentence was imposed Tuesday on a man who pleaded guilty to hit-and-run driving and driving while disqualified.

Cream Jugs In Cafes Investigated

The provincial health department has ordered an investigation into the conditions under which cream is supplied in local cafes.

Inspectors have been asked to look out for cream placed in jugs and to report if it might constitute a threat to health.

In many cases, the article said, cream was poured into jugs and laid out on tables.

This could lead to formation of bacteria in the cream which affects the lower intestines.

Deputy health minister James A. Taylor said today: "I've asked the inspectors to look into the matter.

"They will report back on whether there's any problem in this respect in the province."

He added: "I don't think there's any cause for worry. Most dairies supply cream in plastic containers which cuts out the human handling element."

GROOS TELLS MEETING

'Election Was Needed Now To Get Liberal Majority'

By AB KENT

Victoria Liberal candidate David Groos said Tuesday he is glad the so-called "unnecessary election" is upon the country.

He predicted in a campaign gathering of 25 persons in Sir James Douglas School that government after next Monday will be better because it will be a majority for Prime Minister Pearson.

"I'm glad this time of testing is upon us, particularly when in the day to day business of government we never knew whether we were going to be defeated the next day," he said.

The Liberal program envisaged needs a "clear mandate of the people," he said, quoting a phrase used by John Diefenbaker when he was prime minister.

"I'm convinced we'll come out of it with a majority . . . and get on with the business of running the government for four years without interruption," Mr. Groos said.

He said the parliamentary system was never meant to have minority government indefinitely.

Although he was elected in the spring of 1963, Mr. Groos said he still feels "a new boy" in Parliament, which he finds "a thrilling place" to be and in having an influence on decisions made there.

OUTLINES STRIDES

He outlined the strides he said were made by the Liberals since then, from the rescue of the dollar and pegging at 92½ cents, to stabilization of foreign trade balance, the end of deficit financing, slashing unemployment by 228,000 and creation of an atmosphere of business expansion and long-range job planning.

The balance of payments alone resulted in 20,000 new jobs through the Canada-U.S. automobile trade agreement, Mr. Groos said.

"This should be trumpeted . . . If this is a bad deal, let's have more like it."

The idea could be expanded to a similar "little common market" that would be of special benefit to the west coast through the lumber, plywood and newsprint industry, the candidate said.

Canada should find a way of entering further into the vast U.S. market, he said.

In response to a question, Mr. Groos said the difference between Liberal and Conservative parties is essentially that the Liberals believe in freer trade and closing the gap between the very rich and the very poor.

Liberals also go for long-term planning.

But Conservatives favor restrictive tariffs and deficit financing, he said.

LIBERAL POLICY

Conservative policy used to mean financial responsibility, or pay-as-you-go.

"But somehow or other this seems to have been forgotten and now is a mark of Liberal policy," Mr. Groos said.

The candidate spoke in favor of a non-political B.C. bank, entry of Red China to the United Nations and greater federal participation in education.

As an ex-service man he said he thought little of Mr. Diefenbaker's proposal to create a federal forest firefighting force with the armed services.

MILITARY ROLE

"Every member of the armed services remembers the survival and firefighting role" imposed by Mr. Diefenbaker's government on the militia.

Now the reserves have returned to their fighting and military role "as an integral part of Canada's forces. I think that is what our forces are for," he said.

Union Vet's Funeral On Saturday

Funeral service will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. in Sands Mortuary for Harry Doidge, 93, a pioneer Victoria trade unionist who died Tuesday.

He was born in Devonshire, England, and lived here since 1908.

He held a life membership in the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers' International Union of America and in 1958 was given a gold card to commemorate his 50 years with the union in Victoria.

He had been in the trade since age 17 in England.

Mr. Doidge built his own house at 171 Bushby Street in 1914 and worked on the CPR Building on Belleville, the Crystal Garden and he put "the face on the clock of the old Normal School," now a part of the University of Victoria, Lansdowne campus.

He was also a member of Court Victoria, Ancient Order of Foresters.

Survivors include: three sons, Leslie, Arch and Clarence, all of Victoria; one grandson, Lloyd of Vancouver; a granddaughter, Mrs. H. Gerrard; two great-granddaughters; one brother and one sister, all of Victoria.

He was predeceased by his wife Ellen Edith in 1950.

Estate Value Rises

Value of Victoria's McPherson bequest has risen by $150,000 since early September Mayor R. B. Wilson reported Tuesday.

He said the value of the estate to the city stands at more than $2.9 million, of which $2.5 million is liquidated to cash or bonds and short-term notes.

"There is more in cash now than the value of the estate when Mr. McPherson died," the mayor said.

Thomas Shanks McPherson left the bulk of his estate to Victoria and the University of Victoria, specifying $2 million should go to the university.

By the end of this year the liquidated portion of the city's share will stand at $1.2 million, the mayor said, and liquidation will be complete well within the five-year waiting period before the estate can be claimed — Dec. 31, 1967.

The city has built Centennial Square largely through McPherson money and in order to do this has had authority from the legislature to borrow $750,000 against the estate.

Another request to borrow $450,000 will be made to permit reconstruction of Royal Athletic Park.

If the authority is given and the project goes ahead, about $1.8 million would remain unspent, probably sufficient to enable the city to make a proposed indoor sports-conventino-exhibition complex at Memorial Arena site.

SUSPECTED of supplying cannon used in $400,000 Brinks robbery in Syracuse is Jack Frank, 33, of Freeport, N.Y., who will be prosecuted in Albany, N.Y.—(AP Wirephoto).

FURS FETCH LESS

The fur trapping business in Ontario declined four per cent from 1964 to 1965, with a total value of about $850,000.

CIVIL SERVICE RAISES ASKED

Ottawa Warned of Worker Unrest

OTTAWA (CP) — The Staff Side Conference of civil service organizations warned the federal cabinet today there is "serious discontent" among 75,000 government workers in the A and B pay groups.

In a letter to Prime Minister Pearson, the organization appealed for an immediate salary increase for the two groups. It said pay schedules are far out of line with similar jobs in private industry.

The letter proposed an increase of at least four per cent for the 9,000 professionals in Group A and 6½ per cent for the 67,000 clerical and administrative workers in Group B.

It urged that the Group A boosts be made retroactive to July 1, 1964, and those in Group B to Oct. 1, 1964.

In August the government approved a series of special increases for the 58,000 employees covered in Group D—postal, immigration and customs workers. This stemmed from the special pay study that followed the cross-country postal strike.

Groups A and B were given increases last year but these led to protests from the employee groups on grounds of inadequacy.

Today's letter complained that the cabinet has been reducing the wage recommendations produced by a special section of the civil service commission.

Pay scales of federal workers are studied in four groups—A, B, C and D. There was no mention in the letter of Group C, covering hospital workers.

Hospital Honors Retiring Aide

She had been a nurses' aide for 34 years.

Careful there!

This tobacco seedling hopes to grow to be a Sportsman Cigarette

From this tiny seedling, nestling in the palm of a grower's hand, will come the best-tasting tobacco under the sun.

We grow these tender little plants from blue ribbon seed—the very best. And then we baby the plants along in good, rich soil with plenty of warm sunshine and cool summer rain. This is proud tobacco. As it grows strong and tall through the long, lazy days, it ripens into the best-tasting tobacco under the sun.

This is Sportsman tobacco. Gifted with real tobacco taste. Yours to enjoy in Sportsman King Size Filter Cigarettes.

HARMFUL TO CANADA

Tory Disturbed By 'Bitterness'

The Liberal election theme of a need for a majority government was attacked Tuesday night by former Conservative MP George Chatterton.

In the last Parliament, it was known to every MP that one of the three minor parties would always support the government, he said.

Prime Minister Pearson called the election because he thought the Conservatives were disunited, Mr. Chatterton told 40 persons in Hampton Hall.

'PARTISAN REASONS'

"He called it for partisan political reasons," he said.

"And it has done harm. There is a kind of cynical, bitter attitude across the country. This is unhealthy.

"Part of the cause of this feeling is the attitude of government towards wrongdoing."

Mr. Chatterton, seeking re-election in Esquimalt-Saanich, said there will always be those who are tempted.

"But it is most unfortunate if the government of the day appears to condone wrongdoing."

MISLEADING

In a 20-minute speech followed by a question period, he criticized federal government advertisements on the Canada Pension Plan as misleading.

The full-page ads in newspapers didn't tell of the shortcomings of the plan, how those in greatest need—those retired or not earning—wouldn't benefit from it.

The pension plan "discriminates heavily" against young married women, whose earnings by age 65 would be insignificant because of years at home with family, he said.

He also criticized full-page advertisements by the Liberals reproducing 1963 promises with ticks beside almost every item saying it was done or underway."

'CUNNING'

"This is the cunning type of advertisement they are putting forward," he said.

Half the items ticked off haven't been done, he said. One of them is 10,000 scholarships each for $1,000.

$100 PENSIONS

Mr. Chatterton emphasized these Conservative promises:

- A $100-a-month pension for all recipients of old-age security;
- Extension of National Housing Act loans to older homes;
- Municipal taxes (before application of the homeowner grant) up to $500 to be deductible from federal income tax;
- Abolition of the 11 per cent sales tax on building materials, which he said adds $1,000 to the cost of a new home;
- Make possible for every Canadian with ability to attend university or vocational school through increased grants;
- Revise upwards the pensions being paid to retired federal civil servants;
- Restore the 35 per cent shipbuilding subsidy.

Hockey Pool Ticket Ring Broken

MONTREAL (CP)—Tuesday night raids by provincial police and Montreal morality squads resulted in the seizure of 74,023 hockey pool tickets, printing equipment and materials. Five men were arrested in the city and suburbs. A police spokesman said today it was hoped a large lottery racket flourishing in this area will be broken within the next few weeks.

Picket Lines Withdrawn on Subway

TORONTO (CP)—About 150 members of the Laborers' Union (CLC) returned to work on Toronto's east-west subway today after the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union (CLC) withdrew picket lines at the project. The oil workers' union, on strike at British American Oil Co. refineries in Clarkson, Ont., Brandon, Moose Jaw and Vancouver since Sept. 15, had set up picket lines to protest the use of B-A products by a construction firm working on the subway.

Smallpox Kills 46 In Nigeria

LAGOS (Reuters)—Forty-six persons have died in an outbreak of smallpox in Akabor, Eastern Nigeria, it was announced today.

Nigerian Trade Minister Raphael Okafor, who represents the area in which Akabor is located, launched a relief fund to rehabilitate victims' dependents.

Norway to Boycott NATO Meet

OSLO (Reuters)—Norway is unlikely to attend a NATO defence ministers' meeting in Paris this month because it has already stated its opposition to a mixed-manned NATO nuclear force, a well-informed Norwegian source said today. At the meeting Nov. 26 and 27 the NATO ministers will discuss proposals for creation of a NATO nuclear committee. Franc, Portugal, Iceland and Luxembourg have already informed NATO officials that they will not participate.

BA Strikers Picket In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—About 45 striking oil refinery workers from Clarkson, near Toronto, paraded on Parliament Hill today to draw national attention to a six-week walkout over automation and other issues.

The marchers carried placards and passed out pamphlets branding their employer, British American Oil Co., "grossly unfair" for continuing to operate the Clarkson refinery with supervisory personnel and refusing to negotiate with the union.

Save-Area-Seats Battle Launched

A struggle for retention of all six Greater Victoria seats in the provincial legislature began this morning in Victoria Law Courts.

Alan MacFarlane, Liberal member for Oak Bay, was the first to jump into the fight with a strong brief arguing history, logic and arithmetic demand that Greater Victoria has six seats although they should be redefined.

The question was raised by Dr. Henry F. Angus, chairman of a royal commission on redistribution of provincial constituencies, who opened public hearings here with a request for opinions on whether or not the number should be cut to five.

Dr. Angus said the three Victoria seats and one each in Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt represent an average of only 15,400 voters apiece compared with the 16,790-voter average for all 52 provincial constituencies.

NORTH BOOSTED

He said it appeared the lower mainland and Kootenay Valley may have to give up some of their seats so that more could be added to the remote areas of the north, thus raising the question "whether Greater Victoria should share this burden with them and have not six members but five."

Mr. MacFarlane opposed the suggestion adamantly but said it would be more fair to take one of the Victoria seats and create a new one in Saanich.

None of the Victoria MLAs —Works Minister W. N. Chant, Waldo Skillings and J. Donald Smith—showed up for the opening. Mr. MacFarlane and Social Credit MLAs Herbert Bruch of Esquimalt and John Tisdalle of Saanich came prepared to make submissions.

"To diminish the total number of members representing lower Vancouver Island would be to defy history and logic," Mr. MacFarlane, the first, said in a written brief.

POPULATION

He said cutting the number here would not help doing justice to the provincial balance and argued that the commission "should try to achieve the ideal, namely, representation by population—and southern Vancouver Island is a good place to start."

He said this area has had six seats since the first legislature when there were a total of only

Explosive In Hall After Pearson Rally

MONTREAL (CP)—"A big Molotov cocktail connected to a firing mechanism" was found Tuesday night in a hall where, minutes before, Prime Minister Pearson had addressed a big and scuffle-fraught Liberal election rally.

The description of the explosive device came from Montreal bomb-disposal police who were examining its components today.

It was found in the cavernous Showmart by building employees after the rally broke up. During the noisy meeting, police had unsuccessfully searched for a bomb following an anonymous telephone call.

The device found, one bomb-disposal officer said, was complete and "had all the reason in the world to go off."

It was discovered at a point about 200 feet from the stage where the prime minister spoke to 2,700 persons.

Before the rally started, four Quebec separatists were taken into custody when they ignored police orders to stop demonstrating in front of the Showmart's main entrance. There was no link reported between the explosives - discovery and any separatist group.

WRAPPED IN PAPER

The explosive device, wrapped in brown paper, consisted of a gallon can of what police called "an inflammable liquid most likely gasoline;" a bag of black powder immersed in the liquid and connected with two wires; and, attached to the wires, a large battery and a clock mechanism with its hands missing.

Police said they could not estimate the danger range of the explosive, since the blast might have blown out only the bottom of the can, or might have ripped out the sides too, thus giving a wider explosion range.

The primary effect would have been incendiary.

The lack of hands on the clock meant police had no way of telling when the mechanism was set to go off.

NO SPECIAL PLANS MADE

Montreal police said no special precautions are being taken for another political rally in the same hall tonight, at which NDP Leader Douglas is to speak, or for still another with Conservative Leader Diefenbaker at the east-end Maurice Richard Arena.

Montreal NDP spokesmen, also said they are making no special arrangements, but a high - ranking Conservative spokesman said the party has hired 150 police from a private police agency ot keep order inside the hall.

The spokesman added that 200 uniformed Montreal policemen would be patrolling outside. City police declined to comment on the statement, saying only that no special arrangements were being made.

Fights Mar Montreal Meeting

By IAN MacDONALD
Times Ottawa Bureau

Prime Minister Pearson just couldn't please a small but determined group of hecklers in a crowd of 2,700.

When he spoke in English they chanted: "en Francais."

And when he spoke in French they also chanted: "en Francais."

Punches were exchanged and chairs overturned as Liberal supporters tried to shove them to the exit by force of numbers.

At one time panic also swept through a part of the crowd as the strugglers swept forward, knocking over chairs by the dozen.

PICKETS ARRESTED

The separatists had put down their signs and come quietly into the hall after an exchange outside with police, which resulted in about a half-dozen being arrested.

The meeting ended without a major donnybrook, the action being confined to the area where the separatists were.

But Pearson was loudly cheered and applauded by his supporters as he played on the prosperity theme and the need for a majority government to keep it going.

And, turning to personality for about the first time in the campaign in a major way, took some swings of his own at Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker, without actually naming him. He said the Tory leadership didn't have the slightest idea of what co-operative federalism means; had criticized efforts to give Canada and not Great Britain

By PETE LOUDON

Mr. Nicholson, here on a pre-election visit, said Mr. and Mrs. Martin Vanderpol will receive their certificate without voicing allegiance with the phrase "so help me God."

The immigration minister said he was to meet Mr. Vanderpol later today at University of Victoria where he has been taking studies.

CONSCIENCE

Mr. and Mrs. Vanderpol made headlines last July when they refused on a matter of conscience to employ the accepted oath. Judge Montague Drake reluctantly refused them citizenship saying he was bound by the Citizenship Act.

However, Mr. Nicholson today said a court decision in a similar case, that of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bergsma of Caledonia, Ont., has made the usual oath unimportant and circumvents the Citizenship Act.

"The court of appeal in Ontario has settled the law. The judge in the Bergsma case delivered the certificate to the Bergsmas," said Mr. Nicholson.

"The decision by Judge Drake was handed down before he knew the decision on the Bergsma case. We sent it to him and asked him to review it and he has done so.

"The citizenship certificate is ready for presentation, but I frankly didn't want to proceed with it until the election was over. I'd be confident that Mr. Vanderpol would re-

Margaret's Plane Under Heavy Guard

LONDON (AP) — The super VC-10 jet airliner scheduled to fly Princess Margaret and her husband to the United States Thursday was under heavy guard after a mysterious bomb threat, airport authorities disclosed tonight.

A spokesman for British Overseas Airways Corporation said: "We have been told about the threat. Our security people with the ministry of aviation police will be guarding the airport during the night."

Earlier, a caller telephoned correspondents at London Airport and said he was speaking from a billiard hall in London's Soho district "on the strength of a strong whisper."

WOULDN'T GIVE NAME

He refused to give his name but said:

"I feel someone in authority should know about this. An attempt will be made to bring down Princess Margaret's flight, either by a bomb or other dubious methods."

Later, the BOAC spokesman said the aircraft was searched but no bomb found.

"The VC-10 would have been under a security guard in any case as royalty are going to be flying in it," he said. "Now civil aviation constabulary and BOAC security officers are guarding both the aircraft and the airport."

6 Million Shares Traded

VANCOUVER (CP) — Trading on the Vancouver Stock Exchange rose to a record 6,610,337 today in a continuation of wild buying and selling that saw Pyramid Mines rise to $15.25.

Pyramid, the starter of the three-day splurge of trading that has broken all records on the exchange, announced just before close that a second successful test hole has been drilled on its claims at Pine Point in The Northwest Territories.

Pyramid earlier had traded around $12. It reached $13 at noon and fell to as low as $11 later. Then came announcement of the second successful test.

The trading in Pyramid has been parallelled by trading in companies with claims in the same general Pine Point area.

Mr. Irwin said only two companies in the area have proven they have ore — Pyramid and neighboring Pine Point Mines controlled by the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co.

"The public should pay some attention to these facts," he said.

EARLY RUSH

In the first hour a record 1,381,000 shares were traded.

Promotion Tied to Vote

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau Staff Writer

GODERICH, Ont. — Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker suggested here Tuesday that the national defence department was attempting to "scare" and "intimidate" members of the armed forces while the service vote is in progress.

"Strange things are happening in the last couple of days, I am informed," he said. He promised if elected prime minister to take immediate steps to restore the morale of the forces which he said had sunk to a low level.

"Instructions have gone out from the headquarters, the department at Ottawa, that there are not to be any promotions without the consent of the department," he said. The Opposition leader spoke to a crowd of 400 in the afternoon.

"What is the reason for this? Is this a form of intimidation?" he demanded to know.

OTTAWA CONTROL

The directive was in the form of a telegram. It was sent out Nov. 1 to all areas and commands, cancelling any further promotions, unless special authority was received from Ottawa.

The order did three things, according to Mr. Diefenbaker:

(2)—Promotions in trade categories have been frozen.

(3)—Four must go out, before one can be promoted.

This move had undermined the services' morale, which he said was already at a very low level.

Mr. Diefenbaker suggested that a reason for the "strange order" from Ottawa was to "scare the commanding officers" with regard to the taking of the "franchise."

MILITARY VOTE

He said the result had been "uneasiness in the armed forces." Mr. Diefenbaker pointed out the taking of the military vote has started.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the low morale had resulted in part from the forces retirements. He said there was a two-page document rererring to forced retirement.

One section said officers were to be retired who had become redundant. "That means," he

Lone Grit Kept CCF Out—Winch

VANCOUVER (CP)—The former socialist opposition leader in the British Columbia legislature Tuesday night told the story of how but for the orders of a Liberal federal official he would have become premier.

Harold Winch broke years of silence to tell this and two other heretofore unrevealed stories at a celebration honoring his 32nd anniversary in public life.

Mr. Winch is seeking re-election as New Democratic Party member of Parliament for Vancouver East. He was first elected to the B.C. legislature in 1933, was leader of the opposition from 1941 to 1953 when he resigned and entered federal politics.

His other two stories were of an attempt to "bribe" him to give up politics and of a time the Conservatives in the legislature attempted to "double-cross" the Liberals.

Mr. Winch said in 1952 Social Credit elected 19 members and the then CCF had 18. In the 1953 sitting of the legislature,

Pacifist Suicides by Fire Protesting U.S. Viet Role

WASHINGTON (AP)—A pacifist sacrificed himself in flames in front of the Pentagon Tuesday to protest the U.S. government's "deep military involvement" in Viet Nam.

Norman R. Morrison, a Baltimore Quaker, clutched his one-year-old baby daughter Emily in one arm as he began to burn. Screams of "drop the baby" from onlookers may have saved her life, for she fell uninjured to the ground.

Morrison, 31, drenched in kerosene, was a human torch in full view of hundreds of defence department workers and military men.

It was dusk and the Pentagon's thousands were streaming for home.

He had picked a spot within sight of Defence Secretary Robert McNamara's office window. But McNamara, in his office at the time, was unaware of the incident.

MORRISON

Army Maj. Richard Lundquist said Morrison "yelled something" as he stood on a concrete abutment.

The Washington Post quoted a Quaker friend of Morrison's as saying the dead man twice before had been dissuaded from immolating himself.

The unnamed Baltimore source said the first occasion came during a summer demonstration, and the second several weeks ago as he and others picketed outside the Pentagon.

About five hours after Morrison's death, his wife, in a statement issued through family friends, said:

"Norman Morrison has given his life today to express his concern over the great loss of life and human suffering caused by the war in Viet Nam.

"He was protesting our government's deep military involvement in this war. He felt

ELECTION TRAILS

B.C. Ballots May Not Count

Unless there is a close contest in Monday's federal election, the indicated result should be available before the votes are counted in British Columbia starting at 7 p.m.

This is because of the time zone difference between here and other parts of the country. All polls are open between 8 a.m. and 7 p.m. local time.

This means polls in Newfoundland close 4½ hours ahead of B.C. polls and other Maritime areas close four hours ahead.

Counting in the big population areas of Ontario and Quebec will be under way three hours before polls close in B.C.

Under a 1938 federal law, eastern election results cannot be broadcast or published until polls close in later time zones. It has been claimed that before 1938 this influenced western voting.

In 1963, when there was a close vote, Canadian Press news service reported—but not for B.C. ears—at 6:21 p.m. Pacific time the Liberals would have the largest single group in the House of Commons.

By 7:52 p.m. our time, it was announced the Liberals had won the election but without a majority.

But in the 1958 Conservative landslide, the re-election of the party was reported one hour and two minutes after polls closed in Ontario and Quebec—or two hours before voting stopped in B.C.

Paris Visitor To Address Alliance Meet

Noel Balliff, Alliance Francaise speaker from Paris, will address the Victoria branch of the Alliance Nov. 16 at 8 p.m. in the Art Gallery, Moss Street.

His topic will be "Mont Saint-Michel et l'Epopee Normande."

A Paris-born author, explorer and documentary film producer, Mr. Balliff has won many awards and prizes for his work.

In 1946 he organized an expedition for the French government to study African pygmies, and in 1949 headed an expedition to the Antilles and made a prize-winning film series on the centenary of the abolition of slavery.

Other films include his Europe, Human Adventure, Persepolis, about Iran, Ispahan, la moitie du Monde, and Terre Humaine, about the United Nations.

The meeting is open to Alliance members; admission will be charged for non-members.

Alliance members will meet at 1 p.m. Monday at the Art Gallery for lunch and French conversation. Mme. E. Down will speak on Education in France at 3 p.m.

Non-members may attend and information is available from Mme. K. Stone, 383-4036, or Mme. E. Bridgen, 383-3577.

said, "you can remove anyone by saying 'sorry old fellow you have become redundant.'"

FORCED RETIREMENT

Another said members of the forces could be retired if they were unsuitable for "occupational employment," commented Mr. Diefenbaker, "whatever that means."

Another category calls for retirement of those who interfered with "the maintenance of the career structure."

In addition the compulsory retirement age had been advanced "in order to remove anyone who does not fit," said Mr. Diefenbaker.

"Those rules are red tape gone mad," he shouted. "We will take those rules and throw them out the window." His audience applauded vigorously.

"We will restore the morale of the armed forces," he said. Again there was a burst of applause.

Mr. Diefenbaker said it was a "shameful thing" that young men were being retired from the armed forces "for all sorts of excuses. He said a government under his leadership would seek to encourage young men to re-enlist. It would offer a "premium" for young men to re-enlist and in this way the forces could continue to benefit from the large investment that had been made in their training.

NEW TRIBUNAL

The opposition leader reiterated what he has already said in this campaign about providing better treatment for members of the civil service including collective bargaining. He said a special tribunal would be set up consisting of one representative appointed by the Civil Service Federation, one by the treasury board and a supreme court judge as chairman.

Mr. Diefenbaker said a government of which he was the head would allow war veterans to collect their war veterans allowances and receive the old age pension at the same time.

Speaking in this agricultural section of southwestern Ontario Mr. Diefenbaker promised a Conservative government at Ottawa would take steps to stabilize price levels. It would act to rescue the farmer from the cost price squeeze.

POSTER PICTURE

At one side of the platform from which he spoke was a large blow-up of a photograph showing Mr. Diefenbaker and Premier John Robarts of Ontario exchanging smiles. This photograph in large poster size, appears at most major political rallies addressed by Mr. Diefenbaker in Ontario.

At the front of the hall there were two Union Jacks, one Maple Leaf and one Red Ensign.

He predicted that a tide was going to grow this week in favor of the Conservatives. He noted that several newspapers had "come over" to the support of the Conservatives in their editorial pages.

TWO NATIONS

Mr. Diefenbaker said under the Liberal government Canada now has two flags, two nations and two laws.

"One law for you and me and another for Banks and Bonano and Rivard and all those others," he said.

In Toronto, Defence Minister Hellyer issued a statement saying:

"This statement of Mr. Diefenbaker's that promotions are frozen is absolutely false. Promotions are not frozen. There will be more promotions in this year than last year and there will be more than the average in each of the last five years.

"I do not know where Mr. Diefenbaker is getting his information but it is entirely wrong."

'Grits to Sleep If Get Majority'

WINNIPEG (CP) — With Prime Minister Pearson's appeal for a majority government still echoing in the rafters, NDP Leader T. C. Douglas argued in Civic Auditorium Tuesday night that a majority would put the Liberals to sleep.

He told his large audience of the campaign — 4,700 persons who filled the auditorium and spilled into a concert hall behind the main stage—that "giving the Liberals a majority is like giving Rip Van Winkle a sleeping pill."

The prime minister, Mr. Douglas charged, called the Nov. 8 election to try for a majority to avoid implementing measures the opposition would have forced on him.

Mr. Pearson could have put through a medical insurance program, increased old age pensions and turned money over to the provinces to abolish university tuition fees without an election because the NDP would have supported him, he said.

The prime minister drew an overflow crowd of more than 5,000 to the same auditorium Monday night.

A dozen youthful hecklers provided the first organized disturbances at an NDP rally in this campaign. They hooted from the back of the hall, but were herded out by police at the request of ushers.

Candidates from 12 of the province's 14 ridings were on the platform with Mr. Douglas. His speech was heard at rallies in the other two ridings through a telephone hookup.

Mr. Douglas pledged the NDP to lower National Housing Act interest rates to three per cent from 6¼. He also said an NDP government would make NHA loans available to buy existing housing.

"We feel that the burden of becoming a house owner is too heavy for those families with young children who are the very ones who should have this opportunity."

Under existing NHA rates an $18,000 home actually costs $35,000, he said.

At an airport press conference earlier Tuesday Mr. Douglas said the party is pledged to making the government's municipal loan fund a permanent corporation and placing it under the wing of a proposed department of urban affairs and housing.

Today Mr. Douglas flew to Montreal for an evening rally.

final rights to change its constitution, and one who opposed the national flag.

Some organizers later admitted the show smart was a poor choice for the rally, and the show was disappointing.

The building is longer than a football field and narrower. At the back, it was like looking at the stage through a keyhole. Although there were enough people to have filled all 2,700 chairs set out if they had sat down, organizers were not too happy about the meeting.

They said lack of organization and weather (it was a chilly, freezing night) had cut down the size of the crowd.

But there was lots of noise and enthusiasm apart from the separatists and one candidate was carried in in a kind of sedan chair and preceeded by a blaring bugle band.

Like most Quebec political meetings the speakers gave it all they had and there was an enormous platform party.

But unlike Winnipeg the night before, this meeting did not have enteratinment and stage-presentation.

Pearson was wearing a red carnation in his buttonhole and when he took the stage to thunderous applause and French equivalent of For He's a Jolly Good Fellow. An old legionaire pinned a poppy on his other lapel before he started to speak.

Pearson, who spoke for only 15 minutes, about the shortest speech of the campaign, got angry as the chanting kept up at the back and said he was going to throw away his script.

The prime minister spoke of current prosperity, low unemployment, and the need for a strong central government to ensure that the people in all parts of Canada benefit from the boom.

"Do you want a government in this country that caused its Quebec leader (Leon Balcer) to resign because he says there is no place in the party under its present leadership, no place for a French - Canada," Pearson said.

"Do you want that kind of government?" he asked.

"No," roared the crowd.

that all citizens must speak their convictions about our country's action."

Emily, one of three small children in the Morrison family, was being tended by an army nurse. She was unharmed by the experience.

Some of those who saw Morrison go up in flames scaled the concrete abutment and beat out the fire with their coats and hands. One officer suffered a badly burned hand.

Later, Dr. Stephen Sheehy, Arlington, Va., county coroner, told reporters 70 per cent of Morrison's body was covered with second and third-degree burns.

Sheehy said "the nature of the burns would indicate it was kerosene" that Morrison had poured over himself before setting the fire.

One Pentagon guard said that for about 45 minutes before the immolation he noticed Morrison walking about with the baby in one arm and a gallon - size container in the other.

A spokesman for the Stoney Run Meeting, the Quaker organization that employed Morrison as a full-time executive secretary, termed him a "spiritual leader."

Morrison was born in Erie, Pa., after graduating from Wooster College in Ohio, he studied at New College in Edinburgh and later was graduated from Pittsburgh Theology Seminary. He moved to Baltimore after teaching school in Charlotte, N.C.

Mrs. Morrison, a tall and dark - haired woman, was born in Asheville, N.C. She, too, is a Quaker.

Dundas, 40, was badly injured in an automobile accident Monday. He died in a London hospital Tuesday.

Mr. Nicholson added, "The fact that they wouldn't take the oath indicates that they consider obligations of this kind very seriously.

'BETTER CITIZEN'

"A person who couldn't take the oath on grounds of conscience is more apt to be a better citizen than one who takes it glibly."

He said the test for citizenship in Canada is whether the applicant will make a good citizen and become well-established in Canada and whether he is religious doesn't have bearing.

Mr. Nicholson remarked also on a recent statement by Conservative leader John Diefenbaker that many immigrants from iron curtain countries become tools of Communism when relatives left at home are threatened.

The situation is not a danger in Canada but must be watched, said the minister. He said before applicant immigrants are accepted they are screened in their own countries by visa officers. He admitted the procedure is more difficult in Communist-controlled countries.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Rain will continue on the south coast today until the main part of an extensive weather disturbance crosses into the interior this evening. Showers will also spread into the western interior this morning and reach eastern regions by evening. By Thursday morning the system should be in Alberta. The air following the disturbance is moist and unsettled and will make Thursday mostly cloudy with scattered showers.

warnings from John Van Luven, president of the exchange.

He said in a statement that the public should realize that nothing was known of the other properties except that they were near Pyramid and the rich Pine Point mine of Consolidated Mining and Smelting.

"I want the public to be made fully aware of the fact that a lot of these companies have so far only acquired property in the Pine Point area. There has been no work done on them. People should think of this before rushing to buy these stocks."

Later Mr. Van Luven said he has asked all the Pine Point companies on which there is a rush of trading to issue a press release on their properties. One company had already released a statement.

But sales continued. The Pyramid statement on its test was issued Friday when the stock was trading at $4.45 on the unlisted market.

The rush started Monday when a record 4,292,400 shares were traded. Tuesday the volume was only slightly less.

By noon today Pyramid had traded 78,300 shares and added $1.75 to its Tuesday price to reach $12.

Cycling Thief Caught

KITZINGEN, West Germany (AP) — A young bank robber pulled off a 4,000 mark ($1,000) holdup but was caught because his getaway transportation was not fast enough. Only 15 minutes after robbing the Kitzingen People's Bank, police caught up with Emil Hoh, 21, pedalling from the scene on a bicycle.

Cigarettes Hijacked

VANCOUVER (CP) — A truck loaded with $10,000 in cigarettes and tobacco has been hijacked from McIntosh Cartage, Ltd. A second truck, carrying $50,000 in similar merchandise had to be abondoned by the thieves when it became mired in mud.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Danny Boher, age 13, of Charlotte, N.C., for his question:

Why Isn't Rain Water Salty?

This is a very logical question. Clouds are formed from moisture that evaporates from the earth, and most of the surface of our planet is covered by the salty seas. At some stage in the weathery water cycle the salt is sifted out and the rain that falls is the earth's freshest water.

The water cycle is powered by the beaming sun. As the earth rotates, its warm rays evaporate moisture from every watery surface. The moisture becomes gaseous vapor that condenses into misty cloud droplets. The cloudy moisture condenses and precipitates rain and snow, hail and sleet upon the land and sea. Life on earth depends on this precipitation, and it is adapted to this supply of fresh, salt-free water. If the clouds suddenly started dousing salty water, most of the earth's plants and the animals that depend upon them would perish.

Every year some 350 billion tons of rain waiter rain down around the world, and some 80,000 cubic miles of moisture are evaporated from the sea to contribute to this precipitation. A cubic mile of sea water would fill a tank a mile high and a mile wide. Some parts of the sea are saltier than others, but an average cubic mile of ocean water contains 166 million tons of dissolved salts.

You would expect 166 million tons of salty chemicals to fall with every cubic mile of water evaporated from the sea. This does not happen because of the nature of heat evaporation and the water molecule. This frisky particle of hydrogen and oxygen is so small that we need 18 billion of them to measure one inch. It gains the frisky energy to change from liquid water to gaseous vapor from the heat of the sun.

Water molecules attract each other and in liquid water this attraction links them together in a sort of follow-the-leader game. The sun's heat gives them energy to move faster. Countless molecules on the surface of the sea get up enough speed energy to break the attraction that holds them together. They become separate particles and break away to mingle with other gaseous particles of the air, but the sun does not provide enough heat to change the dissolved chemicals into gases. The salts stay behind in the ocean, and the evaporated sea water falls as fresh rain.

The chemicals in the sea are dissolved from the land by the rivers and dumped into the ocean, trace by trace. Since the evaporating water leaves its chemicals behind, the sea becomes saltier every day, and its waters contain dissolved metals and other chemicals besides salts. A cubic mile of the ocean contains about 38 tons of gold. If this evaporated with the water, we could expect golden showers to fall upon us from the clouds.

the Social Credit government invited defeat by introducing a budget unacceptable to the combined opposition which included six Liberals, two Conservatives and a Labor Independent.

"It is tradition, and customary in the British system of government, that if a government is defeated in the first session after an election the lieutenant-governor invites any party capable of forming the government to do so," Mr. Winch said.

Mr. Winch said the CCF could have formed that government because it had received promise of support from the Conservatives and Tom Uphill, the Independent.

He said he told the then lieutenant - governor, Clarence Wallace, he was prepared to form a government.

'He said: 'I'm sorry Mr. Winch, but you're not going to be invited to form a government. I have my instructions from the secretary of state at Ottawa that under no circumstances will the CCF be allowed to form a coalition government.''

Mr. Winch said in 1952 after the Social Credit government was elected "the powers that be said that Winch had been around too long."

"A person approached me and said: 'If you'll get out of politics, we'll give you a lifetime contract at a wonderful salary—I don't need to tell you what my answer was to this bribe."

He said a history of B.C. politics he is writing will name names.

Mr. Winch said in 1941 no party had a majority and a "call went out to form a coalition."

"The CCF made it clear we would not enter a coalition with either the Liberals or Conservatives and the session was called without it being clear who the cabinet ministers were."

The Liberal leader told Mr. Winch one day the Conservatives demanded an additional cabinet post to the number agreed to in previous discussions. The Conservatives were also demanding a post heretofore guaranteed to the Liberals.

"He asked me what I would do in the situation. I said 'You tell the Conservatives to go to hell. Tell Maitland you're going to carry on as a minority and the CCF will support you.'"

Hart told Mr. Winch 30 minutes later the Conservatives had backed down and a coalition was formed.
